	(N.B. The gr	nay be subject to co Condition ading of this jacket in it. The appropriate	ed subject to the National Arc pyright restrictions. Further in ns of supply of the National Ar must be the same as that o upgrading slip must be affixed	formation is given in chives' leaflets the highest graded when ever necessary.)	n the 'Terms and Confor	tents checked transfer to DRO. I) MM QL.
H.T	1. LIPLOMATI		DEPT. or POST		NTEGRATION (Part 13	loj)
8.U. OR P.A.		Legal DE III	REFER	c ês.	REFER	Prince Control
ő ——	NAME pt. when necessary) ITS R	TO DATE	NAME (and dept. when necessary)	TO DATE	NAME (and dept. when necessary)	TO SEE: DA
	99.703		301		CLOSED F UNTIL
PART					Registry Address
N.	PG docum	ent contained in it. Th	of this jacket must be the san the appropriate upgrading slip mu		ghest graded r, necessary.)	YEAR ST

	113	The National Archives	ins 1
Ref.:	FCO	30 / 1048	312345

TO BE RETAINED AS TOP ENCLOSURE

Cabinet Documents

Folio		Reference		Date
101	A E (71) 7th meet	mg	17-6-71

The above-listed Cabinet document(s), which was/were enclosed on this file, has/have been removed and destroyed.

For complete series of Cabinet documents see CAB (CABINET OFFICE) CLASSES

Signed Margaret Shatwell Date 21-12:00

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this cook is smalled with case the National Archives

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

RECEIVED IN
REGISTRY No. 37
-5 JUL 1971
MWK 2 12

Mr Logan

FACTSHEET ON SOVEREIGHTY

- 1. You will wish to show Mr Royle Mr Rippon's minute below.
- 2. Meanwhile I submit a draft letter from you to the Lord President's Private Secretary. I hope I have not gone too far in voicing our continued worries about question and Answer No 16. EID feel that it would be better to leave this out.

W J Adams

European Communities Information Unit

1 July 1971

Copy to:
Mr Pakenham
Mr Statham
Mr Watts (Legal Advisers)

and the second 45
3

LETTER

P L P Davies Esq Office of the Lord President

Hr Logan

I enclose a draft on Sovereignty for inclusion in the Factsheet series "Britain and Europe". It has been cleared with the Minister and with the Law Officers. You will recall that we are committed to a Factsheet on Sovereignty.

We are rather worried about the impact on Parliamentary opinion of Question and Answer No 16.
There is no way so far as we can see of softening the wording. The fact of the primacy of Community legislation cannot be disguised. But I feel that there is a case for omitting it altogether.

If the Lord President agrees with this view, we shall however have to go back to the Law Officers. The Legal Advisers consider that this is a central question and that MP's would be bound to ask why we had dodged this matter.

As usual, time is very short. The absolute deadline for getting a text to the COI is not later than Monday, 5 July, if we are to achieve our publication target of Thursday/Friday, 15/16 July. The proposal is to issue this Factsheet in a joint edition with the new Factsheet on the Free ke of Labour which, as you know, the Department Employment want us to publish urgently.

2	cms	The National Archives	ins 1
Ref.:	FCO	30 / 1048	312349

	Registry No.	DRAFT FACTSHEET	Type 1 +
	SECURITY CLASSIFICATION		From
	Top Secret. Secret. Confidential. Restricted. Unclassified.	To:—	Telephone No. & Ext. Department
	PRIVACY MARKING
	In Confidence	SOVEREIGNTY
			ated subject which can be debated at length. Such a de	the first transfer of the second seco
2		place in this Factsheet. It	is thought to be more
A.R.G		helpful for the Factsheet to	single out some of the
Σ		practical questions which ari	se in this context a nd
Ë		to answer them as simply as p	ossible.
2
WRITTEN IN THIS MARGIN		1. Would the position of th	a Manarahy ha affaatad?
=
ΥRΣ		Joining the Common Marke
ដោ		position of the Monarchy. Th
101		members of the European Commu	nities are Monarchies,
ت ن		and two of the other applican	t States are also
Z		Monarchies.
NOTHING
Z		2. Would the constitutional	position of the Crown in Parliament be affected by ent
		Communities?	ry invo one naropean Communities would not in itself have any effect upon t	ne constitutional position
ĭ	and the second s	of the Crown in Parliament.
.		Philip April 1997 and
0 750F
1.73749
(145181). Dd.737490 750M 1/71 Hw.
$
وينتفين كروه ويوشهب			and the second s

2	cms	The National Archives	ins	1
Ref.:	FCO	30 / 1048	21	2345
			21	2242

3. By entering the European Communities would the United Kingdom cease to be regarded as a sovereign independent State in International Law?

No. There has been no question of the present members of the European Communities ceasing to be regarded as sovereign independent States because of their membership of the European Communities, and they continue, for example, to participate in international organisations such as the United Nations whose membership is open to sovereign States.

4. Would our international influence be affected?

Yes, it would be strengthened.

Inside the Community, the United Kingdom would have influence both on its own account and on account of its ability to sway decisions of the EEC which, in certain fields, e g trade, is developing the influence of a super-power. Outside the Community the United Kingdom would have no influence in determining the Community's policy and would therefore be less important in the eyes of third countries more concerned about the large impact of the EEC on their interests.

5. Would the United Kingdom retain its freedom of action in matters of foreign affairs and defence?

The United Kingdom would, by entering into the European Communities, be undertaking certain international obligations in the fields covered by the European Treaties. These obligations would, like obligations in other treaties which are binding upon the United Kingdom, affect the United Kingdom's freedom of action in the fields covered by the treaties. The treaties establishing the European Communities are, however, limited to certain economic and commercial affairs and closely related matters: these do not include defence.

6. Would the United Kingdom's existing treaties with other countries be affected?

There are some existing treaties in economic and commercial matters the continuation of which would be inconsistent with obligations under the European Treaties. The United Kingdom would need to, and intends to, secure, with the agreement of the other parties concerned, the termination of these agreements so far as they conflict with the obligations under the European Treaties (and, where appropriate, intends to negotiate new agreements in their place). Article 234 of the Treaty of Rome takes account of this situation.

7. Would the United Kingdom remain free to enter into future treaty commitments with other countries?

As with any international treaty, the United Kingdom would not in future enter into treaty commitments which were contrary to obligations contained in the Community Treaties to which the United Kingdom would be bound. These treaties, however, only impose obligations within their limited fields, and outside those fields the United Kingdom's freedom to conclude treaties with other States would not be

NOTHING TO BE WRITTEN IN THIS MARGIN

2	cms	The National Archives	ins 1
Ref.:	FCO	30 / 1048	312345
e note	e that this con	is supplied subject to the National Archives' to affected by membership of the European Communities.

8. Are the Treaties establishing the European Communities intended to last forever?

The Treaties establishing the EEC and Euratom are concluded for an unlimited period. The Treaty establishing the ECSC is concluded for fifty years.

9. Is it possible to withdraw from the Treaties establishing the European Communities?

Those treaties contain no provision expressly permitting or prohibiting withdrawal. Nor do some other important treaties to which the United Kingdom is a party, e.g. the United Nations Charter. The Community system rests on the original consent, and ultimately on the continuing consent, of Member States and hence of national Parliaments.

10. Would the procedures of Parliament be affected by membership of the European Communities?

Nothing in the Treaties establishing the European Communities requires member States to change the procedures of their legislative bodies.

II. Would Ministers continue to be responsible to Parliament?

Yes. Parliament would continue to exercise control over the actions of Ministers; and moreover Ministers would be answerable to Parliament for the part they and their officials play in the formulation of Community policy.

12. Would Parliament's freedom to legislate how it chooses be affected?

In legislating, Parliament would need to take account of the obligations assumed by the United Kingdom under the Treaties. Parliament would have to refrain (as it does in connection with other treaties) from enacting legislation contrary to those obligations.

13. Would legislative acts made by the European Communities in Brussels have effect as law in this country?

Yes. Certain provisions of Community Law, primarily Regulations made by the Council and the Commission, apply directly as law in each member State; but by far the greater part of our domestic law would be unaffected.

14. What control would Parliament have over the preparation and making of Regulations and other Community instruments, such as Directives and Decisions?

Where instruments are made by the Council of Ministers, the United Kingdom will be represented by a Minister of the Crown who will be responsible to Parliament for his actions. Members of the United Kingdom Parliament will of course be represented in the European Parliament which is required to be consulted before Community Regulations and Directives involving new policies are adopted.

1 2 cms	The Na	itional Archives	ins 1
Ref.:	co 30 /	1048	312345
lease note that	this copy is supplied subj	ect to the National Arch	nives' terms and conditions and that you formation is given in the 'Terms and

15. When a Regulation has been made, would Parliament be able to reject its application to the United Kingdom?

This would not be consistent with the treaty obligations which the United Kingdom would have assumed.

16. If a Regulation made by a Community organ conflicts with a statute enacted by Parliament, would the Regulation or the statute prevail?

Parliament would have to be willing to give effect, or enable effect to be given, to the Regulation so that it prevailed over the statute; but see the answer to the next question.

17. To what extent would the law which at present applies to the United Kingdom be affected by membership of the European Communities?

By far the greater part of our domestic law would be unaffected. The European Treaties are concerned with economic, commercial and closely related matters.

- 18. Would the common law still apply?
 Yes.
- 19. Would the procedures of our courts be affected by entry into the European Communities?

Our courts would in certain cases need to refer matters to the European Court of Justice for rulings on points of Community Law. But otherwise the workings of our courts would be unaffected.

30

20. Would there be British representatives in the various institutions of the Communities?

Yes. A British Minister would be on the Council of Ministers. There would be British Parliamentarians sitting in the European Parliament. There would be a British Judge on the European Court, and British officials on the staff of the Commission, on much the same basis as in other international organisations.

21. Would decisions be taken in the Communities whichrun counter to our national interests?

All major decisions are taken by the Council of Ministers, on which we should be represented. Although the European Treaties provide for majority voting on most matters, the member States recognise that it is not in practice possible to force another member State to act contrary to its vital national interests. As the Prime Minister said in the House of Commons after his meeting with President Pompidou ... "The maintenance and strengthening of the fabric of co-operation in _ the _ Community requires that decisions should in practice be taken by unanimous agreement when vital national interests of any one or more members are at stake."

NOTHING TO BE WRITTEN IN THIS MARGIN

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Mr Rippon Secretary of State CONFIDENTIAL

REGISTRY NO. 37 - SJUL 1971 M Statan Mullark

Q Mpm

29/6

Mr. Martana 26.6

SOVEREIGNTY AND THE EUROPEAN COMMUNITIES

- 1. I submit a Planning Paper on the question of entry into the European Communities and its effect on British Sovereignty.
- 2. The paper, which has a full covering summary, analyses the problem from a political standpoint and ventures some recommendations. In order to tackle it properly, however, it was necessary first to examine the formal and legal aspects of the subject, again from a political viewpoint. In undertaking this, our Legal Advisers have taken full account of the views of the Law Officers and believe it to be in accord with them; but the Paper is a Foreign and Commonwealth Office paper and has not been cleared outside the Office.
- 3. I also submit a draft paper on the same subject drawn from the Planning Paper but in briefer form; you may consider that this should be circulated to members of the DOP for information and as background to their wider consideration of European issues. Attached to the draft is an Annex setting out the areas in which HMG's freedom will and will not be significantly restrained.
- 4. I hope that the draft for the DOP, together with the main Planning Paper, meets the requirement for advice on Sovereignty which both the Secretary of State and you yourself expressed during May.

Denis Greenhall

Denis Greenhill

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

cc

Sir V Evans

Mr Bottomley

Sir T Brimelow

Sir C O'Neill

2 cms	The National Archives	in	ıs 1
Ref.: FCO	30 / 1048		3123	1.5

CONFIDENTIAL

SOVEREIGNTY AND THE EUROPEAN COMMUNITIES

- 1. The object of the paper is to examine the implications for British sovereignty of entry into the European Communites, to clarify the meaning of the term and to suggest a number of conclusions.
- 2. Historically, sovereignty was originally invoked to describe the powers of the ruler within his State. External sovereignty, on the other hand, has been primarily a negative matter of denying the existence of any external sovereign authority, with consequent emphasis on equality and independence. Neither aspect of sovereignty should be confused with the realities of power (paragraphs 2-4)
- 5. The internal and external aspects of sovereignty can still be distinguished in the contemporary political system. Sovereignty in external relations still includes formal equality between states (e.g. voting in the UN General Assembly) and the absence of any formally superior source of authority external to the state. But all states are under some degree of external constraint and most have deliberately limited their freedom of action in pursuit of national interests, for example by military alliences. The limitations are reinforced by the increasing interdependence (especially economic) of modern states.

 Externally, therefore, sovereignty is a technical concept

1 2 cms. The National Archives ins 1 2 Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

CONFIDENTIAL

- 3 -

The range of subjects which may be affected by Community law is set out in an Annex (paragraph 12).

- 7. Political and public anxiety expressed over possible "loss of sovereignty" may in fact reflect wider concerns including fears of loss of national identity, fears of change, dislike of remote and bureaucratic government (especially by foreigners) and instinctive attachment to the independent exercise, as in the past, of national powers. References to "loss of sovereignty" have elicited strong response because of these quite different concerns (paragraphs 13-16).
- 8. It will be in British interests after entry that the Community should develop toward an effectively harmonised economic fiscal and monetary system together with a fairly closely coordinated foreign and defence policy. This would mean in the very long term major changes in the way in which British national relations with the rest of the world are managed and important implications for external sovereignty. It could only take place if there were a strengthening of the institutions of the Community with consequential weakening of national institutions including Parliament. But the "last resort" [olitical power of Parliament to assert a national interest and renounce the Treaty is unlikely to be eroded in this century (paragraphs 17-22).
- 9. To meet the public anxieties hasquerading as concern

CONFIDENTIAL

- 4 -

for "loss of sovereignty" it will be important

- (i) before entry to deal squarely with the problems of British power and influence by presenting the choice between the effect of entry and non-entry in a rapidly changing world; after entry to ensure that unpopular measures or unfavourable economic developments are not attributed to the remote and unmanageable workings of the Community;
- (ii) to strengthen local and regional democratic processes and help develop effective Community regional economic and social policies;
- (iii) to ensure that the British Parliament plays an effective part through its own processes and that British Parliamentarians acquire a position of influence in the European Parliament;
- (iv) to ensure effective consultation between British representatives and negotiators on Community affairs and the British Parliament. A Select Committee on Community Affairs might be considered;
- (v) to stress the gains through Community membership in real international influence and to contrast this with the highly formal and technical nature of the "sovereignty" that will be eroded (paragraphs 23-24).

CONFIDENTIAL

1	2 cms The National Archives	ins 1 1 2	1
	Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048	312345
Plea	se note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' ten		10.75

CONFIDENTIAL

10. These conclusions are highly political but entry into the Community will blur the distinction between domestic political and foreign affairs. British officials, like those of other member states, will necessarily play a more political rôle over wider areas of public business. The task will be to adapt democratic institutions both in the UK and in Brussels to meet and reduce the real and substantial public anxieties over national identity and alienation from government, fear of change and loss of control over their fate which are aroused by talk of "loss of sovereignty" (paragraphs 25-26).

CONFIDENTIAL

SOVEREIGNTY AND THE EUROPEAN COMMUNITIES

1. The object of this paper is to examine the implications of entry into the European Communities for British Sovereignty. The subject is one which arouses widespread if somewhat vague public concern and which could become the central political issue in the national debate on entry to the Community. The paper does not seek to provide a comprehensive philosophical analysis of sovereignty but sets out to clarify the various ways in which the term is commonly used in present circumstances; to identify the relevant changes which will be involved in joining the European Communities; and to suggest a number of conclusions and implications for policy.

I. THE CONCEPT OF SOVEREIGNTY

(a) Historical Background

2. Historically the concept of sovereignty has been of major importance to both political scientists and jurists. The growth of its use was closely associated with the development of the system of nation states in Western Europe: there was no full mediæval equivalent and the wider claims of the Holy Roman Empire and the temporal power of the Pope cannot really be considered in terms of national sovereignty or nation states. Sovereignty was initially invoked to describe the powers of the ruler within his State. When dealing with other States the ruler asserted his (internally) sovereign status, an attribute which, given the identification

1		4 C 34
	2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2	553
24° 34	Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 318345
	Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345	1000 T

CONFIDENTIAL

between the ruler and his State, attached also to his State. Since the other States similarly had sovereign rulers, and regarded themselves equally as sovereign States, the relationship between such sovereign States had to be formally one of equality and independence. On the international plane the sovereignty of the "sovereign" State is not a true international sovereignty, but a transposed internal concept of sovereignty—a description of a legal status possessed in some other (ie the internal) legal order.

Consequently, from the outset the antithesis between the connotation of "sovereignty" in its internal and external aspects has been evident. Internal sovereignty has been primarily a matter of positive possession of ultimate power in a hierarchically-structured internal legal framework, so that interest has lain in identifying the location of that power within the State; but external sovereignty has been primarily a negative matter of denying the existence of any external sovereign authority, with consequent emphasis on equality and independence as the legal framework for international relations. In the particular instance of the United Kingdom the State, externally, is legally equal to and independent of all other "sovereign" States; the international personality is that of the United Kingdom as a State, represented internationally by the Crown as Head of State (a situation accurately reflected in our internal constitutional law by the Crown's prerogative in matters of foreign affairs). Internally, the sovereign power in the State (at least in matters of legislation) is usually considered to be located in the Queen in Parliament.

Ref.: FCO 30 1 1048 312345 Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your

use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

CONFIDENTIAL

The technical legal aspects of sovereignty, both internal and external (particularly the latter), must not be confused with the realities of power. Ultimately it is the latter which count. There may be a tendency that, in proportion as the facts about the realities of power are unpalatable, so emphasis on and interest in the comforting and reassuring legal aspects of sovereignty increases.

(b) Contemporary Aspects of Sovereignty

5. In the contemporary political system we can distinguish the internal and external aspects of sovereignty.

External Sovereignty

Sovereignty in external relations still includes formal equality of status with other states. A striking expression is in voting arrangements in the UN General Assembly, where, for example. Mauritius has the same vote as the US (but the realities of power are reflected by the veto in the Security Council, and by systems of weighted voting in many organisations, not least the European Communities). It involves also the absence of any formally superior source of authority external to the State. It does not mean equal power or influence, or freedom of action in the international scene, or even within the state itself, though these ideas naturally spring to mind in the context of sovereignty. To take an extreme example, while the Central American republics are sovereign states recognised as such by other states, in practice they are limited by their relations with the US Government, and perhaps more critically with private US interests, both in their freedom of international action and in their ability to regulate affairs within their own boundaries. All states are under some degree of external consuraint and most have deliberately limited their freedom of action in pursuit of national interests, for example by mulitary alliances, entry into international organisations or even by the conclusion of routine treaties. These limitations are reinforced by the increasing interdependence of modern states and the development of economic and other links which cut across national boundaries. It is therefore generally recognised that sovereign states can lose some degree of independence of action in external relations without forfeiting their international legal status. But it is always a question of degree in each particular case whether the restraints are so extensive as to be incompatible with continued existence as an equal and independent member of the international community, with the capacity to conduct its own international relations.

1	2 cms	The National Archives ins 1 2	1
A Car	Ref.: FCO	30 / 1048 312345

CONFIDENTIAL

7. The effect of the above is that, externally, sovereignty is a technical concept with in many ways only limited bearing on the questions of power and influence that form the normal preoccupation of foreign policy. As a result, much of the debate on entry into the Communities in terms of the power and influence we should gain or lose thereby and on the corresponding effect of non-entry, while a crucial debate in terms of political decisions and British interests, is

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the Terms and

Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

CONFIDENTIAL

strictly not a debate on the legal issues of external sovereignty. It is, however, a debate which arises naturally from that issue and which is tied up with ideas of sovereignty in the public mind (see paragraph 15(iv) below).

Internal Sovereignty

- 8. Internally within the United Kingdom, the notion of sovereignty is bound up with the doctrine of Parliamentary Sovereignty, which in turn is the outcome of the battle between Crown and Parliament as to which should wield supreme power in the land. The formal compromise has been to accept that supreme power to legislate should rest with the queen in Parliament. For present day practical and political purposes in the UK, Parliamentary sovereignty may be taken to involve the exclusive power to make supreme law. This power has three essential features:
 - (a) a statute which has been duly enacted by

 Parliament and received the Royal assent

 cannot be declared invalid by the courts on any grounds, for example that its pro visions are contrary to constitutional law or to common law or to international law;

 (b) Parliament may enact any law it wishes;

 consequently no Parliament is bound by the acts of its predecessors, and any prior statute may be amended or repealed by a

1	2	cms	The Nation	nal Archives	TAPE 19	ins I	1	Lanto	2
	Ref.	FCO	30 / 1	048	ries de la companya d	3	123	45

CONFIDENTIAL

later statute;

- (c) there is no legislative power in the land save by the authority of Parliament.
- To the layman those features mean that the Queen in Parliament has sovereign law-making power in the territory, unchallenged by any rival national or international source of authority and that its freedom to enact legislation is in law untrammelled by acts of its predecessors or otherwise. The purity of this doctrine is not absolute, particularly as regards the second feature mentioned. For example, Parliament has for all practical purposes limited the jurisdiction of its successors in a geographical sense, by granting independence to colonial and other territories. It is unthinkable that Parliament would attempt to repeal an independence act so as rorcibly to regain legislative power over the territory in question. But there has been no comparable (and irrevocable) transfer of authority within the UK itself purporting to bind successor Farliaments; and although Parliament has occasionally enacted legislation which in terms purports to regulate the freedom of action of future Parliaments, in strictly legal terms such legislation does not prevent future Parliaments from legislating to the contrary.

II THE EEC AND BRITISH SOVEREIGNTY

10. If we have correctly identified the two major aspects of sovereignty then we are now in a position to consider

- 1	2 cms The National Archives	ins	1	Salah Lah	2
	Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048		3123	45

CONFIDENTIAL

how they will be affected by British accession to the Community. The first stage is to consider the Community as it will be upon enlargement putting on one side the prospective implications of any future development or "deepening" of the Community.

External Sovereignty

11. Membership of the Communities will involve us in extensive limitations upon our freedom of action. many respects these are essentially the result of a contractual arrangement, not dissimilar in kind from other international contractual arrangements which we have e.g. in the GATT: these constitute restraints upon the exercise of sovereign powers as a result of an act entered into by virtue of our sovereign status, and they do not amount to a restriction of that status. But it is not correct to regard the European Community Treaties as involving solely matters of a legal significance equivalent to that of other existing treaties. For example, in matters within the Community field (see Annex) we shall be accepting an external legislature which regards itself as having direct powers of legislating with effect within the United Kingdon, even in derogation of United Kingdom statutes, and as having in certain fields exclusive legislative competence, so that our own legislature has none; in matters in which the Community has already adopted a common policy, we shall be accepting that the

1	2 cms	The National Archives	ins 1	2
	Post ECM	30 / 1010	3122	11.5
	Ref.: FCO	00 7 1046)40

CONFIDENTIAL

Commission will jointly represent the Member States, who to that extent will have their individual international negotiating powers limited; and we shall in various fields be accepting a wide degree of coordination of our policy with that of the rest of the Community. All of this we shall be accepting "for an unlimited period", with no provision for withdrawal. But at the same time France or Italy for example as members of the Communities, have not come to be regarded internationally as less than sovereign states. This is particularly so since, despite the appearance of permanence of membership it is commonly recognised that the member states do still have the ultimate political option of renouncing membership and that the Community/at this stage impose its will against the firm opposition of a major number. In other words in practice and in the final analysis it remains to date a cooperative venture of independent equal sovereign units and not some suprenational and overriding authority. Membership would mean an increasing range of subjects on which Britain's policy was concerted with the remainder of the Community and also that in negotiations with the rest of the world on matters forming the subject of common C mmunity policies, there would be joint representation by the Commission. The Community being exclusive in character and nembership also means in practice giving up sone of our important links with the renainder of the world (Commonwealth Preference for example). But overall it is clear that membership of the Community in its present form would involve only limited dimunition of external sovereignty in practice. If it is right to say that the question of the retention of the international status of a sovereign State is a matter of assessing in each case the degree to which a State's external independence, equality and capacity to conduct its own international relations are restricted, we could nevertheless fairly conclude that although the implications for our freedom of independent action are considerable no substantial impairment of our international status would follow immediately upon our nembership of the European Communities. The loss of external sovereignty will however increase as the Community develops, according to the intention of the preamble to the Treaty of Rome "to establish the foundations of an even closer union among the European peoples". We deal with the implications for sovereignty of such dynamic development below in paragraphs 17 to 22.

1	2 cms The National Archives ins	1 1 2	1
1	Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048	312345

CONFIDENTIAL

Internal Sovereignty

- 12. The implications of membership for Parliamentary sovereignty and for the legal system which is closely related to it, are more immediate.
 - (i) By accepting the Community Treaties we shall have to admit the whole range of subsidiary law which has been made by the Communities.

 Not only this but we shall be making provision.

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 31234	45

CONFIDENTIAL

in advance for the unquestioned direct application (i.e. without any further participation by Parliament) of Community laws not yet made (even though Ministers would have a part, through membership of the Council, in the making of some of these laws). Community law operates only in the fields covered by the Treaties, viz. customs duties; agriculture; free novement of labour; services and capital; transport; monopolies and restrictive practices; state aid for industry; and the regulation of the coal and steel and nuclear energy industries. Outside this considerable range there would remain unchanged by far the greater part of our domestic law (see Annex).

(ii) Community law is required to take precedence over domestic law: i.e. if a Community law conflicts with a statute, it is the statute which has to give way. This is something now implied in other commitments which we have entered into in the past. Previous treaties have imposed on us obligations which have required us to legislate in order to fulfil the international obligations set out in the treaty, but any discrepancy between our legislation and the treaty obligations has been solely a question of a possible breach of those international obligations: the conflicting statute has still undoubtedly been the law to be applied in this country. But the community system requires that such Community Law as applies directly as law in this country should by virtue of its own legal force as law in this country prevail over conflicting national legislation. The Law Officers have, however, concluded that while the European Community will uphold the supremacy of Community waw in its application within the United Kingdom, our Courts, if faced with a statute intended by Parliament to override Community Law, are most unlikely in the immediately foreseeable future to be restrained from giving effect to the statute.

1	2 cms		The N	ational Archi	ves	ins	1		2
	Ref.:	co :	30 /	1048			3123	45.

CONFIDENTIAL

- (iii) The power of the European Count to consider the extent to which a UK statute is compatible with Community Low will indirectly involve an innovation for us, as the European Court's decisions will be binding on our courts which might then have to rule on the validity or applicability of the United Kingdom statute.
- (iv) The Haw Officers have emphasised that in

1	2	cms	The Na	itional Archi	ves	ins I	1	2
	Ref.	: Fco	30 /	1048		31:	345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

CONFIDENTIAL

in accepting Community Law in this country we shall need to make it effective as part of a new and separate logal order, distinct from, but co-existing side by side with, the law of the United Kingdom. They have referred to the basic European Communities Treaty provisions as amounting "in effect to a new body of "Federal" statute lag".

III POLITICAL REALITY AND POPULAR CONCERN

In lay terms we may say that if Britain joined the Community there would be many implications for both external and internal (particularly parliamentary) severeignty. Some of these would be wholly novel, and the general effect particularly in the longer term would be of more pervasive and wideraning change than with any earlier commitments. Largely this is because the Community treaties when drawn up were seen as arrangements not merely for collaboration but for positive integration of large parts of the economic and social life of the Member States. As a result the conventional theoretical line dividing internal from external affairs has become blurred, a process which as we have seen is already advancing with the development of transmaticual economic activity.

1 2 cms	The National Archives	ins 1	1 2
Ref.: FCO	30 / 1048	312345

CONFIDENTIAL

14. But public and political concern over "loss of sovereignty" cannot be allayed simply by setting out these technical considerations. In the public debate advocates of entry deny that sovereignty will be lost or transferred and argue that account should be taken "of the effective ability of Britain's national institutions to protect and advance the interests, domestic and external, of the British people". They imply that sovereignty as defined above should be disregarded - considering it to have been eroded past usefulness by GATT, NATO etc and the powerlessness of the medium sized state acting alone. Although this approach rides roughshod over "sovereignty" in its technical sense it has the merit that in addressing the political rather than the legal reality it comes nearer to the sources of active public concern.

15. These public concerns clearly include:

(i) National Identity

We are all deeply conscious through tradition, upbringing and education of the distinctive fact of being British. Given our island position and long territorial and national integrity, the traditional relative freedom from comprehensive foreign, especially European, alliances and entanglements, this national consciousness may well be stronger than that of most nations.

1	2 cms	The Na	tional Archiv	es	ins	1		2
	Ref.: FCO	30 /	1048			3123	45	3, 25,

CONFIDENTIAL

When "sovereignty" is called into question in the debate about entry to the Community, people may feel that it is this "Britishness" that is at stake. Hence Mr Rippon's pointed question "are the French any less French?" for their membership. There is another, less attractive, aspect of this national pride. This is the large measure of dislike and mistrust of foreigners that persists in Britain. Nancy Mitford's Uncle Matthew was not alone in considering that: "Abroad is hell and foreigners are fiends".

(ii) Change

However it is presented, entry to the Community will mean major change. It is natural and inevitable that this should be disliked and resisted by many. Even though the "loss of sovereignty" may be limited to fairly precise areas of Government and Parliamentary powers and be without significance for the lives of most of the country, still the phrase conjures up a spectre of major and uncontrollable change and of adjustments that will have to be made which are deeply disturbing. "Loss of Sovereignty" may be a euphemism for fear of change and of the unknown.

(iii) Remoteness of the Bureaucracy
It is generally acknowledged that in modern

1 2 cms The National Archives	ins	1	2
Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048		312345
Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives	terms and con	ditions and t	hat ways
use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further inform	ation is given in	the 'Terms a	nat your Conditions of supply of the National Archive	es' leaflets	the terms a industrialised society the impersonal and remote workings of the Government bureaucracy are a source of major anxiety and mistrust. The operations of democracy seem decreasingly fitted to control the all-embracing regulatory activities of the Civil Service. In entry to the Community we may seen to be opting for a system in which bureaucracy will be more remote (as well as largely foreign) and will operate in ways many of which are already determined and which are deeply strange to us . This bureaucracy is by common consent more powerful compered with the democratic systems of the Community than is ideal. Yet the way to renedy this balance without reducing the Community to a mere standing acsociation for negotiation between national Ministers is by strengthening the Community's democratic processes which in turn means more change and more "loss of sovereignty".

CONFIDENTIAL

(iv) National Power

As explained in paragraph 6 above, questions of power and influence have a close popular connection with ideas of sovereignty. The British have long been accustomed to the belief that we play a major part in ordering the affairs of the world and that in ordering our own affairs we are

1	2 cms The National Archives	ins 1 2
!	Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048	312345

CONFIDENTIAL

beholden to none. Much of this is mere illusion. As a middle power we can proceed only by treaty, alliance and compromise. So we are dependent on others both for the effective defence of the United Kingdom and also for the commercial and international financial conditions which govern our own economy. But this fact though intellectually conceded, is not widely or deeply understood; instinctive attitudes derive from a period of greater British power. Joining the Community does strike at these attitudes: it is a further large step away from what is thought to be unfettered national freedom and a public aknowledgement of our reduced national power; moreover, joining the Community institutionalises in a single, permanent coalition the necessary process of accommodation and alliance over large areas of policy, domestic as well as external. Even though these area, may be less immediately relevant to survival than defence, as covered by NATO, the form of the Community structure and the intentions explicit in the preamble to the Treaty of Rome emphasise the merging of national interests.

to. We do not suggest that these issues of public concern have any necessary connection with the technical meaning of sovereignty, but the debate hitherto has been conducted on two levels. On the one level there have been legal arguments defining the implications for external and Parliamentary Sovereignty of accession, implications which are important but have been found politically acceptable. On the other level we believe that argument about loss of sovereignty couched in more general terms has elicited a strong response because of the anxieties about national identity, power and change outlined above.

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2 Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

CONFIDENTIAL

CON 20 / 1010	2 cms	The Natio	onal Archives	ins	1
1 Ref	Ref. FC	30 /	101,2	2	1221.6

CONFIDENTIAL

THE FUTURE DEVELOPMENT OF THE COMMUNITY TV 17. The account presented of the implications for sovereignty of membership has up to this point dealt with the Community as a static institution. Its effective rôle now centres upon, though it is not limited to, the Common Agricultural Policy and the Common Commercial Policy based on but now going beyond the Common External Tariff. Council of Ministers continues to be dominated by tradeoffs between national interests and the principle of majority voting has been side-tracked. The European Parliament exercises little control over the processes of the Community while the Commission though committed to the "deepening" of the Community is hamstrung by the difficulty of reachurs agreement on major policy in the Council of Ministers.

18. That the Community within its present limitations should present little challenge to national sovereignty is perhaps inevitable; but it will be in the British interest after accession to encourage the development of the Community toward an effectively harmonised economic, fiscal and monetary system and a fairly closely coordinated and consistent foreign and defence policy. This sort of grouping would bring major politics/economic advantages but would take many years to develop and to win political acceptance. If it came to do so then essential aspects of sovereignty both internal and external would indeed increasingly be transferred to the Community itself.

2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

CONFIDENTIAL

19. If such a development took place, then over a wide range of subjects (trade, aid, monetary affairs and most technological questions) Community policies toward the outside world would be common or closely harmonised. Although diplomatic representation would remain country by country its national rôle would be much diminished since the instructions to representatives would have been coordinated among member states. By the end of the century with effective defence and political harmonisation the erosion of the international rôle of the member states could be almost complete. This is a far distant prospect; but as members of the Community our major interests may lie in its progressive development since it is only when the Western Europe of which we shall be a part can realise its full potential as a political as well as economic unit that we shall derive full benefits from membership. 20. Such positive development of the functions of the Community could probably only take place with concomitant development of the institutions of the Community. It is hard to envisage the necessary decisions being taken under the present organisation of the Community; more effective decision-making at Community level would either require majority voting on an increasing range of issues in the Council or stronger pressures to reach quick decisions by consensus. In either case the rôle of the Commission would become more important as the Community became responsible for the regulation of wider areas of the internal affairs

1	2 cms	The National Archives	in	15 1
1	Ref.: FCO	30 / 1048	CALL SALE	3122	345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and' Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

CONFIDENTIAL

of the member states and this would in turn increase the need to strengthen the democratic institutions of the Community, including perhaps a directly elected Parliament. In that event the development of a prestigious and effective directly elected Community Parliament would clearly mean the consequential weakening of the British Parliament as well as the erosion of "Parliamentary Sovereignty". 21. The process outlined is an exceedingly long-term one, and depends upon the continuing progressive development of the Community. For a very long time - almost certainly until the end of the century - the major member states would retain the practical "last resort" political possibility of secession (albeit in probable breach of international obligations and with increasingly damaging economic consequences for the defector). So long as the member state's participation is subject to national scrutiny and can in practice be withdrawn, it may be said that the nation's status as an equal and independent state in the international community will be unaffected. Parliament's power will likewise survive; if Britain can in practice renounce the Treaty then the Community laws which are applied automatically within the member states are seen to depend upon the continuing (and pre-eminent) acquiescence of Parliament which may in the last resort be withdrawn.

22. Even with the most dramatic development of the Community the major member states can hardly lose the "last resort" ability to withdraw in much less than three decades. The Community's development could produce before then a period in which the political practicability of withdrawal was doubtful. If the point should ever be

Ref: ECO 30 / 10/10	2 cms The National Archives	ins	salvice is	L
	Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048	21	2345

lease note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets reached at which inability to renounce the Treaty (and with it the degeneration of the national institutions which could opt for such a policy) was clear, then sovereignty, external, parliamentary and practical would indeed be diminished.

CONFIDENTIAL

- V. CONCLUSIONS AND IMPLICATIONS
- 23. We have examined the two main aspects of sovereignty external and parliamentary sovereignty will be limited, while in the case of parliamentary sovereignty it will be real and novel but not likely to damage British interests. There are in addition major aspects of public concern which are evoked by reference to sovereignty though that is not what they are about - national identity, opposition to change, mistrust of bureaucracy and a belief that Britain standing alone should control its destiny. These may be at the source of much anxiety about and instinctive opposition to British entry. Finally we have argued that in the longest term the progressive development of the Community could indeed mean the weakening of the member states' independence of action and in the last resort of their national institutions and their sovereignty. 24. If it is accepted, there are a number of implications to be drawn from this analysis:
 - i. although public concern is not over technical sovereignty itself but over more generally national traditions it is real and important and can be evoked by reference to sovereignty.
 Before entry it is important to deal squarely

The second secon
Ref.: -CO	30 / 1048	312345
lease note that this copy	r is supplied subject to the National Archive ject to copyright restrictions. Further infor with the anxieties about British power and influence (masquerading under the term sovereignty) by presenting the choice between the effect of entry and on Britain's power and influence in a rapidly changing world. After entry there would be a major responsibility on HMG and on all political parties not to exacerbate public concern by attributing unpopular measures or unfavourable economic developments to the remote and unmanageable workings of the Community. This counsel of perfection may be the more difficult to achieve because these same unpopular measures may sometimes be made more acceptable if they are put in a Community context, and this technique may offer a way to avoid the more sterile forms of inter-governmental bargaining. But the difference between on the one hand explaining policy in terms of general and Community-wide interest and, on the other, blaning membership for national problems is real and important.

CONFIDENTIAL

ii. the transfer of major executive responsibilities to the bureaucratic Commission in Brussels will exaceltate popular feeling of alienation from government. To counter this feeling strengthened local and regional democratic processes within the member states and effective Community regional economic and social policies will be essential.

1	2 cms The National Archives	ins	1 1		2
1	Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048	ar tektet.	3123	45

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions, Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

CONFIDENTIAL

- iii. Parliamentary sovereignty will be affected as we have seen. But the need for Parliament to play an increasing (if perhaps more specialised) rôle may develop. Firstly, although a European Parliament might in the longest term become an effective, directly elected democratic check upon the bureaucracy, this will not be for a long time, and certainly not in the decade to come. In the interval, to minimise the loss of democratic control it will be important that the British Parliamentarians should play an effective rôle both through the British nembership in the European Parliament and through the processes of the British Parliament itself. Few if any of the Parliaments of the Six make the most of their rôle in either respect. It would be clearly in the interest of the UK that British parliamentarians should acquire a position of influence in the European Parliament against the day when it assumes effective powers.
- iv. The process of consultation between the Commission, Government experts and the European Parliament is complex. The issues dealt with are neither "foreign affairs" nor wholly domestic to the member states.

2 cms	The National A	rchives	ins	1
Ref.: FCO	30 / 101	Q		21721	-
			THE STATE OF	31434	5

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

CONFIDENTIAL

The form of the consultations is such that they can hardly be watched over by the House of Commons as a whole - despite the flexibility of Question Time.

The result in the present member states is that Community affairs are largely the prerogative of the executive to be endorsed after the event by the elected representative body as though in foreign affairs. To neet this new problem the creation of a Select Committee on Community Affairs of some quite new Parliamentary device might be It will be recognised that the more the Community is developed as an effective wide-ranging and democratically controlled organisation the more Farlianentary sovereignty will be croded and the less important external state sovereignty will become. The ability and the ultimate pelitical right in the last resort to withdraw will remain for a very considerable time though it may come to have nainly theoretical significance. In that last resort the ultimate sovereignty of the State will surely remain unchallenged for this century at least. Meanwhile it will continue to be important to stress the potential gains in real international influence (albeit indirect) through participation in the Community's policies and to contrast this with the highly formal and technical nature of the "sovereignty" that will be croded.

25. The conclusions and implications we have drawn are highly political and may be judged beyond the competence of the FCO to advise. Nevertheless the impact of entry upon severeignty is closely related to the blurring of distinctions between donestic political and foreign affairs, to the relatively greater political responsibility of the bureaucracy of the Community and the lack of effective democratic control.

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2 Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

CONFIDENTIAL

26. To play an effective part in the Community British members of the Commission and their staffs and Pritish officials as negotiators will necessarily assume nore political roles than is traditional in the UK. The Community, if we are to benefit to the full, will develop wider powers and co-ordinate and ranage policy over wider areas of public business. To control and supervise this process it will be necessary to strongthen the democratic organisation of the Community with consequent decline of the primacy and prostige of the national Parliaments. The task will not be to arrest this process, since to do so would be to put considerations of formal severeignty before effective influence and power, but to adopt institutions and policies both in the UK and in Brussels to meet and reduce the real and substantial public anxieties over national identity and alienation from government, fear of change and loss of control over their fate which are aroused by talk of the "loss of sovercignty".

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

CONFIDENTIAL

ATTEX

AREAS OF POLICY IN WHICH PARLIAMENTARY FREEDOM TO LEGISLATE WILL BE AFFECTED BY ENTRY INTO THE TUROPEAN COLMULTIES.

- 1. In general it should be noted that there are very few if any areas in which Parliament will be wholly incapable of action or in which Parliament will be wholly free from restraint. It should also be noted that the boundaries which distinguish these areas are changing all the time, as Community policies develop.
- 2. Nuch depends upon the way in which the Community has taken action in any particular area. In the case of action by way of Regulation there is, once the Regulation has been made, no room for Parliamentary action (other than, possibly, to supplement the Regulation or mere debate). Generally speaking Parliament must take the Regulation as it stands, and while with Regulations made by the Council, a United Kingdom Minister (who is subject of course to Parliamentary pressure) will take part in the proceedings leading up to adoption of this Regulation, this is not the case with Regulations made by the Commission. Regulations made by the Commission are however essentially of an implementing rather than policy-making nature. Community action by way of a Directive leaves Parliament freedom of choice as to means but no freedom as to the result to be achieved. A Recommendation leaves Parliament free to becide not only on the means, but also upon whether to comply with the Recommendation at all.
- 5. Given these major qualifications the lists below, which are by no means exhaustive, identify the areas of legislative action which will be principally affected and those which will not.

1 2 cms The National Archives		100	-	100	rias ge	1.12
Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048		ins		1	-	2
lease note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archive use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions.	15	-	31	234	15

oper to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

CONFIDENTIAL

ANNEX

AREAS IN WHICH PARLIAMENT'S FREEDOM OF LEGISLATIVE ACTION WILL BE SIGNIFICANTLY RESTRAINED

Customs duties and all other matters incidental to the formation of a customs union;

Agriculture;

Tree movement of labour, services and capital;

Transport

Monopolies and restrictive practices;

State aid for Industry

Coal and Steel;

Nuclear energy industry;

Company Law;

Insurance 'aw;

Fisheries;

Value added tax;

Social Security for migrant workers;

REAS IN WHICH PARLIAMENT'S FREEDOM OF LEGISLATIVE ACTION ILL NOT BE SIGNIFICATELY RESTRAINED

The general principles of criminal law;

The general principles of the law of the contract;

The general principles of the law of civil wrongs (tort);

Land Law;

Relations of landlord and tenant;

Housing and town and country planning law;

Matrimonial and family law;

The law of inheritance;

/Nationality

CONFIDENTIAL

2 cms		The National	Archives		ns 1
Pof. EC	0 30	0 / (0.	1, 0	作的 医原理	2102	16
vel-			40	THE PROPERTY OF THE PROPERTY OF	3123	H.D. Sansan

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and' Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

CONFIDENTIAL

Nationality law;

Trusts;

Social services (other than for migrant workers);

Education

Health

Local government

Rates of Direct Taxation

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

CONFIDENTIAL

FURTHER IMPORTANT AREAS IN WHICH HEMBERSHIP OF THE COMMUNITY MIGHT AFFECT HER MAJESTY'S GOVERNMENT'S FREEDOM OF ACTION

In addition to the areas listed above, there are a number of important areas in which membership of the Community would impose obligations vis-a-vis the Commission or other Member States. These obligations which will restrain our freedom of action in areas hitherto within the discretion of the Executive may be divided into two classes:

(a) present obligations to consult; (b) future obligations to consult, or to coordinate policies.

- 2. Present obligations to consult include:
 - (i) Economic Policy: Articles 103-9 of the Treaty of Rome enjoin a wide measure of consultation and coordination on policy on current trends on balance of payments problems.

On exchange rates each Fember State is required under the Treaty "to treat its policy...as a matter of common interest". In practice the main common interest has been the need to allow the CAP to work smoothly; but this has not prevented member states changing parity sometimes with, sometimes without, much consultation.

On balance of payments difficulties member states are allowed (under the Treaty) to pursue policies necessary to preserve or restore equilibrium, preferably with consultation before-

CONFIDENTIAL

1	2 cms		The National A	rchives	ins 1	1 2
	Ref.: F	co 3	0 / 101	(8)	3123	45

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

CONFIDENTIAL

hand. The Commission is empowered to investigate and to make recommendations but national freedom is not significantly restrained at this stage.

- (ii) Foreign Policy. The Davignon report (1970) provided for six-monthly meetings of Foreign Ministers and quarterly meetings of Political Directors to coordinate foreign policies and Governments should consult on all important questions. Two such meetings of Foreign Ministers have so far occurred. But no effective restraint exists upon national responsibility for foreign policy as such, and the obligations go no further than those we already have under WEU.
- 3. Future obligations, where we as members would of course have a full and equal voice in the creation of the detailed policy, include

(a) Economic and Monetary Union

The Council of Ministers adopted a programme of action on 9 February 1971 aimed at establishing economic and monetary union of the Six (and by implication of an enlarged Community of Ten) in ten years. Only the first stage is agreed:

Central Banks are to coordinate their monetary policies; the Commission and member governments are to consult three times a year with a view to coordinating their economic policies and are to produce a joint annual report on short

TO STATE OF
	2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2	1
	FRO 12	9
	REF.: PCO 30 / 1048 312345	5
Plea	note that this convice considerable deaths and the state of the state	3 8 ease note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets term economic policy; arrangements were to be instituted for a first step in narrowing the margins of fluctuation of members' currencies against each other. These measures are to remain in force for five years and then lapse if agreement has not then been reached on the second stage, which ought to begin on 1 January 1974. Although the arrangements for narrowing the exchange margins have been postponed by the May currency crisis and the German Government's decision to float the D-mark, it is likely that on entry the UK will have to adhere to the agreement summarised above, assuming that current difficulties in implementing these agreements have been overcome by the time we join. We shall of course take part as full members in the discussions which must precede any move to the second stage.

CONFIDENTIAL

There are two relevant general provisions. Article 100 of the Rome Treaty, on the Approximation of Laws, and Article 220 on the negotiation of mutually beneficial agreements which could in theory both lead to encroachment in the future on areas where our freedom to decide on policy is not now significantly restrained. A large number of miscellaneous regulations of little political significance have already been made under Article 100. They are designed to facilitate intra-Community trade by the establishment of uniform standards and practices. After entry we should of course have a full say in the scope and application of future work in this field.

CONFIDENTIAL

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

egistry DRAFT DOP MEMORANDUM Type 1 + TY CLASSIFICATION From To:-Top Secret. Sccret. Confidential. Telephone No. & Ext. Restricted. Unclassified. Department PRIVACY MARKING In Confidence

SOVEREIGNTY AND THE EUROPEAN COMMUNITY

- Strictly interpreted, the term "sovereignty" has two principal applications. It originally described the powers of the ruler within his State. In the United Kingdom this internal sovereignty is bound up with the doctrine of Parliament's sovereign law-making power therein, unchallenged by any rival national or international source of authority and free to enact legislation, untrammelled in law by acts of its predecessors or otherwise. The term "sovereignty" on the international plane derives from this original, internal, use. In dealing with other States each ruler asserted his own (internally) sovereign status and recognised the equality and independence of other sovereigns (see Annex A).
- In this strict sense joining the Community would have immediate implications for internal sovereignty because:
 - a. Community Laws, existing and future, will apply directly in this country as, in effect, a new body of "Federal" statute law;
 - b. Community law will take precedence over domestic law;
 - c. The European Court's decisions will be

WRITTEN IN THIS MARGIN BE 2 NOTHING

> Hw. 2/69

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

of United Kingdom statutes.

The range of subjects which may be affected is set out at Annex B.

- 3. At this stage in the Community's development, entry would, however, mean no substantial impairment of our international sovereign status, despite extensive limitations on our national freedom of action. If in the future the Community were to develop on a broad political front and its institutions matched this development, then national sovereignty would progressively diminish; but member states would nevertheless retain for as long both as can be foreseen the power to prevent decisions against their vital national interest and the ultimate practical ability to renounce the Treaty.

 POLITICAL REALITY AND PUBLIC CONCERN
- 4. Public and political concern over "sovereignty" in this context goes wider than these technical matters, and the effects of membership will be more pervasive than with earlier commitments. The prospect of major commitments in the Community arouses keen concern which is often expressed as fear about sovereignty but may rather concern:
 - a. National Identity

 People fear that to become more European we must be less British; a certain mistrust of foreigners is persistent in Britain.

 - b. Change
 Membership will mean major changes; talk of
 "loss of sovereignty" reflects fear that this will be uncontrollable and irrevocable.

NOTHING TO BE WRITTEN IN THIS MARGIN

1,10	100	7 / W 1085	L. Carrie	A Actor That	15 5 A 1. 18	の大学の一般	の公司の	からなる 大学	and high as	Section 20	and the	March.	2000年100年		A 194	no five size	366	12000	12 (18)	Cabon V	100	achd.
	ıl	2	(5-35)B	20.40	2.42	200	100 mg	199	0.453	1000	100	100	可以分割的	學學學	100	A 100	565m 75	ST. Thomas	PIER	Sept (2.28)	1	N. J. 100
	٠.	- 4	CILID	11.5	1120	100	F-12-3	Hen	Maric	mar	AI CI	nve:	Sec. Sec.	路域納得	2374	Sedi	15		2.5	CONTRACTOR OF THE PARTY OF THE	2527-19	2
11		100	14.530	24 CALL S.	44	25-60次。黄	5/3/2/2015	で 女を有ない	63,563	(1) (2) (2) (2) (3)	A CONTRACT	WEST.	13 July 19	100	11584-15	CPC CAST	Service Print	DOMESTIC ST	200	ENGS AL	the same	1300
		Ref.		-C	0		:30	3		10		200	6.2. 3.29	(HELPHARE)	以	DVSB-16	Park C	215	21			1000
		128.15.	and tells	while of	25.00	1000	Month.	10000		20.75	All and					Constitution of the last		ALC: ST		10		19833
		1.0	75	THE PARTY	St. 182	1-V-21. 10	CONTROL	NO SET	NOTES SEE	SPERMIN	Mary Story	5V4VE0	Sec. 12, 100, 15	SHEET BARRION	200 March	11/21/CNS998	Constitution to	N. 100	Male III	A CONTRACTOR	200	1.04

lease note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

c. Bureaucracy

Even in Britain, bureaucracy can seem remote. The Community democratic processes are inadequate and the Community bureaucracy will be largely foreign. Our own Parliament will find it more difficult to supervise important decision-making in Brussels and even in London.

d National Power

The British people believe they order their own affairs; but their instincts derive from past power rather than present realities. Membership involves the permanent merging of important national interests. HMG will find their freedom of action in many fields restricted by Community decisions.

IMPLICATIONS FOR POLICY

- 5. a. British Parliamentarians should be encouraged and assisted to play the most effective possible rôle in the European Parliament;
 - b. Ways should be found to adapt the processes of the British Parliament so as to minimize public feelings of remoteness and alienation from the decision-making in Brussels. To meet these new problems a Select Committee on Community Affairs, or perhaps other new machinery, might be considered;
 - c. Special attention should be given to strengthening local and regional democratic processes.

NOTHING TO BE WRITTEN IN THIS MARGIN

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

> 6. More generally, apprehensions will arise from the reduction of British power and influence, real or imagined. Even those who concede intellectually that as a middle ranking power we must proceed by treaty, alliance and compromise, may not accept the implications of this fact emotionally or instinctively Joining the Community will deeply affront many people. Before and after entry, we must therefore ensure that unpopular measures or unfavourable economic developments are not wrongly attributed to the unmanageable workings of the Community. We must also demonstrate the increase in our real international influence through our share in the formulation and execution of Community policies, contrasting this increase in influence with the highly formal nature of the "sovereignty" that will be eroded.

2 cms The National Archives ins 1

Ref.: FCO 130 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Daviet-	1/4	CONFIDENT	lal (122)	1988
Registry No.		DRAFT		Type 1 +
SECURITY C	LASSIFICATION	To:		From
Top :	Secret.			Telephone No. & Ext.
Restr
	issified.			Department
PRIVACY MA	- 1/69 / 591		1 4 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1
	In Confidence	ANNEX A
		ANNUA A
		A 11:-1:-133	Val. 1920 nate
-				of sovereignty has
i Gill				ooth political scien
THIS MARGIN				ts use was closely
= S				ent of the system of nation states in	Western Euro	ppe. Sovereignty wa
WRITTEN IN		The state of the state of the		e the powers of the ruler within his	State. When	n dealing with other
		States the ruler	asserted his	s (internally) sover
BE V		status. Since t	he other Stat	tes similarly had
0		sovereign rulers	, and regarde	ed themselves equall
		as sovereign Sta	tes, the rela	ationship between su
NOTHING		sovereign States	had to be fo	ormally one of equal
F		and independence	. On the int	ternational plane th
Z		sovereignty of t	he "sovereign	n" State is not a tr
		international so	vereignty, bu	at a transposed inte
		concept of sover	eignty - a de	escription of a lega status possessed	in some other	er (ie the internal) legal order.
			y, from the o	outset the antithesi
Flw.				sovereignty" in its
4/70
750м
737115
Q			1
(134392)				a programme de la companya de la co
			water a second party of the second	And the second s

| 2 cms | The National Archives | ins | 1 | 2 | | Ref.: FCO | 30 / 1048 | 312345 | | Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Registry No.	DRAFT	Type 1 +
SECURITY CLASSIFICATION		Prom
Top Secret.	То;—
Secret. Confidential.		Telephone No. & E	t.
Restricted. Unclassified,		Department
		Department
PRIVACY MARKING

Internal sovereignty has been primarily a matter of positive possession of ultimate power in a hierarchically-structured internal legal framework, so that interest has lain in identifying the location of that power within the State; but external sovereignty has been primarily a negative matter of denying the existence of any external sovereign authority, with consequent emphasis on equality and independence as the legal framework for international relations. In the particular instance of the United Kingdom the State, externally, is legally equal to and independent of all other "sovereign" States; the international personality is that of the United Kingdom as a State, represented internationally by the Crown as Head of State (a situation accurately reflected in our internal constitutional law by the Crown's prerogative in matters of foreign affairs). Internally, the sovereign power in the State (at least in matters of legislation) is usually considered to be located in the Queen in Parliament.

3. The technical legal aspects of sovereignty, both internal and external (particularly the latter), must not be confused with the realities of power. Ultimately it is the latter which count.

(118281) Dd. 391599 1,500x 2/69

MARGIN

THIS

Z

LITEN

WR

E CO

10

NOTHING

2

2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1018 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and the beautiful or the National Archives' terms and conditions and the beautiful or the National Archives' terms and conditions and the beautiful or the National Archives' terms and conditions and the beautiful or the National Archives' terms and conditions and the beautiful or the National Archives' terms and conditions and the beautiful or the National Archives' terms and conditions and the beautiful or the National Archives' terms and conditions and the beautiful or the National Archives' terms and conditions are the same and the beautiful or the National Archives' terms and conditions are the same archives' terms are the

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Registry
No.

SECURITY CLASSIFICATION

Top Secret.
Secret.
Confidential.
Restricted.
Unclassified.

PRIVACY MARKING

In Confidence

There may be a tendency that, in proportion as the facts about the realities of power are unpalatable, so emphasis on and interest in the comforting and reassuring legal aspects of sovereignty increases.

In the contemporary political system sovereignty in external relations still includes formal equality of status with other states. A striking expression is in voting arrangements in the UN General Assembly, where, for example, Mauritius has the same vote as the US (but the realities of power are reflected by the veto in the Security Council, and by systems of weighted voting in many organisations, not least the European Communities). It involves also the absence of any formally superior source of authority external to the State. It does not mean equal power or influence, or freedom of action in the international scene, or even within the state itself, though these ideas naturally spring to mind in the context of sovereignty. To take an extreme example, while the Central American republics are sovereign states recognised as such by other states, in practice they are limited by their relations with the US Government. and perhaps more critically with private US interests, both in their freedom of international action and in their ability to regulate affairs within their own boudaries. All states are under some degree of (118281) Dd. 391599 1,500M 2/69 Hw.

MARGIN

THIS

Z

WRITTEN

B

10

NOTHING

.

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / [048 312345]

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions, Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

> external constraint and most have deliberately limited their freedom of action in pursuit of national interests, for example by military alliances, entry into international organisations, or even by the conclusion of routine treaties. These limitations are reinforced by the increasing interdependence of modern states and the development of economic and other links which cut across national boundaries. It is therefore generally recognised that sovereign states can lose some degree of independence of action in external relations without forfeiting their international legal status. But it is always a question of degree in each particular case whether the restraints are so extensive as to be incompatible with continued existence as an equal and independent member of the international community, with the capacity to conduct its own international relations.

5. Internally within the United Kingdom, the notion of sovereignty is bound up with the doctrine of Parliamentary Sovereignty, which in turn is the outcome of the battle between Crown and Parliament as to which should wield supreme power in the land. The formal compromise has been to accept that supreme power to legislate should rest with the Queen in Parliament. For present day practical and political purposes in the UK, Perliamentary sovereignty may be taken to involve.

NOTHING TO BE WRITTEN IN THIS MARGIN

Dd. 391599 1,500x 2/69

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 1 2 Ref: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that you use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the "Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Registry Type 1 + DRAFT No. SECURITY CLASSIFICATION From To:-Top Secret. Secret. Telephone No. & Ext. Confidential, Restricted. Unclassified. Department PRIVACY MARKING .In Confidence

the exclusive power to make supreme law. This power has three essential features:-

- a. a statute which has been duly enacted by Parliament and received the Royal assent
 cannot be declared invalid by the courts on any grounds, for example that its provisions are contrary to constitutional law or to common law or to international law;
- b. Parliament may enact any law it wishes; consequently no Parliament is bound by the acts of its predecessors, and any prior statute may be amended or repealed by a later statute;
- c. there is no legislative power in the land save by the authority of Parliament.
- in Parliament has sovereign law-making power in the territory, unchallenged by any rival national or international source of authority, and that its freedom to enact legislation is in law untrammelled by acts of its predecessors or otherwise. Thepurity of this doctrine is not absolute, particularly as regards the second feature mentioned. For example, Parliament has for all practical purposes limited the jurisdiction of its successors in a geographical sense, by granting independence to colonial and other territories. It is unthinkable that Parliament would attempt to repeal an independence act so as forcibly to regain legislative

NOTHING TO BE WRITTEN IN THIS MARGIN

(118281) Dd. 391599 1,500x 2/69 Hw.

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

been no comparable (and irrevocable) transfer of authority within the UK itself purporting to bind successor Parliaments; and although Parliament has occassionally enacted legislation which in terms purports to regulate the freedom of action of future Parliaments, in strictly legal terms such legislation does not prevent future Parliaments from legislating to the contrary.

7. Membership of the Communities will involve us in extensive limitations upon our freedom of action. In many respects these are essentially the result of a contractual arrangement, not dissimilar in kind from other international contractual arrangements which we have eg in the GATT: these constitute restraints upon the exercise of sovereign powers as a result of an act entered into by virtue of our sovereign status, and they do not amount to a restriction of that status. But it is not correct to regard the European Community Treaties as involving solely matters of a legal significance equivalent to that of other existing treaties. For example, in matters within the Community field we shall be accepting an external legislature which regards itself as having direct powers of legislating with effect within the United Kingdom, even in derogation of United Kingdom statues, and as having in certain fields exclusive legislative competence, so that our own legislature has none; in matters in which the Community has already adopted a common policy, we shall be accepting that the Commission will jointly represent the Member States, who to that extent will have their individual international negotiating powers limited; and we shall in various fields be accepting

NOTHING TO BE WRITTEN IN THIS MARGIN

312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

of the rest of the Community. All of this we shall be yfor an unlimited period", with no provision for withdrawal. But at the same time France or Italy for example, as members of the Communities, have not come to be regarded internationally as less than sovereign states. This is particularly so since, despite the appearance of permanence of membership, it is commonly recognised that the member states do still have the ultimate political option of renouncing membership and that the Community cannot at this stage impose its will against the firm opposition of a major member. In other words, in practice and in the final analysis, it remains to date a cooperative venture of independent equal sovereign units and not some suprnational and overriding authority. Membership would mean an increasing range of subjects on which Britain's policy was concerted with the remainder of the Community and also that, in negotiations with the rest of the world on matters forming the subject of common Community policies, there would be joint representation by the Commission. The Community being exclusive in character and membership also means in practice giving up some of our important links with the remainder of the world (Commonwealth Preference for example). But overall it is clear that membership of the Community in its present form would involve only limited dimunition of external sovereignty in practice. If it is right to say that the question of the retention of the international status of a sovereign state is a matter of assessing in each case the degree to which a state's external independence, equality and capacity to conduct its own international relations are restricted, we could nevertheless fairly conclude that although the implications for our

a wide degree of coordination of our policy with that

NOTHING TO BE WRITTEN IN THIS MARGIN

7

use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions, Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets freedom of independent action are considerable, no substantial impairment of our international status would follow immediately upon our membership of the European Communities.

- 8. The implications of membership for Parliamentary sovereignty, and for the legal system which is closely related to it, are more immediate.
 - i. By accepting the Community Treaties we shall have to admit the whole range of subsidiary law which has been made by the Communities. Not only this but we shall be making provision in advance for the unquestioned direct application (ie without any further participation by Parliament) of Community laws not yet made (even though Ministers would have a part, through membership of the Council, in the making of some of these laws). Community law operates only in the fields covered by the Treaties, viz customs duties; agriculture; free movement of labour; services and capital; transport; monopolies and restrictive practices; state aid for industry; and the regulation of the coal and steel and nuclear energy industries. Outside this considerable range there would remain unchanged by far the greater part of of our domestic law.
 - ii. Community law is required to take precedence over domestic law: ie if a Community law conflicts with a statute, it is the statute which has to give way. This is something not implied in other commitments which we have entered into in the past. Previous

NOTHING TO BE WRITTEN IN THIS MARGIN

BE WRITTEN IN

NOTHING TO

	V414.1	Sulves of the same
1	. 2	cms	Т	he Nationa	ıl Archive	s	ins .		2
1	Ref.	Fec	т 30	7. (c	48			345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and' Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

treaties have imposed on us obligations which have required us to legislate in order to fulfil the international obligations set out in the treaty; but any discrepancy between our legislation and the treaty obligations has been solely a question of a possible breach of those international obligations: the conflicting statute has still undoubtedly been the law to be applied in this country. But the community system requires that such Community Law as applies directly as law in this country should by virtue of its own legal force as law in this country prevail over conflicting national legislation. The Law Officers have, however, concluded that while the European Community will uphold the supremacy of Community Law in its application within the United Kingdom, our Courts, if faced with a statute intended by Parliament to override Community Law, are most unlikely in the immediately foreseeable future to be restrained from giving effect to the statute.

- iii. The power of the European Court to consider the extent to which a UK statute is compatible with Community Law will indirectly involve an innovation for us, as the European Court's decisions will be binding on our courts which might then have to rule on the validity or applicability of the United Kingdom statute.
- iv. The Law Officers have emphasised that in accepting Community Law in this country we shall need to make it effective as part of a new and

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

separate legal order, distinct from, but coexisting side by side with, the law of the United Kingdom. They have referred to the basic European Communities Treaty provisions as amounting "in effect to a new body of "Federal" statute law". NOTHING TO BE WRITTEN IN THIS MARGIN

15 1 12 1	100 m	A THE SECOND	COLUMN TO SECTION	PRESIDENTE	TOTAL STORY OF STREET	· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·	THE RESIDENCE OF SHEET	A CONTRACTOR OF STREET	HARLES AND THE	Mark (1853年)	机构的。25 00年	超過過過	83
19.03		cms	是一个"SWA	The N	National	Archive	S .	MATERIAL SERVICES	ins 1			147	题
				Service of the servic	Co. Sheaton to begin Co. to	Appear Delighter 10 April 1	CONTRACTOR STATEMENT OF THE PARTY OF THE PAR	AND PROPERTY.	THE PERSON NAMED IN COLUMN TWO	120000000000000000000000000000000000000	Market September 1971	Mark Mark	驟
100	Dof.	No.	2	ZA	1 10	1.0	A CONTRACT				2000年		82
	They.		20		SE SHEET SE	40 0	THE PARTY OF THE PARTY.	STATE OF THE	ant of the training	145	45	ALCONE TO	201
2 2 2011	A STATE OF THE PARTY OF THE PAR	100 March 1985	A LEGICAL POLYMENT AND A STREET	CORNER DISTRIBUTE	- Production of the second		and a supply of the	此。但是於其他學行	100000000000000000000000000000000000000	SPICEOUS AND	的现在分词是1966年,2018年		段
Ple	ase not	e that thi	S CODY IS SI	inpolied sti	bject to th	ne Mation	al Archiva	tarme	and con	10000	Tall and	伊斯斯 (175)	13

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

ATTEX B

AREAS OF POLICY IN WHICH PARLIAMENTARY FREEDOM TO LEGISLATE WILL BE AFFECTED BY ENTRY INTO THE EUROPE.IN COMMUNITIES.

- 1. In general it should be noted that there are very few if any areas in which Parliament will be wholly incapable of action or in which Farliament will be wholly free from restraint. It should also be noted that the boundaries which distinguish these areas are changing all the time, as Community policies develop.
- 2. Much depends upon the way in which the Community has taken action in any particular area. In the case of action by way of Regulation there is, once the Regulation has been made, no room for Parliamentary action (other than, possibly, to supplement the Regulation or mere debate). Generally speaking Parliament must take the Regulation as it stands, and while with Regulations made by the Council, a United Kingdom Minister (who is subject of course to Parliamentary pressure) will take part in the proceedings leading up to adoption of this Regulation, this is not the case with Regulations made by the Commission. Regulations made by the Commission are however essentially of an implementing rather than policy-making nature. Community action by way of a Directive leaves Parliament freedom of choice as to means but no freedom as to the result to be achieved. A Recommendation leaves Parliament free to decide not only on the means, but also upon whether to comply with the Recommendation at all.
- 3. Given these major qualifications the lists below, which are by no means exhaustive, identify the areas of legislative action which will be principally affected and those which will not.

CONFIDENTIAL

	SERVICE AND ADDRESS OF THE PARTY OF THE PART
1 2 cms The National Archive	s ins 1 2
a Zicus	Agring Savagorg at Chicago Savagor at the savagor a 211211
Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048	312345
· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·	THE RESIDENCE OF THE PARTY OF T
Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the Nation	al Archives' terms and conditions and that your

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that you use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

ANNEX B

AREAS IN WHICH PARLIAMENT'S FREEDOM OF LEGISLATIVE ACTION WILL BE SIGNIFICANTLY RESTRAINED

Customs duties and all other matters incidental to the formation of a customs union;

Agriculture;

Free movement of labour, services and capital;

Transport

Monopolies and restrictive practices;

State aid for Industry

Coal and Steel;

Nuclear energy industry;

Company Law;

Insurance Law;

Fisheries:

Value added tax;

Social Security for migrant workers;

AREAS IN WHICH PARLIAMENT'S FREEDOM OF LEGISLATIVE ACTION WILL NOT BE SIGNIFICANTLY RESTRAINED

The general principles of criminal law;

The general principles of the law of the contract;

The general principles of the law of civil wrongs (tort);

Land Law;

Relations of landlord and tenant;

Housing and town and country planning law;

Matrimonial and family law;

The law of inheritance;

/Nationality

		S . 4 5 1 1934	The Late of the state of	1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1	a supplied to the second	SELECTION OF THE PROPERTY.	。在一个人的一个人的一个人的一个人的一个人的一个人的一个人的一个人的一个人的一个人的	when we have the dark to	公元學(1)。元代學(1)	(A)	我 是说。
	1	2 0	200	700-10	The Na	tional Arc	hivee		ine	1 12345	2
	11	2	1112	2000年11日 1	THE INA	Hollar Vic		国产品 阿斯尔斯斯	Will Call the Carting State (Carting	AT A CAMP A CAMP A CAMP CONTRACTOR	7800
		1 - 1 Sept 1 - 1	ではないかべきまできまっ	THE PERSON NO	(127)と785時間報	4 4 1	3	经验的			4.24
		Ref.	FCC) Name and the	0 /	ו עסו	S	STATE OF SERVICE	3	14545 1
	174.3	a refraction	A STREET, STRE	A Contact States	A SALAR AND A SALAR AND ASSALAR	Calyman Co. And Street	WAR TO A SOUND TO	to the second second			1
24	1	45 10 10 10 1	G. SCHOOLSENS STREET	STATE OF THE STATE	2000年1月1日 · 18.10月日 · 18.10日	SERVICE AND A CHIEF BOOK AND	2000年1000年1000年1000日	CAPLICATION CONTROL	COMPANY TO PARTY SERVICES	AND DESCRIPTIONS OF THE PROPERTY OF THE PROPER	(美) (美)

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that you use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets.

Nationality law; Trusts; Social services (other than for migrant workers); Education Health Local government Rates of Direct Taxation

2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions, Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

FURTHER IMPORTANT AREAS IN WHICH MEMBERSHIP OF THE COMMUNITY MIGHT AFFECT HER MAJESTY GOVERNMENT'S FREEDOM/OF ACTION

In addition to the areas listed above, there are a number of important areas in which membership of the Community would impose obligations vis-a-vis the Commission or other Member States. These obligations which will restrain our freedom of action in areas hitherto within the discretion of the Executive may be divided into two classes:

(a) present obligations to consult; (b) future obligations to consult, or to coordinate policies.

- 2. Present obligations to consult include:
 - (i) Economic Policy: Articles 103-9 of the Treaty of Rome enjoin a wide measure of consultation and coordination on policy on current trends on balance of payments problems.

On exchange rates each Member State is required under the Treaty "to treat its policy...as a matter of common interest". In practice the main common interest has been the need to allow the CAP to work smoothly; but this has not prevented member states changing parity sometimes with, sometimes without, much consultation.

On balance of payments difficulties member states are allowed (under the Treaty) to pursue policies necessary to preserve or restore equilibrium, preferably with consultation before-

2.5	11/11/1			" Grane			10 m	W - (1 2)	100		The same	A . S.	A TOTAL	9.75	West Me.	30.77	A.C. W.Jaco	2017	AL STATE	Laboratory.	4	18		8-050000	1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1	用物能
Г		4	400	2	937	St. L.		1.678	SELEN.	Selle	Nati			ahi	JOC		trace of		STORY OF			1			7	2.0
2	114	11		2 0	ns .	400	20	10/12		4	Nau	Olla		CIII	VES.	S. 75 C.P.	Allegan	的技术是	45.00	A. 18	作品系	SEC. 18	治療工學	N. P. S.	216	100
1	5.17	3,3	10.5	A 1 . 1 . 1 . 1	100	11000	17.5	111	0	1000	100	$1:2 k	146	6	Vier 1	G 1270	Contract.	404	A Cha	1 × X		00	11 11 20 20	2 Sec. 18	9.67 NO
	117		Re	f.:		C ()	1.00	30	1	1	10	14	8	100	ndrage of		Calau n	0.00	AND AND AND	31	くつ	4	5	ACRES AND	S. 35.0
200	4.		3 . 3 3	3	C. E. W	3. 310	101216	1.01.0	200	Contract of	Marin Wall		× 1 1000	SAG W	100	155,640.2	Section .		A STATE	W.K.E.		to atach	1000		es -40	7.50
1		Dia-	oco m	ata t	hat !	thie	nou	ie ei	inali	ad 6	ihiac	+ +0	the	Mat	iona	1 Arc	hives	ten	ms ai	nd cc	ndit	ons	and	that w	OHE	125%

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

hand. The Commission is empowered to investigate and to make recommendations but national freedom is not significantly restrained at this stage.

- (ii) Foreign Policy. The Davignon report (1970) provided for six-monthly meetings of Foreign Ministers and quarterly meetings of Political Directors to coordinate foreign policies and Governments should consult on all important questions. Two such meetings of Foreign Ministers have so far occurred. But no effective restraint exists upon national responsibility for foreign policy as such, and the obligations go no further than those we already have under WEU.
- 3. Future obligations, where we as members would of course have a full and equal voice in the creation of the detailed policy, include

(a) Economic and Monetary Union

The Council of Ministers adopted a programme of action on 9 February 1971 aimed at establishing economic and monetary union of the Six (and by implication of an enlarged Community of Ten) in ten years. Only the first stage is agreed:

Central Banks are to coordinate their monetary policies; the Commission and member governments are to consult three times a year with a view to coordinating their economic policies and are to produce a joint annual report on short

	2 cn	ns	The Na	itional Archiv	es .	ins	1	2
	是更大意思	rea	30 /	101.0		210	01.5
ADV.	Ref.:	FLU	00 /	IPH8	Contract Contract		345	RAPE.
DI.	a surrenative ser		A 100 (100 (100 (100 (100 (100 (100 (100	Arran Disability	and Avelance	rms and conditio your use of it					on is given in the	terms and
1200	- AND THE		conditions of st	ipply of the Na	tional Archives' I	leariets		ALDIYA MA

term economic policy; arrangements were to be instituted for a first step in narrowing the margins of fluctuation of members' currencies against each other. These measures are to remain in force for five years and then lapse if agreement has not then been reached on the second stage, which ought to begin on 1 January 1974. Although the arrangements for narrowing the exchange margins have been postponed by the May currency crisis and the German Government's decision to float the D-mark, it is likely that on entry the UK will have to adhere to the agreement summarised above, assuming that current difficulties in implementing these agreements have been overcome by the time we join. We shall cf course take part as full members in the discussions which must precede any move to the second stage.

(b) General provisions for harmonisation of legal practices

There are two relevant general provisions. Article 100 of the Rome Treaty, on the Approximation of Laws, and Article 220 on the negotiation of mutually beneficial agreements which could in theory both lead to encroachment in the future on areas where our freedom to decide on policy is not now significantly restrained. A large number of miscellaneous regulations of little political significance have already been made under Article 100. They are designed to facilitate intra-Community trade by the establishment of uniform standards and practices. After entry we should of course have a full say in the scope and application of future work in this field.

10	100	per y hing	MOY SHAPE THE	100	127 TOP 8 12	All and the		200	E. House (1973)	also the state of	out of the state of	40000000000000000000000000000000000000		作品。如此是	1255 9 3 5 TOS	100
	1	• •	cms	8 15 2.00	ALCOHOL:	The	Vation	al Arc	hivee	20 6 45		inc	1 1			2
	4	-	Gus.	16.40						斯特尼海外 伊斯	學學學學
	98	19.5	F	-		1 0	1	- 1 (心声的表现	到2000年		312		-0.161.57	一种
133	1	Ref.	Talk	CO	4.1	\mathcal{O}_{-}	1	ع) بدو	5			1000	314	548
	A	1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1	AND COMPANY DESCRIPTION OF THE	The state of the same	· 中国社会 (1985年)	A. 2. 2. 4. 4. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1.	Section of the second	20/36/38/80/10/20	Service Services	Old Philadelphia State of	332.75	The Art Straw	See Section and Mark the	2010/03/2015/53	公司是"国际" 第235年	223.52

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

90

CONFIDENTIAL

RECEIVED IN
REGISTRY No. 37
- 5 JUL 1971
Maica 12

Mr Daunt

SOVEREIGNTY AND THE EUROPEAN COMMUNITIES

At the Planning Committee meeting on 8 June it was agreed that the Planning Paper on Sovereignty should be prepared as quickly as possible for submission to FCO Ministers and the PUS asked that a shorter paper, suitable for DOP or Cabinet consideration, should be prepared for submission at the same time.

2. I now submit:

Flag A

- (i) an amended version of the Planning Paper. The principal changes are in
 - the bowdlerising of reference to the development of supra-national tendencies;
 - the addition of a further section to the annex covering exchange rates and other subjects on which there will be some obligations;
 - a qualifying phrase in paragraph 25(iv)
 reflecting doubts in Sir C O'Neill's mind over the appropriateness of a Select Committee; and
 - a number of relatively minor changes to the /legal

CONFIDENTIAL

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and 'Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

CONFIDENTIAL

_ 2 _

Flag B

legal arguments which are now in conformity with the views of the Law Officers;

- (ii) a draft based on the Planning Paper but cast in a form suitable for DOP (it is within the 700 word limit). The detail has been relegated to the Annexes, which contain (Annex A) a fuller discussion of the legal issues and (Annex B) an analysis of the areas in which our freedom of legislative or executive action will or will not be restrained;
- (iii) a draft covering submission from the PUS to Mr Rippon and the Secretary of State.
- 5. The draft DOP paper at (ii) above has been cleared with the Legal Advisers and EID, and has been drafted to conform with the views of the Law Officers. We have also had the benefit of the helpful and penetrating draft put to the PUS by Mr Bottomley on 16 June, on which we have leaned heavily. Thus, our draft makes the points in the last sentence of Mr Bottomley's paragraph 3 and in his paragraph 4; and incorporates virtually verbatim his paragraphs 5 and 6. The only essential differences are that:
 - (a) we have retained for DOP the important legal distinction between internal and external sovereignty (which is fundamental to the Planning Paper);

/(b)

CONFIDENTIAL

700	tire:	1118	A. try	中心为	42.3	1537	4.35	12.50	12	- 8	10	595.0	4.3	4	200	100		3/15-	1	Chil	8	(14)			5.1	924	22	12		357	1	4							2.5
777	1		2	C	ms			1				1	h	e l	٧a	ti	or	a	Α	rc	hi	ve	S						Si	ns						20		2	N.
	1	Γ	Ref.		1	_	,	1				2 /	100	35				_	9	C)	0		4.90	Û.		Sec.
1	1	1	Ref.	1 416	T.V	Res.		U	127	1	L	יכ	2			6.7	ı	U	4		5.	v	(45)	right.		108	(hyte)		non New Y	16.5	ie de	5	4	5	4	১

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

CONFIDENTIAL

- 3 -

- Denning to which Mr Bottomley very properly draws attention (i.e. whether or not Parliament can lawfully go back on the Treaty of Rome once HMG have signed it), we have retained the approachedopted in the Planning Paper. We agree with Mr Bottomley that "it is not possible to state with any certainty what effect our "joining the European Communities would come to have on the sovereignty of Parliament". Much will depend on future developments both in Parliament and in the EEC. But what we do say represents the views of our legal advisers, who consider it to conform with those of the Law Officers.
- 4. The PUS should see these drafts before the weekend. I am, therefore, submitting them direct to you, with a copy to Mr Bottomley as regards paragraph 3 above. If Mr Bottomley sees grave objection to our draft DOP paper, I recommend that the Planning Paper should, nevertheless, go forward to Ministers forthwith, leaving the DOP approach to be finalised on the PUS's return from Moscow towards the end of this month.

17 June 1971

Copied to: Mr Logan
Sir V Evans
Mr Rottomle

Mr Bottomley Sir T Brimelow Sir C O'Neill L Fielding Planning Staff

Si C. o' Naill

CONFIDENTIAL

RECEIVED IN REGISTRY No. 37 - 5 JUL 1971

PUS

SOVEREIGNTY AND THE EUROPEAN COMMUNITEDS

Under my minute of 9 June I circulated a cockshy draft of a short paper on this subject, resulting from the Planning Committee discussion on 8 June.

- 2. The Legal Advisers have helped me in redrafting the opening passage of that draft, and I now circulate a revised version of the whole.
- 3. Since I redrafted to meet the Legal Advisers points, I have seen an opinion bearing on this subject from the Law Officers. Their view on the ultimate sovereignty of Parliament, and the impossibility of any one Parliament binding its successors, is much closer to my original version than to the revised version which our own Legal Advisers have agreed to. In particular, the Law Officers ignore the Denming point quoted in my new paragraph 1. The Legal Advisers stick to their guns, nonetheless, and I do not feel that I have any option but to follow them. But it certainly does substantially increase the objections to circulating any paper at all only fools rush in where angels fear to tread or at least where archangels differ on the correct route through the minefield.

J.R.a.

16 June 1971

J R A Bottomley

Copy to Sir V Evans
Sir C O'Neill
Sir T Brimelow
Mr L Fielding

2 cms The National Archives ins. 1 1 2

Ref. FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

CONFIDENTIAL

SOVEREIGNTY AND THE EUROPEAN COMMUNITIES

It is not possible to state with any certainty what effect our joining the European Communities would come to have on the sovereignty of Parliament. The question was mentioned in a judgment of the Court of Appeal on 10 May, 1971, but the Court deliberately refused to answer it. Lord Denning, presiding, said inter alia

"If HM Ministers sign this treaty and Parliament enacts provisions to implement it, I do not envisage that Parliament would afterwards go back on it and try to withdraw from it. But, if Parliament should do so, then I say we will consider that event when it happens. We will then say whether Parliament can lawfully do it or not."

- 2. So long as Parliament continued to exist in its present shape, it would no doubt be possible in the last resort for legislation to be passed and enforced to separate the United Kingdom from the Communities. But this is not a speculation we can indulge in or encourage.
- 3. The situation is also uncertain over external aspects of sovereignty. But it seems fair to conclude that, although the implies i one/

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions, Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

CONFIDENTIAL

-2-

implications for our freedom of independent action would be considerable, no substantial impairment of our international status would follow immediately upon membership, and that membership of the Community as it at present exists could involve only limited diminution of external sovereignty in practice. Fuller accounts of these issues are at Annex A. t. What is clear is that, regardless of the fundamental but uncertain problems touched on above, the "sovereignty" issue comprehends a number of real problems on which there is public uneasiness. problems will need to be dealt with and to be explained to Parliament and the public, both before we join and continuously thereafter. The most important of them are:

- (i) Parliament will have to allow some of its legislative functions to be carried out by organs of the Communities (see Annex B), some of whose legislation will take precedence over Parliamentary legislation;
- (11) The Executive will find its freedom of action in many fields restricted by Community decisions (see Annex C); and
- (iii) Parliament will have increased difficulty in carrying out its traditional function of supervising the activities of the Executive ("grievances before supply") in obta..)

NOTHING TO BE WRITTEN IN THIS MARGIN

-	17.0	IL IN		12. 4.600	W. Tall H	体型的影响				-76					1
1	1.18	2 cms	PARAS.	海水温 式	The N	lational	Archive	es .		ins		11	4 4 VIII	Γ,	, , ,
1	Re	f ·	FCO		30 /	(₀ , (0)	Q el	A Charles			31
									Mary N. S	的問題等		701	10	物	136

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions, Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

CONFIDENTIAL

-3-

fields in which the primary decisions will be taken in Brussels rather than in London.

- 5. Among the ways in which these problems could be dealt with are the following:
- (a) British Parliamentarians should be encouraged and assisted to play the most effective possible role in the European Parliament;
- (b) Ways should be found to adapt the processes of the British Parliament so as to minimize feelings of remoteness and alienation of the decision-makers in Brussels. The creation of a Select Committee on Community Affairs might be considered:
- (c) Special attention should also be given to the strengthening of local and regional democratic processes.
- 6. More generally the fear of "loss of sovereignty" reflects apprehensions arising from the reduction of British power and influence. For many people in this country—even among those who concede intellectually that the days of splendid isolation are long past and that we are nowadays a power of the middle rank and can proceed only by treaty, alliance and compromise—it is not easy to accept the implications of this fact emotionally or instinctively. Joining the Community will affront/

NOTHING TO BE WRITTEN IN THIS MARGIN

14.30	The state of the s
1000	1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2
	I Ins 71
100
194	Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 2122116
Sec. 25 18 18 18 18 18 18 18 18 18 18 18 18 18	[Mel. FCO 3D / 1048 312345]
M
100 TO	Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your the of it was and conditions and that your
UK TO STATE	use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the Terms and
型器联步2个等	Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets
1378/055 - 685/07/55

CONFIDENTIAL affront the deep feelings of many people in this country. It will therefore be important - after as well as before joining - to demonstrate the increase BE WRITTEN IN THIS MARGIN in our real international influence through our sharing in the formulation and execution of the Community's policies. NOTHING TO

	2 cms		The Nat	ional Arch	nives		ins 1	,1	arrend a size
R	ef.: FC	0 1	30 /	1048		- September 1897	31	2345
1	note that thi	and the second	10 10 10 10 10 10 X 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10	the state of the s	the same of the same of the same	wasting the little trace

use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Parliamentary Onder-Secretary LINGHOLM. Ack. KESWICK, Recd. CUMBERLAND. To. 2 30th June, 1971.

The Marquess of Lothian, Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State, Foreign and Commonwealth Office, LONDON, S.W.1.

Dear Colluan

Many thanks for your letter of 21st June in regard to the Treaty of Rome and discussing the question as to whether in particular countries could or could not opt out if they so wished.

Whilst your answer is certainly most helpful, it does not really go quite as far as I would have hoped. However, I will use it as best I can in the context of the fear of irrevocability which I mentioned in my original letter. Thank you for wour troubless your trouble.

RECEIVED IN REGISTRY No. 37 -5JUL 1971

muk 2/12

92

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Rec. and Ack. 5/7

Sold For draft reply please

HONS

From: Geoffrey Johnson Smith M.P.

1st July 1971

Deur Vorry

I should be most grateful if your Department would kindly comment on paragraph three of the enclosed letter.

I have been getting quite a lot of questions on this point from the better educated constituents. I have done some research and have, I think, quite a good answer. I think the time has come for me to seek the authoritative views from your Department, whose legal division must have given some considerable thought to this problem.

Anthony Royle Esq., M.P. Foreign & Commonwealth Office Downing Street S.W.1.

RECEIVED AN REGISTRY NO. 37 -5JUL 1971 MW K2 12.

	7	Newplace, Framfield, Nº Uckfield. Sussex. Framfield Office 466. Private 462.	RECINETE W REGISTRY No. 37 - 5 JUL 1971 Music 2/12
	Geoffrey Jo House of Co London, S.V		28th June 1971
A management) individuals	am sure you will be beginn everywhere are starting to we will not be led like lemi	take action to that I could achieved you the effect th You hugged say that aga that you are have had hap New Zealand	doubt that you made many a agree with at your talk in F ir biggest cheer when you a at 'it was necessary to get the air in front of you, but in at other meetings, just a going to force them to 'get ppy voluntary relationships I and many other countries ced cannot possibly be har	ramfield. You said something to people together!. please when you remind the audience together!. We with Australia, a relationship
Medical Commission of the Comm	effect that me power to be You said you you to run a powers to me have the powers.	ou further answered anothe othing in the Treaty of Rom executive, judge and jury in would 'run a mile'. I am mile, but the nine Commistate their own regulations are to investigate company' ant in any country. They have	ne gave anyone any n their own case. not going to ask sioners do have "" and orders. They s books without a have the power to
			Than The
		· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·

| 2 cms | The National Archives | ins | 1 | 2 | Ref.: FCO | 30 / 1048 | 312345 |
| Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

about.

convict. This conviction has to be passed on to the national court which has to obey it. There is no appeal. If the fine is excessive or cannot be paid, then the court will have to proceed to the next stage which must be gaol. I really

. 2 .

I think it is fair to ask you to refute my statement with the necessary quotation or to apologise and admit that you were wrong in the Framfield hall.

believe you cannot possibly know what the Treaty of Rome is

I do not think you can possibly realise the monstrosity that the agricultural and fishery legislation inside the EEC is producing. The cost has risen in four years from £250,000,000 to £1,500,000,000. For what purpose is this money to be paid and who is to gain? Food prices are to rise and there is this enormous tax.

It is easy to see the hideous dangers and vast cost of joining the EEC. Can you give me one certain advantage.

I am more and more certain that the Conservative Party if it heads for the Common Market, is going to destroy itself and it will also compound the economic difficulties in which we already wallow because the Party simply will not do that which is necessary both to stop inflation, to increase employment and put the country on a sound economic footing.
I think you will become more and more aware that the British people do not intend to be led over the cliff like lemmings. For the umpteenth time in history a relatively few people are confusing and betraying a very great number.
I am sure it will never happen. You are using devious means to give away the sovereignty of Parliament in perpetuity.
This is quite different to making a treaty which can be cancelled by a subsequent Parliament. From your talk in Framfield and communications with Geoffrey Rippon and other members

4.		1
1	2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2	1
	2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2
5.45	(A) 1 3 1 3 4 5 1 3 4 5 1 1 3 4 5 1

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

of your Government, I am satisfied that the real dangers in the situation are just not understood. Yours sincerely, Antony Fisher

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster

Foreign and Commonwealth Office.

Downing Street London SWr

Telephone 01-930 8440

23 June 1971

De Rober

Albert Costain has passed on to me your letter of 10 June, with an enquiry from a constituent about the legal position if we join the European Community.

In general Community law, whether embodied in instruments having direct internal effect or in instruments which require implementing legislation to be passed by the Member States, is applied through the municipal courts of Member States.

However, sometimes Community institutions, and in particular the Commission, are given some powers to decide whether there has been an infringement of Community law and, in accordance with a quasi-judicial procedure, to impose penalties for the infringement. An example is in the field of restrictive practices, where Regulation 17 gives the Commission such powers. Where the Council or the Commission has the power to take such decisions, Article 173 of the Treaty of Rome provides a safeguard by allowing the decision to be challenged before the European Court of Justice.

Cuther

(GEOFFREY RIPPON)

Robert S. Redmond, Esq. TD, MP

REGISTRA NO. 37 REGISTRA NO. 37 28/22/08/9/71

MNK 2/12

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' to the desired and the little supplied subject to the National Archives' to the end of the little supplied subject to the National Archives' to the end of the little supplied subject to the National Archives' to the end of the little supplied subject to the National Archives' to the end of the little supplied subject to the National Archives' to the end of the little supplied subject to the National Archives' to the end of the little supplied subject to the National Archives' to the end of the little supplied subject to the National Archives' to the end of the little supplied subject to the National Archives' to the end of the little supplied subject to the National Archives' to the end of the little supplied subject to the National Archives' to the end of the little supplied subject to the end of the little subject to the end of the little supplied subject to the end of the little supplied subject to the end of the little supplied subject to the end of the little subject to the

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Foreign and Commonwealth Office

London S.W.1

21 June, 1971

From The Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State

Thank you for your letter of 6 June about the question of sovereignty and the EEC.

I should first of all like to point out that membership of the European Communities would not affect the vast majority of the Government's powers to run this country. However, no country these days can really decide all its affairs by itself. Britain's actions in both the political and the commercial sphere are already greatly circumscribed by a nexus of international agreements such as the GATT and the UN. I firmly believe that our membership of the Community institutions, particularly the Council of Ministers will be of great benefit to this country when it comes to making agreements with countries outside Europe. The Community has already shown that it can defend its members' interests far more effectively than they could individually.

The Community is, of course, committed to examining means of progress towards economic and monetary union, as a logical development from the present stage of economic and commercial integration. This policy is still, however, in its infancy, and progress will be necessarily slow. Britain would be a member of the Community before any decisive steps towards economic and monetary union were taken, and would certainly ensure that no action detrimental to her national interest was taken.

J Derrick, Esq., Little Orchard, Sudbrook Lane, Petersham, Richmond, Surrey.

2 c	ms	The	National Archives	ns 1	T.
Ref.:	FCO	30	1 1048	312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that you use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

I have noted your request for tickets and I shall do my best to obtain one for you, although I should warn you that they will be in very short supply.

Anthony Royle

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2 Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 319345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Foreign and Commonwealth Office

London S.W.1

From The Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State

21 June, 1971.

E.I.D.

Thank you for your letter of 8 June about the irrevocability of the Treaty of Rome.

The Treaty of Rome is not, of course, unique in that it does not have a time limit or contain a denunciation clause. The United Nations Charter, the Vienna Convention on Diplomatic Relations and the Anglo-Malaysian Defence Agreement of 1957 (to name only a few international agreements to which Britain is a party) could also be termed "irrevocable" if this were the criterion. There are no constituional obstacles in the way of Parliament's approving Treaties of unlimited duration if it so wishes.

The important point to make here, as I am sure you will realise, is that the Community operates on the basis of consensus, and that the obvious course of action to take in the event of problems would be to get together with our partners and to attempt to solve them within the framework of the Community. A Treaty only remains effective so long as the political and economic need for it is there; if internal problems and disagreements in the Community grew too strongly to be resolved by discussion, and its internal differences became irreconcilable, then it would fall apart of its own accord. But I believe that the advantages of continuing membership will grow as integration within the Community proceeds. In fact, the course the Community has taken so far demonstrates this. The Community has been an outstanding economic success. It has had the collective strength to overcome all manner of obstacles to its development. There is no significant regional or political group in the Community which wants withdrawal or dissolution - let alone any member state.

The Viscount Rochdale, O.B.E., T.D., D.L., House of Lords, S.W.1.

RECEIVED IN REGISTRY N 7

nuk 2/12

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2 Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

There were plenty of people in the Six who expressed the doubts and fears you now hear from anti-Marketeers in this country, before the Treaties were signed. These voices have long since fallen silent. The member states have lost none of their separate national identities; collectively they have gained, not lost, in influence.

It is difficult to find a succinct formula of words to cover this question, but I hope what I have written above will help.

(LOTHIAN)

THE REAL PROPERTY.	the control of the co	1
1	2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2 Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345	A Mar
1. 1.5	120 130 V 1010 21221.C
N 1 1/2	Ref. FCD DD / IDAG SIKSAS
2	The state of the s	.68.0

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Mr Statham duct

1. I submit a note of guidance on the ECSC entry fee for Mr Rippon's use in answering questions in Parliament. I T Steven European Integration Department 18 June 1971 REGISTRY No. 37 28 JUN 1971

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives and the supplied subject to the National Archives are supplied subject to the National Archives and the supplied subject to the National Archives are subject to

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions, Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Registry
No.
SESORITY CLASSIFICATION
Top Seret.
Secret.
Confidential,
Restricted.
Unclassified.

PRIVACY MARKING
In Confidence

EUROPEAN COAL AND STEEL COMMUNITY ENTRY FEE

THE REASON FOR AN ENTRY FEE
Our contribution, in 3 instal@ments, of an "entry fee" of 57 m.u.a. (£2h million) to the ECSC has been accepted because this sum represents our participation in the accumulated funds to which we shall have access immediately upon entry and from which HMG, the local authorities, the coal and steel industries, and other industries related thereto will derive considerable benefits. The funds have been built up from levies imposed on the coal and steel undertakings of the existing member states since the ECSC was set up in 1952.

It is a principle of the ECSC that, unlike the funds of the other Communities, levies will be imposed on the output of the coal and steel industries of the members states. The calculation of an entry fee was based valuation on the last available of the funds, at the end of 1969, dated in 1970. The proportion was taken as the amount of the levy based on coal and steel output, which the UK would have paid had we been members

NOTHING TO BE WRITTEN IN THIS MARGIN

(145181) Dd. 737490 750M 1/71 Hw.

1.00	110	。	MARKE, T
1	īŢ	2 cms The National Archives ins 1	2
. 10	1	Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that you use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions, Further Information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

during 1969 compared with the levy paid by the Community in that year. This proportion amounted to 37%.

Accumulated ECSC funds at the end of 1969 accepted have been payable if book values had been strictly calculated would have been of 81.4 m.u.a. (£33.9 million). The reduction to the present agreed figure was made after the Community had accepted that some parts of the counsituated reserves eg those reverse loans for workers housing made at a very low interest rate, could be written down in value. By this device the book value of the accumulated funds was reduced from 220 to 155 m.u.a. with the consequential reduction in the amount of our entry fee from 81.4 m.u.a. to 57 mu.a.

AN ALPERNATIVE BASIS FOR CALCULATION

Agreement by the Community on the present basis of italy calculation Position represented a considerable concession, since some of the Governments of the member states had argued that our participation in the accumulated funds should have been equivalent to the sum which we would have contributed to these funds had we been members of the ECSC since its inception. Such a basis of calculation would have made us liable for a sum in excess of 100 m.u.a.

NOTHING TO BE WRITTEN IN THIS MARGIN

1 Z cms The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Mr Mordand 17/6 Mr Logan

I submit for Mr Royle's signature a draft reply to a letter from one of his constituents, Mr J Derrick.

Gellark

G E Clark
European Integration Department

17 June 1971

RECTIVED IN
REGISTRY No. 37
/28 JUN 1971

MER 412

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2 2 Ref. FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms' and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Registry No.

DRAFT

To:— J Derrick Esq

Petersham,

Richmond

Surrey

Little Orchard

Sudbrook Lane

Type 1 +

SECURITY CLASSIFICATION

Top Secret.
Secret.
Confidential.
Restricted.
Unclassified.

PRIVACY MARKING

In Confidenc

From

Mr Royle Telephone No. & Ext.

Department

Thank you for your letter of 6 June about the question of sovereignty and the EEC.

I should first of all like to point out that membership of the European Communities would not affect the vast majority of the Government's powers to run this country. However, no country these days can really decide all its affairs by itself. Britain's actions in both the political and the commercial sphere are already greatly circumscribed by a nexus of international agreements such as the GATT and the UN. I firmly believe that our membership of the Community institutions, particularly the Council of Ministers will be of great benefit to this country when it comes to making agreements with countries outside Europe. The widers Community has already shown that it can defend its members far more effectively than they could individually.

The Community is, of course, committed to examining means of progress towards economic and monetary union, as a logical development from the present stage of economic and commercial integration. This policy is still, however, in its infancy, and progress will be necessarily slow. Britain would be a member of the Community before any decisive steps towards economic and monetary union were taken, and would certainly ensure that no action detrimental to her national interest was taken.

NOTHING TO BE WRITTEN IN THIS MARGIN

(145181) Dd. 737490 750M 1/71

H.

CES S			PROTECTION	Project	TO AND	Constitution of	100		477		31000		THE STATE OF THE S		Wilderine Wilderine	T Wash	NAC TO	THE PARTY OF	None of	NAME OF STREET				a market	1.628	green and the second	A PARTY	He Str	34
7.55	1		2 cn	is .				TI	ie N	Vat	ion	alA	rch	ive	S		erana Kara			ins	J	1,1988 8,735	1		20 A.S.	- 1	4.254 17.4	2	No.
	1	Ref		FC	20		3	0	1		01	10	1		No.	195	Printer.		8 X.5%	× 3		, , ,	2.2		-	AND THE			1
200	15	William To The St.	creeks out	Control or the last	2.5 9.5	1000		111/20,7110		Su(Ch)				Sec.		1350		10	Post of	15	•) 1 -	()	н.	3

ease note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

W(B)ES1-740	I have noted your request for tickets and I shall do my best to obtain one for you, although I should warn you that they will be in very short supply.
	1876 Company of the control of the c
NOTHING TO BE WRITTEN IN THIS MARGIN
HING TO BE WRITT
LON

-		The state of the s	556
	11	2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2	No.
9	42.	- The Mational Archives	3
	748		X.
	7.5	Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345
		Section 1997 and the second section of the second section of the second section of the second section of

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

MRMorland Mr Morland 17/6 Mr Godden I submit for Lord Lothian's signature a draft reply to a letter from Lord Rochdale about the irrevocability of the Treaty of Rome. Mark G E Clark European Integration Department RECEIVED IN REGISTRY No. 37 17 June 1971 28 JUN1971

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / IOUS 3123U5

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions of All 1

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Registry DRAFT Type 1 + No. SECURITY CLASSIFICATION From To:-Lord Lothian Top Secret. Secret. Telephone No. & Ext. Confidential. Restricted. LORD ROCHDALE Unclassified. Department PRIVACY MARKING ____In Confidence Thank you for your letter of 8 June about the irrevocability of the Treaty of Rome. 2. The Treaty of Rome is not, of course, unique MARGIN in that it does not have a time limit or contain a denunciation clause. The UN Charter, the Vienna THIS Convention on Diplomatic Relations and the Anglo-Malaysian Defence Agreement of 1957 (to name only a Z few international agreements to which Britain is a WRITTEN party) could also be termed 'irrevocable' if this were the criterion. There are no constitutional BE obstacles in the way of Parliament's approving 10 Treaties of unlimited duration if it so wishes. NOTHING The important point to make here, I think, is that the Community operates on the basis of consensus. and that the obvious course of action to take in the event of problems would be to get together with our partners and to attempt to solve them within the framework of the Community. A Treaty only remains effective so long as the political and economic need for it is there; if internal problems and disagreements in the Community grew too strong to be resolved Ĭ 1 by discussion, and its internal differences became 750M irreconcilable, then it would fall apart of its own 737490 But I believe that the advantages of accord. 5

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

> continuing membership will certainly grow as integration within the Community proceeds. In fact the course the Community has taken so far demonstrates this. The Community has been an outstanding economic success. It has had the collective strength to overcome all manner of obstacles to its development. There is no significant regional or political group in the Community which wants withdrawal or dissolution - let alone any member state. were plenty of people in the Six who expressed the doubts and fears you now hear from anti-Marketeers in this country, before the Treaties were signed. These voices have long since fallen silent. The member states have lost hone of their separate national identities; collectively they have gained, not lost, in influence.

4. It is difficult to find a succinct formula of words to cover this question, but I hope what I have written above will help.

At 216

NOTHING TO BE WRITTEN IN THIS MARGIN

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Mr Mortand 16/6

Mr Pakenham

I submit for Mr Rippon's signature a draft reply to a letter which Mr Costain has received from Mr R S Redmond MP.

The legal advisers agree.

6alar

G E Clark

European Integration Department

15 June 1971

Vu

EWHER +px

1246

78 1911 178 1911 1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Registry LETTER DRAFT Type 1 + No. SECURITY CLASSIFICATION From Mr Rippon To:-Top Secret. Secret. Telephone No. & Ext. Mr Robert S Redmond TD MP Confidential. Restricted. Départment Unclassified. PRIVACY MARKING Albert Costain has passed on to me your letter of In Confidence tain on 10 June, with an rom a constituent enquiry/about the position eaw if we join the Market European Community. BE WRITTEN IN THIS MARGIN In general Community law, whether embodied in instruments having direct internal effect or in instruments which require implementing legislation to be passed by the Member States, is applied through the municipal courts of Member States. However, sometimes Community institutions, and in particular the Commission, are given some powers to decide whether there has been an infringement of Community law and, in accordance with a quasi-NOTHING TO judicial procedure, to impose penalties for the infringement. An example is in the field of restrictive practices, where Regulation 17 gives the Commission such powers. Where the Council or the Commission has the power to take such decisions, Article 173 of the Treaty/, provides a safeguard by allowing the decision to be challenged before the European Court of Justice. ž 1/1 750M Dd. 737490 (145181)

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / IOUB 3123U5

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Rec. and Ack. 10/6
1. R. Department for draft reply please from M. Royck

Surrey

Little Orchard Sudbrook Lane Petersham

Richmond

M Royu 6th June 1971

Dear Mr. Royle,

Thank you very much for your letter explaining how you feel about British entry into Europe.
Although I fully agree with what you said, I am sorry you did not raise the matter of sovereignty; since I wrote my letter to you last April, I have become increasingly worried about the loss of sovereignty which could result from the EEC's long term economic plans, such as monetary union. I would feel much happier about entry if the Government were to give an assurance that Britain would veto any such plans if, and when we join. However, I fully appreciate the potential economic advantages of entry on suitable terms.

However, the real purpose of this letter is to ask you whether you could get me Strangers Gallery tickets for Commons debates on entry after the Government has published the White Paper on the terms of entry. It saves spending all that time queueing: If you can get me tickets (or a ticket if you can only get me a ticket for one debate) I would prefer them to be for debates after July 9th. Incidentally, I should like to register my disapproval of any plans to have a Commons vote on entry before the Summer recess.

Yours Sincerely,
(John Derrick)

Anthony Royle MP House of Commons London SW 1

283021971 283021971

1 2 cms		The Nat	ional Arc	hives		ins	1
Ref.: F	20	30 /	1048)			31231	15
Please note that th	le copy le cu	palled cubic	et to the N	ational Arc	hives' terr	ns and con	ditions ar	d that your lease note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Ref.: FCO 30 / 648 312345 Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply for the National Archives' terms.	1 2 cms	The National Ar	chives
lease note that this copy is supplied subject to the National A. I.	Ref.: FCO	The state of the s	the state of the s	The first state of the second state of the sec
	lease note that this copy is s	upplied subject to the I	National Archives' terms a	THE PARTY OF THE P

Reference

486

Mr Sinclair (Legal Advisers K 166) 15/6/7.

Mr Steven (European Integration Department E 204a)

- 1. Please see the attached letter from Mr de Winton about the procedures adopted by the Commission in imposing penalties. Before we can answer the various points put to us I think we shall have to do a bit of writing around.
- 2. On the first point, about the presumption of innocence, it is not true that all members of the Community have subscribed to Article 6 (2) of the European Convention on Human Rights: France is not a party to that Convention. For convenience, Article 6 (2) reads: "everyone charged with a criminal offence shall be presumed innocent until proved guilty according to law".
- 3. I think that it would be a perfectly fair accordance to make in public, that the five who are parties to the Convention do in fact have laws which are in accordance with this provision. The Solicitor General, however, obviously would like to have this confirmed by quotations from authoritative works on the criminal procedures in some of the countries concerned. I think that there is no real alternative to asking the Embassies in the Six to provide appropriate quotations from authoritative works in their countries. I think that this is particularly required in the case of France, given that France is not a party to the European Convention on Human Rights.
- 4. The other main question is whether there is any prior impartial hearing before the Commission imposes fines. Taking first Regulation 17, which under Articles 15 and 16 allows the Commission to impose fines or penalties, it is clear from Article 19 that before taking the decision to impose a fine or penalty under Articles 15 and 16 there must be an opportunity given to the "accused" to express their views. Article 1 of Regulation 99 refers to this process as a "hearing". Article 7 of Regulation 99 obliges the Commission to provide an opportunity for written arguments to be developed orally. Article 9 of Regulation 99 provides that hearings shall be conducted by persons appointed by the Commission.
- I think from this procedure it can be safely said that there is a prior hearing before the Commission decides to impose a fine. What I am less certain about is the extent to which it can be said that the hearing is "impartial". Simply as a matter of form, and irrespective of the possible impartiality of the procedure adopted in practice, it may be said that a hearing before a person who is appointed by the "prosecuting" authority can scarcely be thoroughly impartial. Whether that formal point is a good one or not, clearly a great deal depends on exactly how these appointees operate, and what kind of persons the Commission appoint for this purpose. think we have no alternative but to ask Brussels about this. notice that in paragraph 31 of the 1967 White Paper we did not actually say that the hearings were impartial, but merely referato a "quasi-judicial procedure". There is perhaps a further criticism to be directed at the procedure provided by Article 9 of Regulation 99, and this is the provision in paragraph 3 that hearings shall not be public. Quite apart from any general principles which might be thought to apply, it is worth drawing attention in this context to Article 6 (1) of the European Convention on Human Rights, which provides that "in the determination of his civil rights and obligations or of any criminal charge against him, everyone is entitled

Sel suiding

DD 737719 557664 500M 2/71 GM 3643/2

1	2 cms		ional Archive	S	ins ¹	i '- '	2
	Ref.: FCC	30 /	1048		312	345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

to a fair and public hearing within a reasonable time by an independent and impertial tribunal established by law". It may be enough that the ultimate determination of a person's rights or liability to a penalty under Regulation 17 can be determined by the European Court. Nevertheless, I think that Article 6 (1) could be used damagingly.

- 6. Article 17 of Regulation 17 confers upon the European Court full jurisdiction within the meaning of Article 172 of the EEC Treaty when adjudicating on appeals brought against decisions by which the Commission has fixed a fine or a penalty. Mr de Winton asks whether this has any bearing on the procedure of the Commission, particularly the impartiality of the hearing. I am sure that the existence of Article 172 does have a bearing on the procedure of the Commission, in that the knowledge that there can be an appeal to the European Court is bound to make the Commission very chary of doing anything improper. I would doubt, however, whether this would enable somebody to question the impartiality of the hearing by the person appointed by the Commission solely on the grounds that, being appointed by the Commission, he could not be impartial. But I should have thought it very likely that if, on some other grounds, it could be shown that the hearings were conducted impartially, this could be sufficient to enable the European Court to cancel or reduce the fine or penalty imposed. In this connection, it is worth noting that the European Court, in the Koster, Berodt and Company case (Affaire 25/70, judgment delivered in December 1970) decided that respect for the general principles of law is assured by the European Court.
- 7. Much the same can, I think, be said about the effects of Article 173 of the EEC Treaty, although in this case the European Court has power to declare the decision of the Commission imposing a fine or penalty to be invalid.
- 8. Apart from Regulation 17, I think that other provisions providing for a person upon whom the Commission proposes to impose a penalty must have a prior hearing are probably only to be found in other particular Regulations. I am not aware of any general provisions to this effect. Other particular Regulations in this context are Regulation No 11 of the EEC Council, Articles 17 and 18 of which provide for the Commission to impose a penalty, and Article 25 of which provides for some kind of prior hearing. In this case it is specifically provided that the person to hear the explanations of the "accused" is to be an official of the Commission. Article 25 also provides for Article 172 of the EEC Treaty to apply. Another particular Regulation is EEC Council Regulation No 1017/68. Article 23 provides for the imposition of penalties, Article 26 provides for some kind of prior hearing, and Article 24 provides for the role of the European Court under Article 172.
- 9. I do not know how far it is possible to generalise (and again, perhaps we should ask Brussels) but I suspect that virtually every Regulation which allows of decisions to be taken imposing fines or penalties by the Commission also provides for a prior hearing (which may be written, or written and oral) and also for a reference to the European Court under Article 172. The real difficulty in being re-assuring about the point put to the Solicitor General is on the question of impartiality of this prior hearing. So far as this impartiality might be called in question, the fact that the European Court is available by way of appeal is a good safeguard.

A D Watts Legal Advisers W 44/4

The National Archives 312345 1 1048 FCO 30 Ref.:

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

01-405 7641 EXT. 20

cations on this subject should be L SECRETARY, LAW OFFICERS' DEPARTMENT,

ROYAL COURTS OF JUSTICE, LONDON, W.C.2 LAW OFFICERS' DEPARTMENT,

ROYAL COURTS OF JUSTICE,

LONDON, W.C.2.

entry of Asturn to me

entry of Asturn to me

entry of Asturn to me

Lo

entry of Asturn to me

15 praction of the Marketine of the Asturn to me

15

Asturn to me

Lo

entry of Asturn to me

15

Asturn to me

16

Asturn to me

16

Asturn to me

17

Asturn to me

17

Asturn to me

18

Asturn to me

18

Asturn to me

18

Asturn to me

19

Asturn to me

Dear Arken

The Solicitor-General has had in mind to take up the two brief points made in the attached note and spell out an answer to them in one of his forthcoming speeches, assuming that they can be refuted. The question of the procedure for imposing penalties may well have been fully studied during recent years, but we do not have any detailed official paper about it here. We would therefore be grateful for any advice the Foreign and Commonwealth Office can give us about the answers which the Solicitor-General might make in his speech.

The first point to be dealt with is that Continental systems of jurisprudence require an accused to prove his innocence. Since all Members of the Community have subscribed to the convention for the protection of fundamental rights and freedoms, which provides in Article 6(2) for a presumption of innocence in favour of the accused, it must be assumed that their laws fully reflect this position. It would, however, be helpful if this could be confirmed by quotations from authoritative works on the criminal procedures in some of the countries concerned.

The second point is that EEC regulations, such as regulation 17, authorise the Commission to impose penalties "without any prior impartial hearing". So far as regulation 17 itself is concerned the position seems to be fairly clear. Article 19 of regulation 37 requires

25 JUN 1971

/the

7WK 2/12

1	2 cms	The Nati	onal Archive	es	ins	1 3		2
	Ref.: FCO	30 /	1048	and the second		31234	5
Plea	ise note that this copy	is supplied subject	t to the Natio	nal Archives'

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Reference 104

3 August 1971

Mr. I.T. Steven

Presumption of Innocence

I have looked through the Constitutions of the six Member States of the European Communities. Though five of them contain some guarantees of a fair trial (for Belgium, see Articles 7 and 8; for the FRG, Article 103; for Italy, Articles 24 and 25; for Luxembourg, Articles 12 to 14; and for Netherlands, Articles 170 and 175), the Italian Constitution alone expressly refers to the question of innocence and guilt. "The person accused is not considered guilty," it says in the second paragraph of Article 27, "until final sentence has been passed upon him."

This does not prevent, however, the presumption of innocence from being a basic tenet in criminal proceedings in the other Member States of the Six. The principle in dubio pro reo prevails in all of them (for the FRG, see K. Neumann in the F.O. Manual of German Law, Vol. II, p. 149, H.M.S.O., 1952). This is why five of the Six could adhere, as far as its Article 6(2) is concerned, to the European Convention of Human Rights. And so could certainly France.

While this is the case, there is an important difference in the way in which the presumption is applied in criminal proceedings in the six Member States on the one hand, and in the U.K. on the other. In the U.K. the general presumption that a person is innocent until the contrary is proved, and that the more serious the crime the more clearly it must be proved (see Halsbury's, Simonds ed., Vol. 10, p. 457) leads to an allocation of the burden of proof at the trial.

In the six Member States, on the other hand, the presumption has not the same function. Thus, in the FRG, it is the duty of the Court to do everything necessary to ascertain the truth. This, in a sense, "does away" with the whole problem of burden of proof. Yet the presumption of innocence applies to the weighing of the evidence (cf. K. Neumann, ibidem; J.E.S. Fawcett, The Application of the European Convention on Human Rights, O.U.P., 1969, p. 161). The same applies in France and Belgium and presumably in Luxembourg and the Netherlands.

2

3,

4.

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

01-405 7641 EXT.

Communications on this subject should be addressed to
THE LEGAL SECRETARY,
LAW OFFICERS' DEPARTMENT,
ROYAL COURTS OF JUSTICE,
LONDON, W.C.2.

LAW OFFICERS' DEPARTMENT,

ROYAL COURTS OF JUSTICE,

LONDON, W.C.2.

-2-

the Commission to give undertakings or associations an opportunity to express their views on the acts or omissions of which they are accused before taking a decision to impose a penalty. Regulation 99 spells out the procedure for this; under which the Commission is required to specify the grounds of complaint, and enterprises or associations can submit written pleadings and also are entitled to an oral hearing by a person appointed by the Commission.

There are a number of questions on which we need clarification as follows:

- (a) Are the persons appointed to conduct the hearing "impartial"?
- (b) Do the doctrines of "full jurisdiction as to the merits" within the meaning of Article 172 of the Treaty, or the grounds of jurisdiction of the court mentioned in Article 173 of the Treaty, have any bearing on the procedure of the Commission, in particular the impartiality of the hearing?
- (c) Leaving aside regulation 17 (and also Article 36 of the EECSC Treaty) are there any provisions, of general or particular application, guaranteeing the person upon whom the Commission proposes to impose a penalty a prior hearing? Para.31 of the 1967 White Paper leaves the impression that a quasi judicial procedure would always be observed.

Your ever.

A. D. Watts, Esq., Legal Advisers, Foreign and Commonwealth Office, Downing Street, LONDON.S.W.1.

31.3			N4.778	a de la companya de	The State of the S
1	2 c	ms	The	National Archives	ins	1	Charles Tr	2
1	Ref.:	FCO	30	1 1048		3123	45	100

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

5.

Unfortunately, F.O. Law Library does not contain, nor was its very resourceful Librarian able to produce, the Codes of Criminal Procedure of the Six or text books on the subject. So I am not in a position to quote chapter and verse for the foregoing. But I am pretty certain that my recollection is correct. Moreover, a few years ago I read an article by, I believe, Professor C. Hamson on the French law on the subject. His conclusion was that taking the pre-trial and trial as a whole, the position in France was very much the same as over here. (I cannot locate the article now, and there is no reply from Hamson's home in Cambridge.)

6.

I would not generalise this conclusion. My own impression is that, while the presumption of innocence applies in the six Member States their rules on the admissibility of evidence differ from those in this country where the rules are highly technical and, on the whole, limitative. This is one of the reasons for the general impression that the rule of law is more pronounced in this country than "on the Continent". The other reasons concern mainly the pre-trial stage.

Allkin

Alexander Elkin KCS EID 347A Ext. 502

The National Archives 1 1048 312345 FCO 30 Ref.:

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

263

Written Answers

22 JUNE 1971

Written Auswers

to amend the operation of the Mainten-ance Orders (Facilities for Enforcement) Act 1920, so as to include affiliation orders and to extend it to include foreign and Commonwealth countries; and if he will make a statement

Mr. Carlisle: Legislation for this pur-pose is being prepared and will be introduced when parliamentary time permits.

Downing Street Demonstration (Police)

Mr. Dempsey asked the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many police officers, and of what ranks, on duty and standing by and how many police vans were engaged in controlling the Clydeside workers, ministers of religion, and Scottish Members of Parliament during the recent demonstration at No. 10 Downing Street; and what was the total cost involved of these police services.

Mr. Sharples: Ninety-four police officers were on duty on 16th June in connection with the visit of shipbuilding workers to London.

Their ranks were: 1 commander, 2 chief superintendents, 2 chief inspectors, 4 inspectors, 9 sergeants, 76 constables. One coach, five personnel carriers and one car were used.

There were no additional costs to police funds.

WEST MIDLANDS

Q6. Mr. Carter asked the Prime Minister if he will now make an early official visit to the West Midlands.

The Prime Minister: As I indicated in the reply I gave last Tucsday to a supplementary question from my hon. Friend the Member for Brierley Hill (Mr. Montgomery), I shall be visiting the West Midlands on 30th September and 1st October.—[Vol. 819, c. 227-229.]

FIRST LORD OF THE TREASURY

Q7. Mr. Douglas asked the Prime Minister if he will introduce legislation to abolish the office of First Lord of the

The Prime Minister: No.

EUROPEAN ECONOMIC COMMUNITY

O8 Mr. Biggs-Davison asked the Prime Minister what requests he has received from the Prime Ministers of Canada and Australia, in view of the difficulty of directly associating those Commonwealth realms with the European Economic Community, to include in Her Majesty's Government's negotiations in Brussels provisions for assured outlets for Australian and Canadian exports in the United Kingdom and the Community.

The Prime Minister: There is continuing close consultation with the Governments of Canada and Australia about the future of their trade with the United Kingdom as a member of an enlarged Community. In the negotiations on transitional arrangements, agreement has been reached on a number of products sitional arrangements, agreement has been reached on a number of products important to these countries.

Q9. Mr. Bruce-Gardyne asked the Prime Minister whether he will co-ordinate a programme of public speeches by Ministers to ensure that the electorate is properly informed concerning the advantages which would result from the enlargement of the European Community.

The Prime Minister: My right bon. Priends and I will continue to provide this information both through public speeches and by other means.

O16. Mr. Biggs-Davison asked the Prime Minister what amendments of, or derogations from, the Treaty of Rome he discussed with President Pompidou in order that essential sovereignty may be maintained if the United Kingdom enters the European Economic Community.

The Prime Minister: As I told the House on 24th May, Persident Pompidou and I agreed that decisions in the Community should in practice be taken by unanimous agreement when vital national interests of any one or more Members are at stake.—[Vol. 818, c. 31-35.]

HOMELESS PERSONS

Q10. Miss Lester asked the Prime Minister if he is satisfied with the co-ordination between the Home Office, the

VOL 819.

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2
Ref.: FCO 30 / OUB 3123US

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

ADVICE FOR THE PRIME MINISTER

NOT YET APPROVED

SUBMITTED TO: Mr. Ryppon e Mr. Royle

2,37.35.44.	1, 17, 10, 21	· 不要在这些一个人	Section of the second	用品牌区分(和"石口公司"	43年6937年時間	Marting Name (A)	支持的政策的政治的	Mishadow Hotel And Share	學學是經濟學學	經濟學的政治學	The latest the second	经济的 有效的	1966
1	. 2	cms		Th	ie Nati	onal Arc	hives		in		1 1888	LES	2
	Y 65,4	WEST TO	A 77. W.
3 4 - 3 7	Ref .:	-	co ·	- 30	1	1048	L. The second			312	21,5	40 mm	1000
2 2 3 3		in Light Date increases	Section Assisted.	CONSTRUCTOR STATE	A MARKET AND	电影性的影響器	20-1987年 自己的国际	and the same of	CATHOLIC NAME OF GRANTS		STORY SECTION SECTION	BARTIS COM 255100
Pla	ase not	a that th	is convi	e cupalia	deubland	ta the Ki	-	AND THE PERSON NAMED IN	DESCRIPTION SHE WAS INSPECT	では、中国によっています	型於 即代起來你的人們不	BOUNT NICHTON	17 16 11

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and'.

Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

PARLIAMENT TRY QUESTION

for ORAL answer on Tue nday 22nd June

The draft reply should reach the Parliamentary Office through your Under-Secretary by

*U. Mr. John Biggs-Davison (Chigwell): To ask the Prime Minister, what amendments of, or derogations from, the Treaty of Rome he discussed with President Pompidou in order that essential sovereignty may be maintained if the United Kingdom enters the European Economic Community.

(13523) Dd.643721 3m 1/70 G.W.B Ltd. Gp.863

The National Archives 30 / 1048 Ref.:

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Tuesday 22nd June 1971 °0. Mr. John Biggs-Davison (To be answered by the Frime Minister)

As I told the House on the 24th of May, President Pompidou and I agreed that decisions in the Community should in practice be taken by unanimous agreement when vital netional interests of any one or more Members are at stake.

Vol: 818

Vol: 31-35

The state of the s	Service and the service of	carry affaund in all	A MARIE TO A STATE OF THE PARTY	A THE REPORT OF THE	これにからを持ているという	Production of the second of the second	a three are a syclular and	College in which the court to	THE RESERVE THE PROPERTY OF THE PARTY OF THE
-0.1	2	X		The Na	tional Arc	bivos	tata ty		1 2
1 20 2	2. 化加热	13	1964	THE ING	tional Arc	HIVES	March Land	15	4
150	A. Harris	Sec. A. M. Opposite		The second second	1 . 1 h	SERVICE BOX	MOTO ACCOUNTS	· 1898年1月 2月 1日日本	COLL S MALIELANA E. COL
Table 1	Ref :	1-00	5	Date of the second	OUX		AND THE PARTY OF T	31231	15
30 33	9 435 (1955)	Top to the second of	militie Advan	Para Specie Specie	med to the State of 2	DOLLAR STORY	AND SHIP COLLEGE TO THE PERSON OF THE PERSON
1. 1. 1.	THE ROYAL PROPERTY.	55 C. SUN S. W. C.	5-32-9-20 - 15-5-A	ALCOHOLD SERVICE	STATE STATE OF STATE OF	SHADANING THE STATE OF THE STAT	PROPERTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PA	1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1	and the second s

DES FOR SUPPLEMENTARIES

DISCUSSION OF AMERICANTS TO THE TREATY OF ROMS WITH PRESIDENT PONDIDOU

- i. President Pompiden and I did not discuss amendments to the Treat; of Home, but agreed on the continuation in an enlarged Community of the agreement between European Economic Community members in 1966 (Known as the Luxembourg Agreement) under which Community decisions must in practice be reached by unanimous agreement on insues where the vital interest of one or more Member State is at stake.

 AMENDMENTS TO THE TREATY OF HOME
- 2. My right honourable Friend the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs answered yesterday a Question about this from my honourable Friend the Member for Esher.

SOVERSIGNTY

3. The voting practices of the Community, as they have evolved, adequately protect the interests of Member States. As a mamber of our enlarged Community we would have appropriate voting rights in its institutions and similar rights for expressing our views.

IA .

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345	2 cms		The National Ar	rchives	ins 1	1 A
Ref. ECO 30 / 1014 3103115			A CATAGORIAN CONTRACTOR OF THE PARTY OF THE	A	A PROPERTY SALES OF THE PROPERTY OF THE PROPER	A TENERAL TO SE
		~	A		2.20	· 巴克特斯斯 · 特别的分别的公司

ERAL QUESTIONS ABOUT THE TAIRS WITH PRESIDENT PURPLOUS.

4. The purpose of these talks was to establish a broad identity of view on European questions. I would refer honourable Hembers to my statement on the S4th of May.

SECRET AGRESMENT IN DRIME MINISTER'S TAIRS WITH TRESIDENT POMPIDOU

5. I gave the House on absolute assurance about this on the 10th of June.

PRENCH LANGUAGE

6. The larguages of all Fember States are official languages of the Community. There is no question of any momber attempting to impose one language on its partners. But it is natural that with the prospect of enlargement of the Community existing members wish to be assured that there will be no overturning of day to day practices.

CCAMUNITY PINANCE

7. The Community has put to us a possible approach to resolving this question on the basis of certain principles. Briefly, the concept is that our contributions should be governed by the Community's decision on the providing of ressources propose from the outset of our membership, but

/that during ...

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345	ALC: No. 14
Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345	2
The state of the s

bat during the transitional period the contribution should be governed by a key and that the amount of our national. Ilability which we should actually be called upon to ray would be abated over the transitional period by annually diminishing percentages.

EFFECT OF ELECTRAN ECONOMIC COMMUNITY ENTRY ON FOOD PRICES

8. The effect of entry on rood prices tends to be 6xzggerator. The previous Covernment in the White Paper of February 1970 forecast an increase in the Food Index of 18 to 26 per cent over the transitional period. This would be

5 to 4 per cent annually, or less than 1 per cent on the cost of living, of which food accounts for about one quarter. The increases might in fact be somewhat less because the gap between United Kingdom and European Economic Community prices has been narrowing. By right honourable Friend the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food will shortly be giving the House revised figures for the increase in the cost of Food on entry and I am confident that they will show a markedly better picture than that presented in the February

White Paper.

10. ...

1	2 cms		The Nation	nal Archive	S	ins	1		2
- 1	Ref . E	co 1:	30 / 1	01.0			2122	1.6
n)			The second	UHB		Bride o Marietany	יריט	ಇ ಎ.್.

Od prices in the committy

9. It should not be thought that food prices in all countries of the Community are uniform. Many factors, such as patterns of consumption and seasonal factors make for variations. Price levels for some kinds of fresh fruit and vegetables are lower in many countries of the Community. If we join, there is no remson to suppose that our prices would rise to the highest levels in the Community. On some products, for example milk, poultry, fish, tex, coffee, cooking oils and fats, price rises would be very small indeed.

STRUCTED

10. I would refer honourable Nombers to my Statement on the 10th of June.

MONETARY UNION AND "ALIGNMENT?" OF STEELING

11. Progress towards monetary union may be difficult and there may be setbacks, but I am confident that there will be developments in this direction. It would therefore be appropriate and right to have discussion on the question of progressive "alignment" of policies after we become members of the Community.

/22. . . .

	Mary Resident		A SECTION AND THE	· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·		All the second		State Acres and Section	CONTROL S
1	1 2	cms	T	ne National	Archives		ins	11 350 350	2
			л) Зо	Transfer of	25			7.5
	Rej.	:	30	1 104	8	plant of the second	312	345	MI WAR
14 . 14	AND RESTREE TO SEC.			Contract to the second second	Secretary and the second of the	a Called of the last	Carlotte Manager Comments	to the team of the last to the work with	September 1
-5	lease no	te that this c	ODV is supplie	d subject to t	he National	Archiver' tor	ne and conditi		-77

Estions about meeting of deputtes on the 16th of June and Ministralal regotiating meeting on the 21st - 22nd of June 12. Wy right honourable and learned Friend the Chandellor of the Duchy of Lancaster will be covering these in a statement after the curvent meeting.

REFERENDIM

15. I have always made it plain that it is Parliament's responsibility to decide this issue as it is to decide other issues in international relations.

1	2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2
- 1	Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345
nl.	that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your

BACKGROUND NOTE

DISCUSSIONS WITH PRESIDENT POMPIDOU ON AMENDMENTS TO OR DEROGATIONS FROM THE TREATY OF ROME TO MAINTAIN SOVEREIGNTY

The Question relates to the Prime Minister's agreement with President Pompidou on the maintenance of the Luxembourg Agreement, which was referred to in the Prime Minister's statement on the 24th of May. The Luxembourg Agreement modifies the voting procedures in the Council of Ministers of the Community (laid down in Art 148 of the Treaty of Rome) in cases where vital interests of Members are at issue. This modification of voting practice was arrived at, after the French withdrawal for six months from the Council of Ministers, in 1966. It enables member governments to maintain essential sovereignty by requiring unanimity on key decisions.

Flag A

Flag G

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2
Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions: Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

ADVICE
FOR THE PRIME MINISTER

PARLIAMENTARY
QUESTION

1	2 c	ns	The	Nat	ional Archives		ins	1
1	Ref.:	FCO	30	1	1048	11.1	312	345

PARLIAMENTARY QUESTION

for ORAL answer on Tuesday 22nd June

The draft reply should reach the Parliamentary Office through your Under Secretary by

Under-Secretary by

*U. Mr. John Biggs-Davison (Chigwell): To ask the Prime Minister, what amendments of, or derogations from, the Treaty of Rome he discussed with President Pompidou in order that essential sovereignty may be maintained if the United Kingdom enters the European Economic Community.

As I told the House on the 24th of May President

Flag A Pompidou and I agreed that decisions in the Community should in practice be taken by unanimous agreement when vital national interests of any one or more Members are at stake.

Vol:

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2 Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Registry No.	DRAFT			Type 1 +
ECURITY CLASSIFICATION	To:—			From
Top Secret, Secret, Confidential, Restricted, Unclassified,				Telephone No. & Ext. Department
PRIVACY MARKING
In Confidence			o de la composición de la composición La composición de la
	REFERENC	ES
	Flag A	24 May	Vol-818	Cols 31-35
		21 June
	Flag C	10 June		Cols 1229-30
	Flag D	8 June		Col 836
	Flag E	10 June	Vol 818
	Flag F	24 May	Vol 818
	Flag G	Art 148	Treaty of	* Rome
	NOTES FO	OR SUPPLEME	NTARIES
		CUSSION OF H PRESIDENT		TO THE TREATY OF ROM
	Pres	sident Pomp	idou and I	did not discuss
	amendmer	nts to the	Treaty of F	Rome, but agreed on th
	continua	ation in an	enlarged C	Community of the agree between	EEC member	s in 1966 (known as the Luxembou	ırg Agreeme	nt) under w	which Community decis must in	practice b	e reached l	y unanimous agreemen
	on issue	es which th	e vital int	terest of one or more
	Member S	State is at	stake.
	2. AMER	NDMENTS TO	THE TREATY	OF ROME
	My 1	rt hon Frie	nd the Secr	retary of State for
	Foreign	and Common	wealth Affa	airs answered yesterd
			· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·	mend the

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / (048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

3. SOVEREIGNTY

The voting practices of the Community, as they have evolved, adequately protect the interests of Member States. As a member of our enlarged Community we would have appropriate voting rights in its institutions and similar rights for expressing our views.

4. GENERAL QUESTIONS ABOUT THE TALKS WITH PRESIDENT POMPIDOU

The purpose of these talks was to establish a broad identity of view on European questions. I would refer hon Members to any statement on the 24th May.

5. SECRET AGREEMENT IN PRIME MINISTER'S TALKS WITH PRESIDENT POMPIDOU

I gave the House an absolute assurance about this on the 10th June.

6. FRENCH LANGUAGE

The languages of all Member States are official languages of the Community. There is no question of any Member attempting to impose one language on its partners. But it is natural that with the prospect of enlargement of the Community existing members wish to be assured that there will be no overturning of day to day practices.

7. COMMUNITY FINANCE

The Community has put to us a possible approach to resolving this question on the basis of certain principles. Briefly, the concept is that our contributions should be governed by the Community's decision on the providing of ressources propres from the outset of our membership, but that during the

Flag A

Flag C

NOTHING TO BE WRITTEN IN THIS MARGIN

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2 Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

transitional period the contribution should be governed by a key and that the amount of our national liability which we should actually be called upon to pay would be abated over the transitional period by annually diminishing percentages.

8. EFFECT OF EEC ENTRY ON FOODPRICES

The effect of entry on food prices tends to be exaggerated. The previous Government in the White Paper of February 1970 forecast an increase in the Food Index of 18 to 26 per cent over the transitional period. This would be 3 to 4 per cent annually, or less than 1 per cent on the cost of living, of which food accounts for about one quarter. The increases might in fact be somewhat less because the gap between UK and EEC prices has been narrowing. My rt hon Friend the MAFF will shortly be giving the House revised figures for the increase in the cost of food on entry and I am confident that they will show a markedly better picture than that presented in the February White Paper.

9. FOOD PRICES IN THE COMMUNITY

It should not be thought that food prices in all countries of the Community are uniform. Many factors, such as patterns of consumption and seasonal factors, make for variations. Price levels

			1
1	2 cms	The National Archives ins 1 2	30.00
1	Ref.: FCO	30 / 1048 312345	200

for some kinds of fresh fruit and vegetables are lower in many countries of the Community. If we join, there is no reason to suppose that our prices would rise to the highest levels in the Community. On some products, for example milk, poultry, fish, tea, coffee, cooking oils and fats, price rises would be very small indeed.

10. STERLING

I would refer hon Members to my Statement on the 10th of June.

11. MONETARY UNION AND "ALIGNMENT" OF STERLING

Progress towards monetary union may be difficult and there may be setbacks, but I am confident that there will be developments in this direction. It would therefore be appropriate and right to have discussion on the question of progressive "alignment" of policies after we become members of the Community.

12. QUESTIONS ABOUT MEETING OF DEPUTIES ON 16 JUNE AND MINISTERIAL NEGOTIATING MEETINGS ON 21-22 JUNE

My rt hon and learned Friend the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster will be covering these in a statement after the current meeting.

13. PRESENTING THE RESULTS OF THE NEGOTIATIONS TO

I would ask hon Members to await the statement I shall be making later today.

14. REFERENDUM

I have always made it plain that it is Parliament's responsibility to decide this issue as it is to decide other issues in international relations.

Flag E

MARGIN

THIS

Z

WRITTEN

BE

10

NOTHING

Flag F

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 1 2 Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Parliamentary Unit

- 1. I submit a draft advice and background note for the Prime Minister to use in answering a Question from Mr John Biggs-Davison which asks what amendments of, or derogations from, the Treaty of Rome the Prime Minister discussed with President Pompidou in order that essential sovereignty may be maintained if the United Kingdom enters the European Economic Community.
- 2. The Question is for oral answer on 22 June.

WA H Brind

European Integration Department

21 June 1971

2 cms The National Archives FCO 30 / 1048 Ref.: 312345

ase note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Oral Answers

21 JUNE 1971

Oral Answers

the transitional period or for perpetuity, because this matter is of great importance to the inshore fishing community. To rever to the question under discussion—[Hon, Members: "Too long!"]—it has been said that if they enter the E.E.C. the Norwegians are prepared to surrender those rights they are now demanding for themselves on maintaining the 12-mile limit and that they will go back upon the pledge they have already made that they will ban trawling within that 12-mile limit, If that is so, is not the offer being made to the British deep-sea fleet—

Hon, Members: Too long!

Hon. Members: Too long!

Mr. Deputy Speaker: Order. The hon. Gentleman should be as short as possible.

Mr. McNamara: With the greatest respect, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I am trying to be, but I am being interrupted by hon. Members opposite. These points are of interest to those of us who represent fishing constituencies, and they need further enlargement than we have had from the Government. The resist Laws to the constituencies of the constituencies of the constituencies of the constituencies. the Government. The point I was trying to make was this-

Hon. Members: Too long!

Mr. Deputy Speaker: Order. I must ask the hon. Gentleman to conclude his question in one sentence, quickly.

Mr. McNamara: Does it not mean that the benefits offered to the deep-sea fleet of being able to fish within the 12-mile Norwegian limit will not exist?

Sir G. Nabarro: Garrulous old windbag.

Mr. Royle: The six-mile proposal is on the table for the discussions in Luxembourg this week. We are, of course, aware of the Norwegian proposals and have been studying them closely. The problems faced by the two countries are by no means identical but we shall constitute to consult the Norwegian Course. tinue to consult the Norwegian Government closely, particularly on matters of common interest.

15 Mr. Mather asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs to what extent amendment to the Treaty of Rome is now considered necessary by Her Majesty's Government.

Sir Alec Douglas-Home : Her Majesty's Government accept the Treaty of Rome and the decisions flowing from it subject to the agreements reached and to be reached in the negotiations. On enlarge ment of the Community, the Treaty of Rome needs certain technical amendments necessary to provide for the additional membership.

Mr. Mather: I thank my right hon. Friend for that reply. As the full implications, if Britain is to join, cannot clearly be foreseen, will he press for an amendment to Article 240 of the Treaty of Rome to limit the binding effects which may arise for us as a result of the passage of time and to protect our overriding national interest?

Sir Alec Douglas-Home: Where matters of over-riding national interest are concerned, we have made it plain—as my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister did in his talks with President Pompidou —that decisions should be reached by unanimity This, I think is the big protection against any vital interest of a member country being overridden.

Mr. Heffer: Is it not clear that the harmonisation programme, particularly in relation to taxation, means that this country will have to accept the value-added tax and that even if we dislike that tax and we have a Labour Government, we cannot, if we are in the Common Market, get rid of it because of the harmonisation programme?

Sir Alec Douglas-Home: That would be for the Labour Government to decide. if there ever is a Labour Government

17. Mr. Trew asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether he will ensure that the White Paper on the terms for entry into the European Economic Community refers specifically to the degree of Great Britain's commitment to initiatives for closer co-operation which go beyond the scope of the Trenty of Rome.

Sir Alec Douglas-Home; I would ask my hon. Friend to await the White Paper that we are about to issue.

Mr. Trew: Does not my right hon. Friend agree that there are initiatives under way in Europe in respect of economic, monetary and political union which could have no less profound an effect on the future of this country than the Treaty of Rome itself? Will be en-sure that these matters, particularly the

DATE 21 June 970-71

819

71 Oral Answe

21 JUNE 1971

Oral Answers

972

question of our commitments to them, are dealt with as clearly and as specifically as possible in the White Paper?

Sir Alec Douglas-Home: Yes, Sir, It is intended that the White Paper should be as comprehensive as possible so as to give the House and the country all the information we have.

Mr. Molloy: Reference has been made to the West German growth rate. Will the White Paper say whether the effects on the British economy of joining the E.E.C. would be as dynamic as the effects of membership on the Italian economy?

Sir Alec Douglas-Home: The hon. Gentleman will be able to make all the necessary comparisons, including the one he has mentioned.

Mr. Scott-Hopkins: Does not my right hon. Friend agree that any further initiative in the political, monetary or defence sectors would be the subject of separate negotiations after our entry into the Community?

Sir Alec Donglas-Home: Questions relating to sterling are to be taken outside the context of the present negotiations. The only commitment which the E.E.C. has undertaken in regard to financial matters is that there will be discussion to see how far economic and financial cooperation can be taken. So these will be outside the negotiations.

Mr. Shore: I do not think the right hon. Gentleman has quite got the point. There really is rather more agreement amongst the Six than just a kind of loose decision to make progress with economic and monetary union. Is he not aware that there is a substantial body of Community policy in the form of regulations and other directives which need to be published and made available to the House not later than the time that he introduces his proposed White Paper?

Sir Alec Douglas-Home: Yes, Sir; but that was not the question I was asked. I was asked about economic discussions, which go beyond the scope of the present negotiations.

18. Mr. Lane asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether he now expects to be able to publish a White Paper on the Common Market negotiations before mid-July.

Sir Alec Douglas-Home: I would refer my hon. Friend to the statement by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister on 17th June.—[Vol. 819, c. 643-5.]

Mr. Lane: [Vol. 819, c. 043-3.]

Mr. Lane: If things go well in Luxembourg this week, as many of us hope, and if the Government then decide to recommend British entry, will my right hon. Friend ensure that the White Paper devotes plenty of space to the alternatives and makes clear that no practical alternative will offer such good prospects, both economic and political, as membership of an enlarged Community?

Sir Alec Douglas-Home: I have never made it a secret that I cannot see an alternative which would offer as good a prospect for this country as joining the E.E.C.

21. Miss Lestor asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what progress has been made on discussions involving the acceptability of overseas workers in this country as Community workers within the European Economic Community in the event of Great Britain joining.

Mr. Anthony Royle: We are clarifying in discussions with the Community the definition of British national for the purposes of the provisions of the European Economic Community on freedom of movement of labour. Its reactions to our proposals are awaited.

Miss Lestor: Bearing in mind that that answer is similar to the answer that we have been receiving during the last year from the Prime Minister, and the Home Secretary during the passage of the Commonwealth Immigrants Bill, may I ask the hon. Gentleman to confirm one thing; namely, that Commonwealth and other workers from overseas in this country who are citizens of this country will be acceptable as Community workers and that those who are eligible to take up citizenship if they wish to be accepted as Community workers would be well-advised to do so?

Mr. Royle: I never like to disappoint the hon. Lady, and I am sorry that I should have disappointed her this afternoon. The facts are that we are awaiting the details of our proposals to be agreed with the Community, and until these are

28 29 30

31 32

33

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 7: [OUR 313345]

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

21st June 1971

*U. Mr. Peter Trew (Dartford): To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs, whether he will ensure that the White Paper on the terms for entry into the European Economic Community refers specifically to the degree of Great Britain's commitment to initiatives for closer co-operation which go beyond the scope of the Treaty of Rome.

NO. 17

SIR ALEC DOUGLAS-HOME

I would ask my honourable Friend to await the White Paper that we are about to issue.

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2 Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

PARLIAMENTARY QUESTION

for ORAL answer on 21st June 1971

The draft reply should reach the Parliamentary Office through your Under-Secretary by

Noon Monday 11

*U. Mr. Peter Trew (Dartford): To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs, whether he will ensure that the White Paper on the terms for entry into the European Economic Community refers specifically to the degree of Great Britain's commitment to initiatives for closer co-eperation which go beyond the scope of the Treaty of Rome.

Six Ala Joholas-Home

I would ask the hon Member to await the White Paper that we are about to issue.

REFERENCE

g A 17

VAT 849

Cols 643-645

The National Archives FCO 30 1048 312345 Ref .:

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that you use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

My Hatener in Herlip in a 16 Time

REFERENCE

Flag A

17 June

Vol 819

Cols 643-645

NOTES FOR SUPPLEMENTARIES

ATIVES FOR CLOSER COOPERATION WHICH GO BEYOND THE TREATY

These are, principally, our participation in moves by the Community towards economic and monetary cooperation and our participation in political consultations resulting from the Davignon Report.

ECONOMIC AND MONETARY COOPERATION

A decision of the Council of Ministers of the EEC of 9th February 1971 laid down the steps to be taken in the Pirst of three stages towards eventual economic and monetary cooperation. These include technical measures to reduce margins of fluctuation between currencies, consultations on economic policies and coordination of central bank monetary policies. THE EFFECT OF THE DOLLAR/DEUTSCHMARK CRISIS

Owing to the Dollar/Deutschmark crisis at the beginning of May the implementation of measures to reduce margins of fluctuation between currencies has been postponed. IMPLEMENTATION OF SECOND AND THIRD STAGES

No specific timetable has been agreed for the second and and third stages. As a Member of the enlarged Community we will be able to take a full and equal part in the discussions which must precede the introduction of these stages.

			Acceptance of the second of th
7	2 cms	The National Archives	ins 1 2
1	Ref.: FCO	30 / 1048	312845

MONETARY UNION AND "ALIGNMENT" OF STERLING

Progress towards closer monetary cooperation may be difficult, and there may be setbacks, but I am confident that there will be developments in this direction. It would therefore be appropriate and right to have discussion on the question of progressive "alignment" of policies after we become members of the Community.

ARTICLE 108 OF THE TREATY

If any member country of the enlarged Community (including the United Kingdom) were to require financial assistance under Article 108 for whatever cause, the case would in the first instance be examined by the Community institutions concerned. Assistance might then be furnished either through the facilities of the Community itself or internationally. There is no difference outstanding between us and the Community on this matter.

POLITICAL CONSULTATION

As a result of the Davignon Report Foreign Ministers of the Six meet at 6-monthly intervals with a view to discussing and coordinating their foreign policies. The 4 applicant countries have been associated with this development in a parallel series of meetings of the Ten Foreign Ministers. As hon Members will know, I have taken part in 2 very successful meetingsin the latter series. After enlargement we expect the 2 series of meetings to be merged.

PARLIAMENTARY OUESTION

for ORAL answer on 21st June 1971

The draft reply should reach the Parliamentary Under-Secretary by

Noon Momay 14/6

Mr. Peter Trew (Dartferd): To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs, whether he will ensure that the White Paper on the terms for entry into the European Economic Community refers specifically to the degree of Great Britain's commitment to initiatives for closer co-operation which go beyond the scope of the Treaty of Rome. of the Treaty of Rome.

Si Ala Johnslas - Home

I would ask the hon Member to await the White Paper that we are about to issue.

REFERENCE

Flag A

17 June

Vol 819

Cols 643-645

Under This article if my header State is abalance farments difficulties the Comments who heards had bulp. There was some question of one time of our affecting to Jugar Ti. self.

2 cms The National Archives FCO 30 / 1048 Ref.: 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Oral Answers 969

21 JUNE 1971

the transitional period or for perpetuity, because this matter is of great importance to the inshore fishing community. To rever to the question under discussion—[Hon. Members: "Too long!"]—it has been said that if they enter the E.E.C. the Norwegians are proposed to surveying. been said that if they enter the E.E.C. the Norwegians are prepared to surrender those rights they are now demanding for themselves on maintaining the 12-mile limit and that they will go back upon the pledge they have already made that they will ban trawling within that 12-mile limit. If that is so, is not the offer being made to the British deep-sea fleet—

Hon. Members: Too long!

Mr. Deputy Speaker: Order. The hon. Gentleman should be as short as possible.

Mr. McNamara: With the greatest respect. Mr. Deputy Speaker, I am trying to be, but I am being interrupted by hon. Members opposite. These points are of interest to those of us who represent fishing constituencies, and they need further enlargement than we have had from the Government. The point I was trying to make was this to make was this-

Hon. Members : Too long!

Mr. Deputy Speaker: Order. I must ask the hon. Gentleman to conclude his question in one sentence, quickly.

Mr. McNamara: Does it not mean that the benefits offered to the deep-sea flect of being able to fish within the 12-mile Norwegian limit will not exist?

Sir G. Nabarro: Garrulous old windbag.

Mr. Royle: The six-mile proposal is on the table for the discussions in Luxem-bourg this week. We are, of course, bourg this week. We are, of course, aware of the Norwegian proposals and have been studying them closely. The problems faced by the two countries are by no means identical but we shall continue to consult the Norwegian Government closely, particularly on matters of common interest.

15. Mr. Mather asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs to what extent amendment to the Treaty of Rome is now considered neces-sary by Her Majesty's Government.

Sir Alec Douglas-Home : Her Majesty's Government accept the Treaty of Rome and the decisions flowing from it, subject to the agreements reached and to be reached in the negotiations. On enlargement of the Community, the Treaty of Rome needs certain technical amendments necessary to provide for the additional membership.

Mr. Mather: I thank my right hon. Friend for that reply. As the full implications, if Britain is to join, cannot clearly be foreseen, will he press for an amendment to Article 240 of the Treaty of Rome to limit the binding effects which may arise for us as a result of the passage of time and to protect our overriding national interest?

Sir Alec Douglas-Home: matters of over-riding national interest are concerned, we have made it plain—as my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister did in his talks with President Pompidou —that decisions should be reached by unanimity. This, I think, is the big protection against any vital interest of a member country being overridden.

Mr. Heffer: Is it not clear that the harmonisation programme, particularly in relation to taxation, means that this counrelation to taxation, means that this country will have to accept the value-added tax and that even if we disfike that tax and we have a Labour Government, we cannot, if we are in the Common Market, get rid of it because of the harmonisation programme?

Sir Alec Douglas-Home: That would be for the Labour Government to decide, if there ever is a Labour Government again.

17. Mr. Trew asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether he will ensure that the White Paper on the terms for entry into the European Economic Community refers specifically to the degree of Great Britain's commitment to initiatives for closer co-operation which go beyond the scope of the Treaty of Rome.

Sir Alec Douglas-Home: I would ask my hon. Friend to await the White Paper that we are about to issue.

Mr. Trew: Does not my right hon. Friend agree that there are initiatives under way in Europe in respect of economic, monetary and political union which could have no less prefound an effect on the future of this country than the Treaty of Rome itself? Will be ensure that these matters, particularly the

DATE DIJUNE, COL 969-70, VOL 819.

30 31

21st June 1971

*U. Mr. Carol Mather (Esher): To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth ffairs, to what extent amendment to the Treaty of Rome is now considered necessary by Her Majesty's Government.

NO. 15

SIR ALEC DOUGLAS-HOME

Her Majesty's Government accepts the Treaty of Rome and the decisions flowing from it, subject to the agreements reached and to be reached in the negotiations. On enlargement of the Community the Treaty of Rome needs certain technical amendments necessary to provide for the additional membership.

1	2 a	ms	The	National Archive	S.	ins 1	2
١	Ref.:	FCO	30	1 1048		312	345

PARLIAMENTARY QUESTION

for ORAL answer on 21st June 1971

The draft reply should reach the Parliamentary Office through your Under-Secretary by

N oon Monday 14/6

*U. Mr. Carel Mather (Esher): To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs, to what extent amendment to the Treaty of Rome is now considered necessary by Her Majesty's Government.

Sin Ale Donates-Home

HMG accepts the Treaty of Kome and the decisions flowing from it, subset to the agreements reached and to be reached in the negotiations. On enlargement of the Community the Treaty of Rome needs certain technical amendments necessary to provide for the additional membership.

1	2 cm	S	The	National Archi	ves	ins	1.	111	_2
1	Ref.:	FCO	30 /	1048			3123	45

REFERENCES

Flag A Cmnd 4401

Att,

NOTES FOR SUPPLEMENTARIES

ACCEPTANCE OF THE TREATY OF ROME

In our opening statement to the Communities in June last year we made it clear that we accept the Treaties of the Communities and the decisions flowing from them subject to matters to be covered in the negotiations.

WHAT KIND OF AMENDMENTS TO THE TREATY ARE ENVISAGED?

It would, for example, be necessary to amend the Articles of the Treaty of Rome relating to the institutions of the Community to accommodate representation from new members.

PRESENCING THE RESULTS OF THE NEGOTIATION TO PARLIAMENT

I would note her Newhore to the statement lest This

I would refer hon Members to the statement last Thursday by my rt hon Friend the Prime Minister.

REFERENDUM

We have always made it plain that it is Parliament's responsibility to decide this issue as it is to decide other issues in international relations.

.

	100		200	111/	1 50,77.7	4 7. W. C.	100	27 W. 2	100	a True	P. Parago	The second	THE CAMES	at the second		A. V.	13.1	3 3 7 3	111
1		2	cms	18	11.33		Th	e Nat	iona	l Arc	hive	5	AND FOR		ins	ACTUAL Caraca	1	og called et glade	2000	2
13					0		30	1	.(0	45	2			ATT	91.67	31:	221	(yar.	0
	- 1	14.11		4 6	1000	12/20	1000		CAT PLAN	対極に	R.O.	2.5		*		2 4 4 A 4 B	\U.T	J	orten.

Written Answers

15 JUNE 1971

Written Answers

70

FOREIGN AND COMMONWEALTH AFFAIRS

European Economic Community

Mr. Marten asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether, in view of the negotiations over the Commonwealth Sugar Agreement and Great Britain's entry into the European Economic Community, he will state what quantity of sugar was imported into Holland from the Dutch dependency of Surinam in 1968, and what is the quantity for 1971; and if he will make a statement giving the reasons for the reduction.

Mr. Rippon: Figures from international sources show that the Netherlands imported 7,182 metric tons of raw sugar from Surinam in 1968. No figure can yet be quoted for 1971. Under arrangements agreed with the European Economic Community it is understood that the Netherlands have the right to import, free of levy, 4,000 tons of raw sugar per year until 1974 from Surinam but reports indicate Surinam's exports of sugar may be seriously reduced in 1971 due to damage to cane by pests.

Mr. Chichester-Clark asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs (1) whether he is satisfied that the Commission and the Six Member Countries of the European Economic Community are aware of the special problems which would arise in relation to Northern Ireland if the United Kingdom were to enter the European Economic Community; and if he will make a statement;

(2) what part the special economic problems of Northern Ireland will play in the decision of Her Majesty's Government to accept or reject terms of entry to the European Economic Community.

Mr. Rippon: The decision whether to enter the Community will be taken in the light of the advantages secured for the United Kingdom as a whole, having regard to the interests of all areas including Northern Ireland. In our negotiations with the Community, we are taking full account of those interests.

Mr. Moate asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs 33 K 19

RECEIVED IN
REGISTRY No. 37
/18 JUN1971

what consultations have taken place on the constitutional and financial position of the Isle of Man if Great Britain should join the European Economic Community; and if he will make a statement.

Mr. Rippon: There has been full consultation with representatives of the Isle of Man Government covering all the implications for the Island of United Kingdom entry into the European Economic Community. We expect to have discussions with the Six very shortly on arrangements which will best meet the wishes and needs of the Isle of Man.

Mr. Arthur Lewis asked the Sccretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs why, in the event of Parliament approving the instruments of accession to the Treaties of the Communities, he will not propose in the accompanying legislation that the House of Commons should be able to renounce membersip on behalf of the United Kingdom at any future date.

Mr. Rippon: In legislation to give effect to a treaty in this country, it is neither usual nor appropriate to provide for the termination of our international obligations under the treaty.

Mr. Arihur Lewis asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether the present practice of proposals being made by the Commission and Ministers to the Council of Ministers of the European Economic Community being confidential and unquestionable by the House of Commons or its Members will continue on present known terms if Great Britain enters the Common Market.

Mr. Rippon: Hon. Members will continue to be free to question Ministers about proposals in the European Economic Community as they affect the United Kingdom.

Mr. Arthur Lewis asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether he will make a statement on the recent official visit to Great Britain of Mr. Don Dunstan, the Prime Minister of South Australia; what discussions he had with him concerning Great Britain's entry into the European Economic Community; and what was

DATE ISSTONE Con Ha.

COL. 70

VOL. 819

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2 Ref.: PCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

14th June 1971

La. Mr. Arthur Lawis (West Ham, North): To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs, why, in the event of Parliament approving the instruments of accession to the Treaties of the Communities. he will not propose in the accompanying legislation that the House of Commons should be able to renounce membership on behalf of the United Kingdom at any future date.

NO. 32W

MR. GEOFFREY RIPPON

In legislation to give effect to a treaty in this country, it is neither usual nor appropriate to provide for the termination of our international obligations under the treaty.

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 1 2 Ref.: FCO 330 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

14th June 1971

La. Mr. Arthur Lawis (Vest Ham, North): To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs, why, in the event of Parliament approving the instruments of accession to the Treaties of the Communities. He will not propose in the accompanying legislation that the House of Commons should be able to renounce membership on behalf of the United Kingdom at any future date.

NO. 32W

MR. GEOFFREY RIPPON

In legislation to give effect to a treaty in this country, it is neither usual nor appropriate to provide for the termination of our international obligations under the treaty.

ı	2 0	ms	The	Nat	ional Archi	ves		ins	1 1
l	Ref.:	FCO	30	1	1048			12.1	312	345	1.0.5
• =	se note t	that this copy	is supplied	subie	ct to the Nat	ional Ar	chives' ten	ms and	condition	c and th	at vou

PARLIAMENTARY QUESTION

14th June 1971

for ORAL answer on

The draft reply should reach the Parliamentary Office through your Under-Secretary by

Moon Wed 9/1

*La.

Mr. Arthur Lewis (West Ham, North): To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs, why, in the event of Parliament approving the instruments of Parliament approving the instruments of accession to the Treaties of the Communities, he will not propose in the accompanying legislation that the House of Commons should be able to renounce membership on behalf of the United Kingdom at any future date.

M. Gerthey Rither

In legislation to give effect to a treaty in this country, it is neither usual nor appropriate to provide for the termination of our international obligations under the treaty.

Flag A

REFERENCE

Flag A

Article 240 of the Treaty of Rome

V Calle

1	2 cms	The National Archives in	ns 1	2
14	Ref.: FCO 3	0 / 1048	3123	45

Mr Ford
Parliamentary Unit

I submit a draft reply for the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster to use in answering a Question from Mr Arthur Lewis which asks why, in the event of Parliament approving the instruments of accession to the Treaties of the Communities, he will not propose in the accompanying legislation that the House of Commons should be able to renounce membership on behalf of the United Kingdom at any future date.

The Question is for oral answer on 14 June, but will not be taken orally.

The draft answer has been cleared with the Legal Advisers.

Anyone

A H Brind

11 June 1971

71 Written Answers

15 JUNE 1971

Written Answers

72

the attitude and view of the South Australian Prime Minister as expressed to him on this subject.

Mr. Rippon: My right hon. Friend received Mr. Dunstan on 25th May. In the part of their discussion which related to the European Economic Community, Mr. Dunstan expressed fears for South Australia's export trade with the United Kingdom in certain goods and commodities. My right hon. Friend cited the overall buoyancy of the Australian economy and explained that the effects of European Economic Community entry which could offer solve a good of the Australian economy and explained that the effects of European Economic Community entry (which could affect only a small proportion of Australia's export earnings) would be spread over five to eight years.

Mr. Arthur Lewis asked the Secretary Mr. Arthur Lewis asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs to what extent, if Great Britain joins the European Economic Community, the implementation of Article 189 of the Treaty of Rome will enable the British House of Commons to pray for the annulment of orders made by the Council of Ministers Council of Ministers.

Mr. Rippon: Article 189 of the Treaty Mr. Rippon: Article 189 of the Treaty of Rome defines the effect of regulations, directives, decisions, recommendations and opinions of the Council of Ministers and the Commission of the European Economic Community in Member States. If Parliament approves an Instrument of Accession to the European Communities its powers in relation to acts of the Council and Commission will be exercised in the light of this article.

Mr. Arthur Lewis asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs why he has agreed in principle to the European Economic Community countries having the same freedom of capital movements as applied to the capital movements as applied to the countries of the sterling area on Great Britain's entry into the Community; and whether he will make a statement.

Mr. Rippon: We have proposed that Mr. Rippon: We have proposed that we should comply, by the end of the transitional period, with the obligations of the Community concerning movements of capital within an enlarged Community, I will report to the House on the outcome of the negotiations with the Community on this matter as soon as they are concluded.

India and Pakistan

Mr. Carter-Jones asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how much financial help has now been given by Her Majesty's Government towards supporting India with the cost of maintaining refugees from East Paki-stan now in India; what additional help he proposes to give in the next six months; and if he will make a statement.

Mr. Anthony Royle: I would refer the Mr. Anthony Koyle: 1 would reter the hon. Member to my right hon. Friend's statements to the House on 8th and 9th of June. Her Majesty's Government made an immediate contribution of £1 million to the United Nations Secretary. General's Appeal Fund for the Refugees.
We are also contributing £750,000 in the form of food aid through the World Food Programme. We are making available a tolal of £250,000 to meet the cost of Royal Air Force and charter flights of Royal Air Force and charter flights and the cost of saline solution, syringes and vaccines which have enabled the British charities to give immediate help to the Indian authorities. Of this amount £177,000 has already been committed. Supplementary provision for £250,000 will be sought in due course and, if necessary, an advance will be made in the meantime from the Contingencies Fund. This sum includes the amount of £18,000 which I notified to the House on 11th which I notified to the House on 11th

We are ready to consider further conpossible yet to forecast what may be needed over the next six months.—[Vol. 818, c. 862-4, 1066-70; Vol. 817, c.

Mr. Carter-Jones asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how much financial help has been given by the United Nations in assisting India with the cost of maintaining refugees from East Pakistan now in India; what additional help he expects to be given by the United Nations in the next six months; and if he will make a statement.

Mr. Anthony Royle: Our latest information is that about $30 million has been contributed by Governments to U Thant's appeal for the refugees. $500,000 has been made available by the United Nations High Commission for Refugees, $400,000 in kind by U.N.I.C.E.F. and

DATE 15 JUNE COL

RECEIVED IN REGISTRY No. 37 18 JUN 1971

2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

14th June 1971

La. Mr. Arthur Lewis (West Ham, North): To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs, to what extent, if Great Britain joins the European Economic Community, the implementation of Article 189 of the Treaty of Rome will enable the British House of Commons to pray for the annulment of orders made by the Council of Ministers.

NO. 40W

MR. GEOFFREY RIPPON

Article 189 of the Treaty of Rome defines the effect of regulations, directives, decisions, recommendations and opinions of the Council of Ministers and the Commission of the European Economic Community in Member States. If Parliament approves an Instrument of Accession to the European Communities its powers in relation to acts of the Council and Commission will be exercised in the light of this article.

14th June 1971

La. Mr. Arthur Lewis (West Ham, North): To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs, to what extent, if Great Britain joins the European Foonomic Community, the implementation of Article 189 of the Treaty of Rome will enable the British House of Commons to pray for the annulment of orders made by the Council of Ministers.

NO. 40W

MR. GEOFFREY RIPPON

Article 189 of the Treaty of Rome defines the effect of regulations, directives, decisions, recommendations and opinions of the Council of Ministers and the Commission of the European Economic Community in Member States. If Parliament approves an Instrument of Accession to the European Communities its powers in relation to acts of the Council and Commission will be exercised in the light of this article.

2 cms		e National Ar	chives	ins	1
Ref.: FCC	30	1 1048			31231	,5
	Late Bally and Commission in	Land Market	National Archive	exist september	The second second	41 15 75 1 15 1

PARLIAMENTARY QUESTION

r ORAL answer on 14th June 1971

4000

The draft reply should reach the Parliamentary Office through your Under-Secretary by

Non Ahusday 10/6

*Ia. Mr. Arthur Lewis (West Ham, North): To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs, to what extent, if Great Britain joins the European Economic Community, the implementation of Article 189 of the Treaty of Rome will enable the British House of Commons to pray for the annulment of orders made by the Council of Ministers.

I'm Clifford Bahan,

Article 189 of the Treaty of Rome defines the effect of regulations, directives, decisions, recommendations and opinions of the Council of Ministers and the Commission of the EEC in Member States. If Parliament approves an Instrument of Accession to the European Communities its powers in relation to acts of the Council and Commission will be exercised in the light of this article.

REFERENCE

Flag A 27 May Vol 818 Col 220W

/512 14/6/2

		The state of the s
FCO	30 / 1048	312345

Mr Ford Parliamentary Unit

- 1. I submit a draft reply for the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster to use in answering a Question from Mr Arthur Lewis which asks to what extent, if Great Britain joins the European Moonomic Community, the implementation of Article 189 of the Treaty of Rome will enable the British House of Commons to pray for the annulment of orders made by the Council of Ministers.
- 2. The Question is for oral enswer on 14 June, but will not be taken orally.
- 3. The Question arises out of an answer given to Mr Lewis on 27 May.
- 4. The draft answer has been cleared with the Legal Advisers.

Agrica

11 June 1971

Flag A

	cms	The National Archives	ins	1
Ref.:	FCO	30 / 1048	3.	12345

PARLIAMENTARY QUESTION

for ORAL answer of 7th June 1971

The draft reply should reach the Parliamentary Office through your Under-Secretary by

* transferred for

IJ Mr. Reger Moate (Faversham): To ask the Secretary of the Latitude.

State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs, whether he is satisfied with the co-ordination between Government departments in making the appropriate studies of those of the approximately 3,000 regulations issued by the Commissioner of the European Economic Community that would need to become law in this country if Great Britain were to join the Community.

hu bhall 18/ hu Brights 16 her

This question has suit hier writishears, ble do not know way a furnishing hierarch the Threats reachers that now that it has been hampered from the PII's lest it the FIC he should be chosed I getting one out minus. It may therefore reaffers at a later data

Julum 4

p. a. 771 16/6

RECEIVED IN
REGISTRY No. 37
11 JUN 1971

nwk 2/12

1 2 cms		The National Archives	ins ¹	1	2
Ref.:	FCO 3	0 / 1048	31	2345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

From Robert S. Redmond, T.D., M.P.

HOUSE OF COMMONS LONDON, SW1

10th June, 1971

Dear allest

I have had a query submitted to me from my constituency about the Common Market and the position of the law if we join.

This constituent asks that if he offended against Common Market law in connection with his business activities, would he be prosecuted under Common Market Law or under our own law. I do not know whether this point has been worked out but I should be grateful for your comments.

Yours sincerely,

RECEIVED IN RECHSTRY No. 37

A.P. Costain, Esq., M.P. The Ducky of Lancaster Lancaster Place. Strand. W.C.2

MWK 2/12

dse of	FCO that this copy is s it may be subject Con	upplied subject t	rictions. Furt	al Archives' terms her information i nal Archives' leaf	and condition	345 as and that you Terms and	ır İ
			Robor	r S. Ro	amoud :	TI, MP
- American H	Ċ		S	$250)
				OF COMMOI	NS
				10th	June, 197	'n
		Dear &	Mark,
			my const	e had a que ituency abo osition of	ut the Con	nmon
		if he of	fended a	constituen gainst Comm th his busi	on Market	law would he Law or a whether	be pros under our this poi	ecuted unde own law. nt has been eful for yo	r Common I I do not I worked o	Market Know it but
				Yours sin	cerely,
(c.)p.				1/300
		The Duck	stain, Es ty of Lan er Place.	q.,M.P. caster Strand. W.	C.2	•
		The Duck	y of Lan	caster	C.2	•
		The Duck	y of Lan	caster	C.2
		The Duck	y of Lan	caster	C.2	3
		The Duck	y of Lan	caster	C.2
		The Duck	y of Lan	caster	C.2
		The Duck	y of Lan	caster	C.2

c.

The National Archives Ref.: FCO 30 1 1048 312345 Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets Esta enter Legal Advisers M. de Winton Esq Lag Officers Department Royal Courts of Justice Strand WC2 8 June 1971 I am enclosing a fair draft of the Factsheet on Sovereignty, as it resulted from our meeting yesterday afternoon. We are submitting this draft to Ministers within the Foreign Office, and I should be grateful it you could at the same time seek the views of the Law Officers on it. As you will know from what was said at restaining a particular the draft rust be fired. at yesterday's meeting, the drafts must be finally cleared by the evening of 9 June, and I very much hope that it will be possible for this timetable, which is dictated by Ministerial requirements, to be kept. A D Watts ENC RECEIVED IN REGISTRY No. 37 10 JUN 1971

			National Archives	ins
ef.:	FCO	30	1 1048	A Comment of the Comm	312345

Registry DRAFT FACTSHEET Type 1 + No. SECURITY CLASSIFICATION From To:--Top Secret. Secret. Telephone No. & Ext. Confidential. Restricted. Unclassified. Department PRIVACY MARKING In Confidence SOVEREIGNTY AND THE EUROPEAN COMMUNITIES WHAT DOES SOVEREIGNTY MEAN? Sovereignty has different aspects. Internally it involves the exclusive power to make supreme law, and in the WRITTEN IN THIS MARGIN United Kingdom this power is vested in the Crown in Parliament. Externally, sovereignty involves the power of a State to manage its own affairs. This power is not the same as legally unlimited freedom of action. States may enter into legal commitments which limit their freedom of action, without prejudicing their sovereignty. Indeed States regularly limit their freedom of action - for example by military alli-BE ances, trading agreements, membership of international 0 organisations, etc - and do so in pursuit of their national NOTHING interests. In any event the increasing interdependence of modern states and the development of economic and other links cutting across national boundaries impose limitations of their own on national sovereignty.

(134392) Dd. 737115 7504 4/70 Hw.

sphere of foreign affairs, these are, in many respects, not dissimilar from those flowing from other international agreements into which we have entered, for example the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade. It is true that in fields covered by the Community Treaties we should be required to co-ordinate our policy with that of the rest of the Communities,

THE EFFECT OF MEMBERSHIP OF THE EUROPEAN COMMUNITIES

Dealing first with the effects of membership in the

1	2 cms	The National Archives		La la companya da de la companya de
- 1	Ref.: FCO	30 / 1048	ins 1	2
Plea	se note that this se		31231	45

lease note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

NOTHING TO BE WRITTEN IN THIS MARGIN

and that in some matters the conduct of international relations would be in the hands of the Communities.

It must be remembered however that this Community system rests on the original consent, and ultimately on the continuing consent, of member States and hence of national Parliaments. If it were not so, the Communities would fall apart. No-one regards the existing Member States as being internationally less than sovereign States because of Community membership.

3. As for the domestic effects, Parliament would have to decide whether or not to approve the Treaty of Accession. If it did so it would have to enact the legislation necessary to give effect to the Treaty. It would thereby be endorsing the aims and principles of the Communities and would, inter alia, be agreeing to accept both existing and future Community Regulations as part of the law operating in the United Kingdom. But it would do so in the knowledge that the British representatives would be playing a full and influential part in Community institutions. There would be a British judge in the European Court (adjudicating Community law), and our elected representatives would be in the European Parliament. Above all a British Minister would be a member of the Council of Ministers which takes all the major decisions in the implementation of the Treaties. As the Prime Minister explained in Parliament on 24 May, after his discussions in Paris with the French President, the British and French Governments share the view that Z while "there are certain administrative arrangements which are handled by the Commission and which are clearly defined under the Treaty of Rome, ... It is the Council of Ministers representing the member countries, who must take the decisions. 7 Where a country considers that an item is of major national interest to it, a

	2 cms	The	National A	rchives		ins .	1	1
Rei	s: Fco	30	1 104	Q		31	2345
,			The state of the state of	and the same	A THE STATE OF THE PARTY OF THE	with the things	1070	1

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

decision (in the Council) should be taken unanimously in other words the member countries should not attempt to over-rule a single country on something which
it considers to be of vital national interest."

- 4. Our Ministers would of course still be answerable to the British Parliament for the part they and their officials play in the formulation of Community policy. Thus the British Parliament would continue effectively to watch over the national interest as in other matters in which Ministers are responsible for it.
- Moreover, membership would not affect Parliament's power to legislate in matters not covered by Community law. In a few matters the Communities have exclusive legislative competence and in any matter in which Community law operates in a member State it would take precedence over domestic law. Community Law is however limited to the matters laid down by the Treaties, that is, broadly, customs duties; agriculture; free movement of labour, services and capital; transport; monopolies and restrictive practices, state aid for industry; and the regulation of the coal, steel and nuclear energy industries. Outside this range there would remain unchanged by far the greater part of our domestic law including criminal law, the law of contract, and tort, the law of landlord and tenant, family law, social services (other than for migrant workers), nationality law and property and inheritance law.

GENERAL CONSIDERATIONS

6. The purpose and effect of joining the Communities is not to dilute our national identity or traditional way of life. It has not done so in the case of the very individual and different countries which are already members of the Communities.

Membership of the Communities as it has developed is

NOTHING TO BE WRITTEN IN THIS MARGIN

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

rather a way of trying to find ways of reaching decisions and sharing functions on a Community basis in fields where the member nations can with advantage do so. It is also a way of influencing and benefiting from Communities which exercise increasing international authority in the interest of their members. In this way membership is a means of strengthening the influence of a nation, not weakening it.

- 8. The Community system is well endowed with onecks and balances. Indeed given the fact that the sharing of certain functions with other states is inevitable and desirable, joining the Communities is a method of doing do which gives members effective and continuing democratic control over that process.
- Moreover there is a further way in which membership of the Communities tends to add to the real power in the outside world of its members. For example, France or Germany is important to third countries not only because of her power in her own right but also because of her ability to influence the Communities. In the same way, Britain's real power and the influence of her Government or other governments will tend to increase from membership of the Communities.

NOTHING TO BE WRITTEN IN THIS MARGIN

2 cr	ns	The	e National Archives	ins	1
Ref.:	FCO	30	1 1048	9	31234	5

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Read. 9/6 8. June 1971 Music 2/12 Dear Lothian. I write in regard to a point which regard as of considerable importance. I efolie to you about it at lea this afternoon. In The debate in the Lords on 19 January 71 on Britain's Entry onto The EEC, Lord Ecorge Bearn (66362) replying as much as anything, I think, to what Shinwell had Said Earlier, went and I his way, In no uncertain terms, to make the point that a decision by the U.K to suter somed not be inevocably. He said that it was - not un fast True that once in you cannot get at ... I he celed in air de Gankes activi in 1965 when he with drows from the Council of Ministers o other Community institutions she I recollect that others speaking loter in The debate referred to the point, certainly was Jan would up for the Government applanded his speech shoped it would be widely read tothe in This country and by the Six. The Sugartion There pe loss that you also agreed with the particular point. However I noted that on Knowy of their week 7. Tannany in Pandama (BB.C. 1) alex Donglos Harme has This point put specifically to him in a question

	2 cr	ns	The	e National Archives	ins	1	四百万里里
T.	Ref.:	FCO	30	1 1048		3123	45

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

by Robin Day & he replied that we could not get out. I sensed pulsaps that he purposely said this rather quelty, oborously it comes be deficult of a Forey Secretary to do otherwise when we are trying to get in, but I really to think that it Should not be left There, if at all possible. as I understand it, There is us provision in The Treaty of Rome to bring it to an sud, but necties is any thing Saw alout individual members coming out, so in Theory I deduce that that course would be possibly. I depreciate that it is sesentially a psychological point as in practice it might prove very difficult to come out, particularly as time went on and one could havily bisualise it hoppening except in an Exheme Situation, but surely there would exist just That loophole! The autimarketers make great play of this inevolability & I believe They use the point with Sme Success to pushade Those who are hekewoon alout sutry, or Irlling on the sence. Can this not be conntered by save suitable formula of I would be most gratiful of you could let me know what is officially fell. I shall mention That I raise This upon m views of a conseppedance in local piess in the North board to which I have felt constians to contribute; it is knowed of for more than local In will I hope have gathered That I am very Much in from of our sutrey! Significance. Frues Suicouly

Rochbale.

1 2 cms	The National Archives ins 1 2
The second secon	=co 30 / 1048 312345
Please note that use of it m	t this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your nay be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and
	Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets
THE STATE OF
	Reference.
	11-10 to the the the town
	1 . It it of eleveral (Holows lot from is tright regimes)
	Mr Adams (European Communities Information Unit E 120)
	1 to Calrust Office and other anchood.
	\mathcal{O}_{e_1}
adika inda.	l. I attach a redraft of the Factsheet on Sovereignty, which incorporates amendments agreed during the meeting of the Sopvith Committee yesterday afternoon. Paragraph 7 of the draft, however, only reached me after that meeting had ended and was therefore not considered by the Sopwith Committee: it does however raise no legal issue and is primarily a political paragraph.
	2. I am afraid that I cannot say that the Sopwith Committee approved the draft. They did not like it and would not have drafted a draft Factsheet of sovereignty in anything like the terms of the draft. In view of the time factor, however, there was no prospect of embarking on the preparation of a legally more acceptable draft. The general view of the Sopwith Committee was that from a legal point of view the present draft could well give rise to trouble, particularly in the form of answering questions based upon points made, or rather glossed over, in the Factsheet.
	However, they accepted that this is primarily a political exercise and were prepared to treat it as such. I feel the same way about this paper as did the rest of the Sopwith Committee.
	3. However, we did not think that the propositions in it are actually wrong from the legal point of view and are therefore prepared for it to be submitted to the Law Officers. There is no ×	guarantee that the Law Officers will be willing to clear this draft quickly, or indeed that they will agree to issuing it at
/1	all. If they do have reservations about the issue of such a Factsheet they will doubtless wish to take it up from Ministerial colleagues direct.
	4. It may be that I have to go to a meeting before I can sign this minute or finally check the draft. I hope you will excuse
(H=logue	this, in the interests of speed. I attach the original amended draft so that if anything has gone wrong you can see where.
(E.I.D	matta)
I The	Huley >
H°.	Staren
	A D Watts
	人 Legal Advisers W 44/4
1	8 June 1971
	ENC
\	Sufer head a Constitutional her phradius
	Sului hegal : Constitutional huphicalius :
	\mathcal{A}
	ARCHVED IN 9/6
	REGISTRY No. 37
The state of the s

9 JUN 197

MWK 2/12

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2 Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

egistry DRAFT FACTSHEET Type 1 + No. SECURITY CLASSIFICATION From To:-Top Secret. Secret. Telephone No. & Ext. Confidential. Restricted. Unclassified. Department PRIVACY MARKING In Confidence

SOVEREIGNTY AND THE EUROPEAN COMMUNITIES
WHAT DOES SOVEREIGNTY MEAN?

1. Sovereignty has different aspects. Internally it involves the exclusive power to make supreme law, and in the United Kingdom this power is vested in the Crown in Parliament. Externally, sovereignty involves the power of a State to manage its own affairs. This power is not the same as legally unlimited freedom of action. States may enter into legal commitments which limit their freedom of action, without prejudicing their sovereignty. Indeed States regularly limit their freedom of action - for example by military alliances, trading agreements, membership of international organisations, etc. - and do so in pursuit of their national interests. In any event the increasing interdependence of modern states and the development of economic and other links outting across national boundaries impose limitations of their own on national sovereignty.

THE EFFECT OF MEMBERSHIP OF THE EUROPEAN COMMUNITIES

2. Dealing first with the effects of membership in the sphere of foreign affairs, these are, in many respects, not dissimilar from those flowing from other international agreements into which we have entered, for example the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade. It is true that in fields covered by the Community Treaties we should be required to co-ordinate our policy with that of the rest of the Communities,

NOTHING TO BE WRITTEN IN THIS MARGIN

034392) Dd. 737115 750x 4,70

Hw.

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

relations would be in the hands of the Communities. It must be remembered however that this Community system rests on the original consent, and ultimately on the continuing consent, of member States and hence of national Parliaments, IF it were not so, the Communities would fall apert & No-one regards the existing Member States as being internationally less than sovereign States because of Community membership. As for the domestic effects, Parliament would have to decide whether or not to approve the Treaty of Accession. If it did so it would have to enact the legislation necessary to give effect to the Treaty. It would theroby be endorsing the aims and principles of the Communities and would, inter alia, be agreeing to accept both existing and future Community Regulations as part of the law operating in the United Kingdom. But it would do so in the knowledge that the British representatives would be playing a full and influential part in Community institutions. There would be a British judge in the European Court (adjudicating Community law), and our elected representatives would be in the European Parliament. Above all a British Minister would be a member of the Council of Ministers which takes all the major decisions in the implementation of the Treaties. As the Prime Minister explained in Parliement on 24 May, after his discussions in Paris with the French President, the British and French Governments share the view that / while "there are certain administrative arrangements which are handled by the Commission and which are clearly defined under the Treaty of Rome, ... It is the Council of Ministers representing the member countries, who must take the decisions. I Where a country considers that an item is of major national interest to it, a and that in some matters the conduct of international

NOTHING TO BE WRITTEN IN THIS MARGIN

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

decision [in the Council] should be taken unanimously in other words the member countries should not attempt to over-rule a single country on something which
it considers to be of vital national interest."

- 4. Our Ministers would of course still be answerable to the British Parliament for the part they and their officials play in the formulation of Community policy. Thus the British Parliament would continue effectively to watch over the national interest as in other matters in which Ministers are responsible for it.
- Moreover, membership would not affect Parliament's power to legislate in matters not covered by Community law. In a few matters the Communities have exclusive legislative competence and in any matter in which Community law operates in a member State it would take precedence over domestic law. Community Law is however limited to the matters laid down by the Treaties, that is, broadly, customs duties; agriculture; free movement of labour, services and capital; transport; monopolies and restrictive practices, state aid for industry; and the regulation of the coal, steel and nuclear energy industries. Outside this range there would remain unchanged by far the greater part of our domestic law including criminal law, the law of contract, and tort, the law of landlord and tenant, family law, social services (other than for migrant workers), nationality law and proporty and inheritance law.

GENERAL CONSIDERATIONS

6. The purpose and effect of joining the Communities is not to dilute our national identity or traditional way of life. It has not done so in the case of the very individual and different countries which are already members of the Communities.

NOTHING TO BE WRITTEN IN THIS MARGIN

Sen Vire
1	2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2	1000
	Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345	CARTER ST
113

use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

rather a way of trying in find ways of reaching decisions and sharing functions on a Community basis in fields where the member nations can with advantage do so. It is also a way of influencing and benefiting from Communities which exercise increasing international authority in the interest of their members. In this way membership is a means of strengthening the influence of a nation, not weakening it.

- 7. The Community system is well endowed with checks and balances. Indeed given the fact that the sharing of certain functions with other states is inevitable and desirable, joining the Communities is a method of doing so which gives members effective and continuing democratic control over that process.
- Moreover there is a further way in which membership of the Communities tends to add to the real power in the outside world of its members. For example, France or Germany is important to third countries not only because of her power in her own right but also because of her ability to influence the Communities. In the same way, Britain's real power - and tho influence of her Government or other governments - will tend to increase from membership of the Communities.

BE WRITTEN IN THIS MARGIN 10 NOTHING

The issue of sovereignty: creating the next Leviathan?

Ardent pro-Europeans have something in common with the seventeenth-century philosopher Thomas Hobbes. They can advocate an abdication of Sovereignty—in their case national rather than personal—on perfectly selfish grounds. European law will bring its own reward; without it the life of the British economy will be solitary, poor, nasty, brutish and short. But this perhaps over-inflates the issue of sovereignty. There is also the line of argument taken in the constitutional white papers of 1967, which did its best to show that Britain would not actually be handing over sovereignty at all. In the present Government, Mr Geoffrey Rippon, for one, has treated the constitutional issue with something close to scorn. That is one way of enging with a question that is at least partly semantic. But it is more convincing to anticipate those like Mr Enoch Powell who will raise the bogy of an impotent Parliament as the EEC negotiations proceed. Five constitutional questions need answers.

1. By Article 240 of the Treaty of Rome, the European community was created for an indefinite duration; what happens if Britain, once in, wants to get out? This is a peculiarly groundless as well as fainthearted apprehension. The crude answer is that Britain is no less an independent power in the common market than out. And so, in the unlikely event of wanting to leave, could do so. As is often pointed out, Britain's rauch-prized sovereignty is limited anyway, by geographical situation, mutual defence pacts, dependence on trade, international debt. A repeal clause in whatever treaty bound Britain to Europe would notther add to nor subtract from its force. But the argument is not—or should not be—just about power. It is about authority, or legitimacy; and this is where the constitutionalists come in.

2. In Britain, according to constitutional theory embalanced by Dicky in * Lead and Constitutional Implications of United Kingdom Membership of the Economic Commissions, HMSO. the nineteenth century, no Parliament can bind its successor. So how can Britain commit itself to observe future community decisions? There is a crude answer to this, too. No nation can bind future generations inviolably. Other countries than Britain may revoke previous decisions by rewriting their constitutions (with or without a revolution) rather than merely, as Britain does, by passing another statute. Every European government can only hope that its successors will abide by the Treaty Britain lacks not so much a written constitution—this is more famous than correct; rights are enshrined in a multitude of written statutes going back to the Bill of Rights and beyond, to the much-repealed Magna Carta. What Britain really lacks is an effective check on its legislature. There is no judicial review of legislation. On joining the EEC, this will be a help as well as a hindrance. Britain will be free of the sort of legal tangles from which the Germans and Italians have suffered. But this does leave one question uncomfortably wide open.

3. Some community law is intended to have direct effect within member states. What happens when this conflicts with British law? To be enforceable in British courts, a treaty making Britain a member of the EEC must be put through Parliament. This means Britain would have to pass a monster statute embodying existing community law—more or less. The fear that these laws, drawn up for countries with a Roman law tradition, will be unsuited to a common law country such as England, is a bogy; Parliament will manage to draw up reconcilable laws just as it now makes laws for the two different systems of Scottish and English law. What happens then Indied Article 166 of the Treaty of Rome, the principal law-making instruments of the commission are regulations (intended to take effect automaticelly as law in member states) and directives laddressed to the governments which are then required to incorporate them into their internal law). These, according to the white paper, would "like ordinary delegated legislation" derive their force from the original statute joining Britain to the Six.

It is possible to pretend that regulations are like ordinary delegated legislation provided that they post-date any domestic British law with which they may conflict. The white paper rather undermines his by suggesting that regulations, as well as directives, should be turned into British statute law to make everything quite clear. If this happened, either Parliament would be setting itself up as a rubber stamp to each and every new community regulation; or, if it wanted to keep its authority over every Brussels regulation, Britain's intentions to abide by community decisions, expressed in the treaty making it a member, would have a hollow ring.

4. This really comes down to a simple question: who is going to enforce community law? The answer is, of course, the British courts. This would be plain sailing where each new community rule is enacted in turn into British statute law; it might be less plain sailing as regards regulations unless the ori mal statute made it sufficiently clear in advance that these have to count as law. British courts will have to accustom themselves to a rather more interpretive role, since community regulations are couched in more general terms than British statute law.

British courts will also have to accept the relevance of more foreign judgments, which is being made to happen to an increasing extent anyway. The water gets choppy when it comes to regulations with which subsequent parliamentary statutes conflict. On Diecy's analysis, Parliament cannot prevent its successor from passing such laws. According to the white paper, Parliament would have to refrain from doing so—an unsatisfactory answer if there ever was one. Of course the constitutional image of an unfertened Parliament passing statutes at will of whim has long been laughable; since Diecy's day the government has acquired a straightfold on the Commons. So one answer is that other the property of the constitutional interpretations of the commons. So one answer is that other than the property of the property of the continuous of the commons. So one answer is that other than the property of the property of the property of the continuous of the commons of the commons of the commons of the common of the

MNK 2/12

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

ECONOMIST 12.4 Arn wil

Cutting dated

2 4 APR 1971 --- 19

2

. N.

There is another, more ambitious and less realistic answer. A number of eminent lawyers maintain that Parliament can in fact limit its legislative authority. Even Dicey believed that it could transfer its sovereignty to some other body. The example most commonly adduced is the 1931 Statute of Westminster, destroying Parliament's right to legislate for Commonwealth countries without their consent. It is argued that Parliament is also constrained by the Act of Union with Scotland. This would theoretically mean that the courts could rule on whether a British law is valid.

But as things stand it is too much to expect a cautious British judiciary to reject new acts of Parliament without Government prompting. Farliament would first have to spell out in a bill that it would be a defence to an action brought under British law that it was inconsistent with a community regulation. The consequence of this would be that the courts would not uplied British statutes passed in contravention of European regulations. It is important that British courts are not in opposition to, but help to interpret and develop community law. They would not be unaided in this. By far, the greatest number of actions brought before the European court are not under Articles 169 and 170 (against member states for failing to Julfil their obligations) or under Articles 173 and 175 (against

This is the first in a series of briefs by The Economist setting out the facts about British entry into the common market. the commission itself) but under Article 177, under which the European court gives rulings on the interpretation of community law. It does not enforce its interpretation; when the Germans imposed a compensatory turnover tax and the European court indicated that it was contrary to Article 95, the ball was back in the German court. But it has been under Article 177 that the lines of European law have been drawn out. This makes the European court sound like little more than a consultancy; but then "interpenetration" of legal systems; rather than a new set of, probably weak, community courts, is the best way for Eurolaw to grow.

for Britain and the courts will uphold them, what sovereignty is left to Parliament? Put another way, how wide can community law range, and who makes it? At present EEG law covers economics and finance; this gives a wider range than these dry terms imply, and—unanimously—member countries could decide to broaden it still further. Regulations have been made in the fields of restrictive practices and monopoly, movement of workers, social security of migrant workers, agriculture, transport—and there are also similar rules covering the coal, steel and nuclear energy industries. If non-tariff barriers are not to spring up where tariff barriers have been knocked down, a good deal of harmonisation of company law, for example, has to take place, just as it was necessary to harmonise some of the laws of Scotland and England. The 1967 white paper soothingly pointed out that there would be no effect on English and Scottish criminal law. The sanctions imposed under community law are of a civil rather than criminal character—which means money rather than prison.

The white paper was also concerned to point out both the safeguards in the framing of community law and the new freedoms it would open up to the ordinary citizen. But those who drafted the white paper were so concerned to anticipate critics that they suffered from a failure of iniagination. It is one thing to point out that most regulations have to be passed unanimously or at worst by a qualified (which means large) majority of the council of ministers, or to show how it will be open to an ordinary citizen to challenge, say, a tax or custonis demand on the ground that it conflicts with community law. It is another to show how Britain will actually be part of the law-making and enforcing business. The European parliament gets scant treatment; perhaps, until Article 137 is put into effect and it is directly elected, that is all it is worth, but it might also have been worth soothing parliamentarians by pointing out that about 5 per cent of MPs are likely to find their way to Strasbourg, and could form a bridge with Westminster.

The EEC still conforms to Mr Heath's recent picture of a united Europe as one in which governments 'Form the habit of working together.' This pragmatic view of the EEC has the advantage of deflating the constitutional issue, since in British constitutional of Parliament. But if Europe becomes federalist or supranational or "interpenetrated," Mr Powell's ilk might then argue that the British nation had been led into it blindfold. It is better that the constitutional argument should look ahead to a firmer European social contract and conquer straight away the wilder nightmares of an uncontrolled European Leviathan. Only governments will ever create the European Leviathan; it will not appear unasked.

2	cms	The National Archives	ins 1
Ref.:	FCO	30 / 1048	312345

Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Written Answers 111

12 MAY 1971

Written Answers

show to what extent housing costs per person in Great Britain would have to rise to match the countries of the Six; and whether he will consider doing this in order to facilitate Great Britain's entry into the European Economic Community.

Mr. Channon: I do not find it possible to make reliable comparisons of total expenditure on housing between Britain and the E.E.C. countries, or to draw from any such comparison any valid conclusions. conclusions.

Train Travel (Tickets)

52. Mr. Wolrige-Gordon asked the Secretary of State for the Environment if he will give a general direction to British Railways to improve methods of preventing travel on trains without a ticket.

Mr. Peyton: No.

OUESTIONS TO MINISTERS

36. Mr. Iremonger asked the Lord President of the Council if he will arrange for a revised order of Questions to be printed so as to indicate the dates on or by which Questions must be tabled when the period covered by the revised order is interrupted by days of recess.

Mr. Whitelaw: The Table Office produces before each recess, for the guidance of hon. Members, a duplicated chart showing when notice may first be given of Questions for oral answer during the first two weeks after a recess. This might well meet my hon. Friend's point.

HOUSE OF COMMONS MEMBERSHIP (DISQUALIFICATIONS)

40. Mr. Pardoe asked the Lord President of the Council whether he is satisfied that all the disqualifications for membership of the House of Commons are still necessary; and what steps he proposes to take to limit disqualification.

Mr. Whitelaw: There are no proposals for changes at the present time, but if the hon. Member has any particular category of disqualification in mind, perhaps, he will let me know. The list of disqualifications is kept under regular review.

CANADIAN PARLIAMENT

Mr. Arthur Lewis asked the Lord President of the Council whether he will arrange to visit his counterpart in the Canadian Parliament to discuss matters connected with exchange visits of Members of the two Parliaments.

Mr. Whitelaw: I have no such plans at present.

Mr. Arthur Lewis asked the Lord President of the Council whether he is aware that Members of the Canadian Parliament are to receive a 50 per cent. increase in their existing salaries, bringing these up to $18,000 per annum; and ing these up to $18,000 per annum; and that their existing tax-free expenses allowance is to be raised by 33 per cent. to $8,000 per annum; and whether he will obtain from the Canadian Government details of how these amounts are paid and on what basis and submit the details to the Boyle Committee.

Mr. Whitelaw: I would refer the hon. Member to the written reply I gave him on 15th January.—[Vol. 809, c. 138-9.]

CATERING MANAGER (SALARY)

Mr. Arthur Lewis asked the Lord Mr. Arthur Lewis asked the Lord President of the Council why the Catering Manager is paid £3,600 per annum as against a Member of Parliament's £3,250; what expenses the Manager is expected to meet out of this salary; whether he receives free meals; and whether he has to pay his secretary's salary out of this amount.

Mr. Whitelaw: The salary of the Catering Manager is fixed by the Catering Sub-Committee of the Services Committee, in the light of salaries paid in the trade for posts of similar responsibility. The Manager has to pay his normal living expenses out of his salary. He is entitled to free meals and he does not pay his secretary's salary.

EUROPEAN ECONOMIC COMMUNITY

3 Mr. Arthur Lewis asked the Lord President of the Council to what extent,

RECEIVED IN

DATE 12 MAY 71

2 cms The National Archives ins FCO 30 1048 Ref .: 312345 Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets 113 Written Answers 12 MAY 1971 before a decision is taken in the Council BOYLE COMMITTEE of Ministers of the Community, it is open to Parliaments of member States, includ-Mr. Arthur Lewis asked the Lord ing Great Britain, not only to debate such President of the Council why he has not appointed the members of the Boyle Committee; when he expects to make issues, but to refuse to agree to or implement any decisions arrived at by the Council of Ministers of the Community. these appointments; when he expects the Committee to hold its first meeting; how often it will meet; and whether he will Mr. Whitelaw: If we accede to the Treaty of Rome, it will be open to Par-liament, as it is to Parliaments of other member States to debate, before their make a statement. Mr. Whitelaw: I would refer the hon. enactment, those Community instruments submitted by the Commission of the E.E.C. to the Council of Ministers for approval. As members of the E.E.C. Member to my reply to him on 21st April, 1971. [C. 403.] It will be for the Review Body to decide on the timing approval. of its meetings. we would be represented in the Council and party to its processes of decision-making on Community legislation. SCOTLAND Austistic Children 53. Mr. Alexander Wilson asked the Secretary of State for Scotland how many autistic children are in mental hospitals MINISTER (OFFICIAL ENGAGEMENTS) in Scotland; and in which hospitals Mr. Arthur Lewis asked the Lord Mr. Gordon Campbell: The normal hospital statistics do not show the number of children in this complex diagnostic category, but a special enquiry is at present being carried out and I shall send details to the hon. Member as soon as possible. President of the Council whether he will publish in the Official Report a list of his official engagements for Saturday, 5th June, 1971. Mr. Whitelaw: It is not the practice possible. to do so. 54. Mr. Alexander Wilson asked the Secretary of State for Scotland how many autistic children are being educated in REFRESHMENT DEPARTMENT day schools in Lanarkshire. Mr. Arthur Lewis asked the Lord President of the Council why the investigation into the administration of the Refreshment Department's administration is not yet complete; what recommendations have already been made for the improvement of the service and its efficiency; and whether Members may make written or oral statements to assist in this investigation. Mr. Gordon Campbell: I am asking the education authority to provide the hon. Member with up-to-date information. Mr. Alexander Wilson asked the Secretary of State for Scotland how many autistic children in Scotland are in special units of education. in this investigation. Mr. Gordon Campbell: The education authorities have reported to me that in January there were 14 autistic children receiving special education. It will however be appreciated that many children who are classified under other handicaps the orbits autistic symptoms. Dr. Bennett: I have been asked to reply. The investigation concerns many matters of considerable detail, and this will require time. A number of recommendations have so far been made and mendations have so far been made and approved by the Sub-Committee, relating to the control of supplies and the checking of stores. The Sub-Committee will certainly consider suggestions for the improvement of the efficiency of the service to hon. Members. also exhibit autistic symptoms. High Seas Salmon Fishing Lieut.-Colonel Colin Mitchell asked the Secretary of State for Scotland what steps the British delegates will take at the

The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

UNCLASSIFIED

UK Delegation to the Buropean Communities 52 Ave des Arts 1040 Brussels

27 May 1971

S W Fremantle Esq Department of Trade and Industry 1 Victoria Street London SW1

Dea Sydney,

IMPLEMENTING EEC DIRECTIVES

Thank you for your letter of 2 May.

- 2. I have discussed this with a number of people here and with Ian Sinclair (Legal Counsellor, FCO) and we all agree that it is hard to answer your questions in very precise terms. Directives as you know, bind member States as to the result to be achieved, while leaving it to national authorities to determine how this is to be done. In practice statutory measures (legislation or subordinate legislation) are often used, although administrative measures may be sufficient in certain cases. The type of sanctions varies from case to case: but I am told that civil sanctions are most often considered sufficient.
- 3. Since the objective of the Directives with which you and I are concerned is generally to ensure the free circulation of goods among the member States, exports to third countries are as a rule specifically exempted from the application of the directives.
- 4. I would have thought it best to deal with your question on "control" by reference to the motor vehicle type approval directives. As you know, these provide that member States may not prohibit the marketing of vehicles certified by another member State as confirming with the Community standard; except that sales may be suspended for up to six months where there is a demonstrable risk to safety. This is, of course, a cuestion of type approved rather than individual certification. There have so far been no directives in the industrial field requiring compulsory certification of every production model.
- 5. Individual certification is the general rule in the agricultural field, where member States are called on, in principle, to recognise one another's systems of animal and plant health certification; but they are allowed considerable latitude to carry out additional checks on or after importation, essentially

/to

RECEIVED IN

THEY WHAT

nuk 2/12

UNCLASSIFIED

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

UNCLASSIFIED

to take account of the possibility that disease may have been contracted in transit. I do not think, though, that Verdiani would regard this as creating a precedent to be followed for industrial products.

Your six cerely

C M Cruickshank

cc I M Sinclair Esq FCO

> I T Steven Esq EID FCO

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2 Ref.: FCO 30 / 1018 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

219 Written Answers

27 MAY 1971

Written Answers

220 fundamental problems will arise over transitional periods.

Mr. Arthur Lewis asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many letters in cyclostyle format he sent to the hon. Member for West Ham, North with his communication of 10th May; to what extent these were in reply to communications sent to him in favour of and against Great Britain's entry into the European Econmic Community; and in what numbers in each instance.

Mr. Rippon: I wrote to the hon. Member on 10th May enclosing replies to the identical unstamped postcards, over 300 in number, which he sent me under cover of a letter dated 3rd May. The postcards, which bore no indication either of authorship or of publisher, made three points about the effect of British membership of the European Economic Community, and asked the Member of Parliament addressed to vote against British entry.

Mr. Arthur Lewis asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs on what dates in March and April he replied to the 200 to 250 written communications from members of the public about Great Britain's entry into the European Economic Community; and what was the nature of these replies.

Mr. Rippon: The letters from the public referred to by the hon. Member were received at various dates throughout the period in question and covered a wide range of questions and statements about our negotiations for entry into the European Economic Community. Some, congratulating Her Majesty's Government on their conduct of the negotiations, were given a short reply thanking the writer for his sentiments. Others, seeking information or criticising the negotiations, were given more detailed replies. All were answered.

Mr. Powell asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what total sum he estimates will be expended in the current financial year out of his Vote for all purposes of informing the British public on the subject of the European Economic Community.

Mr. Rippon: It is not possible to estimate how much time will be spent in the current financial year by members of the Foreign and Commonwealth Office in answering inquiries from the public on the negotiations, or in drafting ministerial speeches and statements on the British application for membership of the European Economic Community.

The production and distribution of the series of Facisheets on Britain and the Common Market is carried out on the direct sponsorship of the Foreign and Commonwealth Office, but their cost is borne on the Central Office of Information and Her Majesty's Stationery Office Votes. The entire operation, which was mounted to meet the demand for factual information, was originally planned to cost about £45,000. The heavy public demand for the Factsheets will involve extra costs. The latest estimate of the total cost based on the current level of demand is £62,000.

Mr. Deakins asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how his recent agreement with the European Economic Community will safeguard the interests of Commonwealth cane sugar producers after 1974, in the event of priority being given to sugar beet production within an enlarged European Economic Community.

Mr. Rippon: I am confident that the sugar policy of the enlarged Community will be determined in accordance with the recent proposal by the Communities to safeguard the interests of the developing sugar-producing countries of the Commonwealth.

Mr. Arthur Lewis asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will ensure that the instrument of accession, if Great Britain joins the European Economic Community, will enable the British House of Conimons to pray for the annulment of orders made by the Council of Ministers.

Mr. Rippon: If we join the European Economic Community the powers of Parliament in relation to acts of the Council of Ministers will be exercised in the light of the provisions of Article 189 of the Treaty of Rome.

Mr. Deakins asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth

REGISTED IN
REGISTATION STATES AND REGISTATION OF PAPER PAPE

CATE STIPAY

Report

Labor Will

Cate State

Cate Stat

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

26th May 1971

La. Mr. Arthur Lewis (West Ham, North): To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs, if he will ensure that the instrument of accession, if Great Britain joins the European Economic Community, will enable the British House of Commons to pray for the annulment of orders made by the Council of Ministers.

NO. 39W

MR. GEOFFREY RIPPON

If we join the European Economic Community the powers of Parliament, in relation to acts of the Council of Ministers will be exercised in the light of the provisions of Article 189 of the Treaty of Rome.

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1018 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

26th May 1971

La. Mr. Arthur Lewis (West Ham, North): To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs, if he will ensure that the instrument of accession, if Great Britain joins the European Economic Community, will enable the British House of Commons to pray for the annulment of orders made by the Council of Ministers.

NO. 39W

MR. GEOFFREY RIPPON

If we join the European Economic Community the powers of Parliament, in relation to acts of the Council of Ministers will be exercised in the light of the provisions of Article 189 of the Treaty of Rome.

2 cms The National Archives		2 cms		The National Archives	ins	1
Ref.:	FCO	30 / 1048	ST TWEET	312345

Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

PARLIAMENTARY QUESTION

MON WRITTEN

for ORAL answer on

26th May 1971

The draft reply should reach the Parliamentary Office through your Under-Secretary by

*La. Mr. Arthur Lewis (West Ham, North): To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs, if he will ensure that the instrument of accession, if Great Britain joins the European Economic Community, will enable the British House of Commons to pray for the annulment of orders made by the Council of Ministers.

If we join the EEO the powers of Perliament, in relation to acts of the Council of Ministers will be exercised in the light of the provisions of Article 189 of the Treaty of Rome.

REFERENCES

Article 189 of the Treaty of Rome Flag A

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2 Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Mr Ford
Parliamentary Unit

1. I submit a draft reply for the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster to used in answering a Question from Mr Arthur Lewis which asks if he will ensure that the instrument of accession, if Great Britain joins the European Economic Community, will enable the British House of Commons to pray for the annulment of orders made by the Council of Ministers.

- 2. The Question is for oral answer on 26 May, but will not be reached and no notes for supplementaries are required.
- 3. The Question in that it refers to orders of the Council of Ministers is vaguely expressed. If it referred to regulations the enswer could be no. But Parliament could certainly pray against a directive or decision and, though probably ineffectually, it could attempt to resolve against a regulation. It is also suspected that in using the term "instrument of accession", Mr Lewis intends not the Treaty of Accession (which would have to be negotiated with other States) but legislation giving effect to membership.
- 4. The draft answer has been cleared with the Legal

Anyvino

European Integration Department

A H Brind

26 May 1971 Copied to

Mr Watts

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that you use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

25

Written Answers

24 MAY 1971

Written Auswers

Mr. Deakins asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he has negotiated safeguards to prevent any expansion of sugar beet production in an enlarged European Economic Community which would adversely affect the interests of commonwealth cane sugar producers after 1974.

Mr. Rippon: Levels of sugar beet production in an enlarged Community will be governed by the Community's regulations, as they are in the present Community. The relevant provisions are reviewed annually and it would be reasonable to expect the review to take account of the Community's assurances on sugar from developing Commonwealth countries.

Mr. Arthur Lewis asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what was the cost of the official luncheon held by the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster in Brussels on 11th May for the Foreign Ministers of the Six; and what was the purpose of the function.

Mr. Rippon: The cost of the luncheon was £194.59. It provided an opportunity for valuable informal discussions at an important juncture in the European Economic Community negotiations.

Mr. Arthur Lewis asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether he will place in the Library the full text of the public statement made by the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster in Brussels on Tuesday 11th May, 1971, concerning the nature of the discussions between the United Kingdom negotiators and their counterparts from the Six.

Mr. Rippon: No. I made no public statement on 11th May, but as is customary in the course of the day I gave two briefings to journalists which covered developments during the day in the discussions on sugar. The full texts of my statements in the negotiating conference are of course confidential, but on 17th May on my return from Brussels and Reykjavik I reported fully to the House on the previous week's negotiating meetings with the European Economic Community.—[Vol. 817, c. 882-6.]

Mr. Arthur Lewis asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth

Affairs whether he will publish in the OFFICIAL REPORT full and detailed information showing to what extent the public proposals of the Ministers of the European Economic Community in Brussels on 11th May concerning Commonwealth sugar differed from those made by the Commission in November, 1970.

Mr. Rippon: No.

Proposals made by the Commission were to the Council of Ministers of the Community; these are confidential as are the details of the proposals put to Her-Majesty's Government by the Community in the negotiating conference. The nature of the Community's proposals on Commonwealth sugar and Her Majesty's Government's reaction to them, were dealt with in my statement to the House on 17th May.—[Vol. 817, c. 882-6.]

Mr. Arthur Lewis asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether he is aware that confidential information regarding the Brussels negotiations is given to the Press, radio and television, by representatives of Her Majesty's Government; and whether he will reconsider his methods of informing Parliament about these talks in the light of these leaks.

Mr. Rippon: Arrangements for briefing Press, radio and television correspondents during the Ministerial negotiating meetings with the European Economic Community follow standard procedures. I am not aware of any leaks attributable to representatives of Her Majesty's Government. I see no reason to vary my practice of making a statement to the House, as I did on 17th May, as soon as it is possible after each Ministerial negotiating meeting.—[Vol. 817, c. 882-6.]

Mr. Arthur Lewis asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether, in the event of Parliament approving the instruments of accession to the Treaties of the Communities, he will propose in the accompanying legislation that the House of Commons should be able to renounce membership on behalf of the United Kingdom at any future date.

Mr. Rippon: No.

DATE 24Hay

RIGI. AY -1 JUN1971 MWK 2/12 Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

24th May 1971

Ia. Mr. Arthur Lewis (West Ham, North): To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs, whether, in the event of Parliament approving the instruments of accession to the Treaties of the Communities, he will propose in the accompanying legislation that the House of Commons should be able to renounce membership on behalf of the United Kingdom at any future date.

NO. 56W

MR. GEOFFREY RIPPON

No, Sir.

The National Archives in ins. 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and the supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and the supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and the supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and the supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and the supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and the supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions are supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions are supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions are supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions are supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions are supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions are supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions are supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions are supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions are supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions are supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions are supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions are supplied subject to the National Archives' terms are subject to the National Archives' terms are supplied subject to the National Archives' terms are subject

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

24th May 1971

La. Mr. Arthur Lewis (West Ham, North): To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs, whether, in the event of Parliament approving the instruments of accession to the Treaties of the Communities, he will propose in the accompanying legislation that the House of Commons should be able to renounce membership on behalf of the United Kingdom at any future date.

NO. 56W

MR. GEOFFREY RIPPON

No, Sir.

The National Archives FCO Ref.: 30 1 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

for ORAL answer on 24th May 1971

Office through your:

Mr. Arthur Lewis (West Ham, North): To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs, whether, in the event of Parliament approving the instruments of accession to the Treaties of the Communities, he will propose in the accompanying legislation that the House of Commons should be able to renounce membership on behalf of the United Kingdom at any future date. *La.

Mr. Geoffrey Byllish,

No, Sir.

REFERENCE

Flag A Article 240 of the Treaty of Rome

The National Archives Ref.: FCO 30 1 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

for ORAL answer on 24th May 1971

The draft reply should reach the Parliamentary Office through your

Mr. Arthur Lewis (West Ham, North): To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs, whether, in the event of Parliament approving the instruments of accession to the Treaties of the Communities, he will propose in the accompanying legislation that the House of Commons should be able to renounce membership on behalf of the United Kingdom at any future date.

Mr. Serfrey Bollon,

No, Sir.

REFERENCE

Article 240 of the Treaty of Rome Flag A

(13523) Dd.643721 3m 1/70 G.W.B Ltd. Gp.863

1	2 cms	The National Archives	ins 1 2
	Ref.: FCO	30 / 1048	312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Mr Ford 1/5.
Parliamentary Unit

- 1. I submit a draft reply for the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster to use in answering a Question from Mr Arthur Lewis which asks whether, in the event of Parliament approving the instruments of accession to the Treaties of the Communities, he will propose in the accompanying legislation that the House of Commons should be able to remounce membership on behalf of the United Kingdom at any future date.
- 2. The Question is for oral answer on 24 May, but will not be taken orally and no notes for supplementaries are required.
- 3. It would be possible:-

Flag A

- i. to give an answer viewing Articles 240, 208 and 97 of, respectively, the EEC, Euratom and ECSC Treaties in the light of the 1969 Vienna Convention on the Law of Treaties and customary international law; or
- ii. to explain that, in the final analysis, no additional legislation would be necessary to permit Parliament voting in favour of renouncing membership of the Communities (formally, the actual renunciation of membership is not a matter for Parliament).
- 4. However, I think it is clear that a measure of the kind proposed by Mr Lewis is not contemplated, and that there is no reason why we should not say so.

Amina

A H Brind

21 May 1971

The National Archives Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

REGIO : 1 - 37

Per dyal a lushtuling 21st May 1971. I attach for the purpose of discussion a first draft of a reply to Mr. Elystan Morgan's Parliamentary Cuestion on accession to the EEC. I am copying this letter and the enclosure to Arthur Watts and Sir Charles Sopwith. K. M. NEWMAN. M. de Winton, Esq. With W. Enclaw.

Grant agreed

Grant agreed

Har attacked aft. answer. 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 3123US

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions: Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Mr Elysten Morgan (Cardigan): To ask Mr Attorney General, if he will make a statement concerning the power of Parliament to repeal at a subsequent date day decision which was made by way of resolution or legislation directed to effecting the entry of the United Kingdom into the European Economic Community.

(For Written Answer - 25th May 1971)

Draft Answer

There are no present constitutional restrictions on the power of Parliament to undo its own actions, but such a step would; In the obsence of exceptional circumstances, not be consonant with the international obligations which the United Kingdom would have assumed and it does not seem profitable to speculate about the possibility of Parliament over visiting to adopt such a course.

upon to ming the Sumplear Commission hier taker unilaterally would structured in any fresscale circumstances

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 1 2 Ref.: FCO 30 / 1018 313345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets:

NOTE

Mr. Elystan Morgan is Labour Member for Cardigan.

It is universally agreed that 'arliament would have, at least according to present constitutional doctrine, power to repeal any legislation passed to give effect to United Kingdom accession to the European Economic Community. (See Lord Chancellor Gardiner Official Report (Lords) 1967 vol. 282, no. 148, cols, 1202 - 2 Lord Chancelfor Dilhorne Official Report (Lords) 1962 vol. 243, no. 115, cols. 421 - 422.)

In the light of the development of Community jurisprudence and the possible effect of the absorbtion of the corpus of Community: law into our own law, the possibility of this constitutional doctrine being eroded in the course of time following United Kingdom accession to the European Economic Community cannot however be discounted.

The answer follows the line adopted by successive Lord Chancellors in debate in the House of Lords that, since repeal of the legislation implementing the Treaties would put the United Kingdom in breach of here Treaty obligations, nothing is to be gained from speculating on the theoretical powers of Parliament, It would be contrary to a moral obligation to restrain from acts which are inconsistent with the international obligations of this country.

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2,

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' ferms and conditions and that your

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Foreign and Commonwealth Office

London S.W.1

27 April 1971

K M H Newman Esq Lord Chancellor's Office House of Lords London SW1

Dar Kase,

SOVEREIGNTY IN THE EUROPEAN ECONOMIC COMMUNITY

Many thanks for your letter of 23 April about the planned factsheet on Sovereignty and the Community announced by Mr Rippon in reply to a question by Mr Elystan Morgan on 22 April.

I had not myself been aware that a specific factsheet on Sovereignty was in the wind, although I knew generally that a number of factsheets were in the process of publication. I have now caused enquiries to be made and it appears that the proposed factsheet on sovereignty, which would be prepared in the first instance by the COI, is due to be published in about ten weeks time. I am also informed that, since the programme for the issue of this series of factsheets is not unalterable, we may be able to delay the publication of the factsheet on sovereignty if the views of the Law Officers are not by then available. In any event our European Communities Information Unit have promised to let me see the first draft of the factsheet and I will ensure that you, and the other recipients of this letter, see it at that stage.

I am copying this letter to Mike de Winton and also to Sir Charles Sopwith.

you ere.

I M Sinclair Legal Advisers

1	2	cms	科教 拉	PAX	The	Nati	ional	Arc	nives		ins T	1	Γ	1	2
	Ref.:	FC	20	30)	/ 1	04	8	W. Jank		: 1	3123	45
Pleas			his copy									nditions	and tha	at you	1L

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and 'Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Mr Sinclair SOVEREIGNTY AND THE EEC 1. The answer to the question by Mr Morgan was prepared by ECIU who will be responsible for the first draft of the factsheet on sovereignty and will consult you, the Sopwith Committee, and the Lord Chancellor's Office about it. This is one of a series of fact sheets and is due to be prepared in about 12 weeks time although, since the programme for the issues of these publications is not unalterable, we can delay its publication if we do not have by then the Law Officers' opinion. I am returning Mr Newman's letter to you as agreed. 1. Therein I T Steven European Integration Department Mar. Auf: laters to the C.D.I. (H-Wittend)

Mr. Ser
In that care I well make the Confidence of what represents the confidence of

what represents the confidence of

in that care I well make the Confidence 26 April 1971 I have wiken to Av. News per an hyal a Con. h. halimind huppimahuni HV: LARMINED IN REGISTAY No. 3"

The National Archives ins. 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

(2) (2) (4) (4)

LORD CHANCELLOR'S OFFICE HOUSE OF LORDS LONDON S.W.1

23rd April 1971.

Dear Jan,

01-930 6240

Sovermighty in the European Secondaric Community

I see that in written answer to a Question by Mr Elystan Morgan (House of Commons Official Report, 22nd April 1971, Col. 458) the Chancellor of the Duchy announced that a factsheet on Sovereignty and the Community is planned. We did not know about this and nor de, I understand, did the Law Officers, and in view of the complex and delicate problems to which the question of Sovereignty gives rise, I am not altogether happy about a commitment to publish a survey in a simplified form. We shall now need to bear this in mind in connection with the matters placed before the Law Officers.

I am copying this letter to Michael de Winton and Sir Charles Sopwith.

Jus eu.

K. M. Newman

I. M. Sinclair, Esq.

1 2 cms The National Archives Ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 313345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Nev 1971

6 F Hiller Esq British Ambasey BRUBJELS

CONSTITUTIONAL AND LEGAL MEASURES TO IMPLICATE THE THEATIES OF THE EUROPEAN CONKUNITY

1. Will you please refor to your letter of 19 November 1970 enclosing a statement of the measures taken by Belgium to accode to the ENO and Euraton.

2. Your letter enclosed the Selgian law effecting accession to the NEO and Suratom, and I would be most grateful if you could now obtain for us fairly urgently the equivalent law for the ECSC (is between 18 April 1951 and 1 January 1952). This is required by the Law Officers for a study of the steps taken by each of the Six to give effect to their accession to each Community.

I T Steven European Integration Department

RECEIVED IN REGISTEY No. 37 26MAY 1971

HUK 2/16

7 2 cms Ref.: FCC Please note that this co	The National Archives ins 1 2 30 / 1048 313345 ppy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your ubject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets
	Reference IIII
	H2. Brad (02) 1/2. Stathage (02)
	In will wish to be the attacked whithis has watter on the national of the appeal in the case of Blackhum v. afficiency General.
	The fudgment given by the hearting The Rolls is bound to be taken into auroust in the opinion of the librorus, General upon the supremay of Community Land - The communitary in Sovereigner, Will also be useful- T. Volum 13/5 Mr. Romison. You are away gave any awar of his oution. You may who the the present how.
RECUVED IN REGIT 1971	Kum Lizzs
nuk 2/12	Reento or "Legal " Reento or "Legal " The or " 1 / or

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Reference...

ega

Sir Vincent Evans (Legal Advisers K 172)

BLACKBURN V. ATTORNEY GENERAL

- 1. The appeal of this case was heard today. The Court of Appeal unanimously dismissed the appeal. Mr Blackburn had indicated during the hearing that he did not intend to seek leave to appeal to the House of Lords.
- 2. The leading judgment was given by the Master of the Rolls. After briefly introducing the history of the case, he went on to say that Mr Blackburn was right, so far as he could judge, in saying that if the UK were to go into the Common Market the signature of the Treaty would commit it irreversibly to the joinder of the market, and that furthermore, in some degree the sovereignty of these islands would be shared with others. Mr Blackburn had referred to COSTA v. EVEL , and to the fact that many Regulations would become automatically binding in the UK, and that our courts would have to follow the decisions of the European Court.
- But, (The Master of the Rolls continued) this was all a matter of negotiation at the moment. Even if the Treaty were signed our courts would take no notice of it until it was enacted by the laws of this country: this was so well established a proposition that it needed no authority, and the Master of the Rolls referencely to Rustomjee v. The Queen. Mr Blackburn had argued that the Treaty of Rome was in a category by itself because it diminished the sovereignty of the United Kingdom. However, in the view of the Master of the Rolls, the principle he had stated applied equally to all treaties. The treaty making vests in the Crown acting on the advice of Ministers; prerogative acts of this kind cannot be questioned in the courts. The Master of the Rolls then turned to the question whether Parliament could, in approving legislation for participation in a permanent treaty, could enact an irreversible statute. In his view all laws were repealable. But this was legal theory ; that one Parliament cannot bind its successors and that any Parliament can repeal imprevious statute. But legal theory does not always march alongside political reality. He did not believe that anybody would say that Parliament would repeal the Statute of Westminister or independence Acts for our former colonies. In any case, whatever might be the theory of Parkiament's power to reverse itself, the matter could only be tested when the time came, i.e. if and when Parliament should seek to reverse the act allowing for our entry into the Common Market. Sovereignty was a political fact for which no purely legal authority could be constituted. While Mr Blackburn was right in asserting that one Parliament cannot bind another and that any Parliament has the power to repeal previous statutes, this court would wait until that time came. Our courts will not impugn the treaty making power of the Crown, and so far as Parliament enacts legislation the courts will deal with it at the time that legislation comes before the courts.

4. Salmon and Stamp, L. JJ, delivered short concurring judgments, the general drift of which was that it was for the Crown power .

RECEIVED IN
REGISTRYN 2
14 MAY 1971
MUK 2/12

1	2 cms	The state of the s	ational Archiv	ves	ins 1	1 ' 2345	2, 7
Pleas	se note that this cop use of it may be su	by is supplied sub bject to copyrigh Conditions of s	t restrictions. F	urther informa	terms and condit		Jur sur to make treaties, and for Parliament to enact the necessary legislation; the role of the courts were limited to applying and construing the legislation when once passed. Legal Advisers

W 44/4 10 May 1971 Mr. Watte Copy to: Mr Sinclair Hank you. This seems very valighelong Mr Steven Now see attached Extract Jun The Times, ED prenty. 0 two.

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Blackburn v. Attorney General

Blackburn v. Attorney General Before I. In Jenning the Master of the Road Lord Instice Salmen and Lord Instice Salmen and Lord Instice Salmen The court with not at the stiff of a subject grant declarations which implies the Cowins prepositive to enter into the Trenty of Rome. Even though it may commit the executive preversibly to joining the Common Market and mean sonie stating of the soverginty of these islands with others. The court's function is to interpret political decisions when they have been embodied in Acts of Parliament; and though the present accepted the of the property of the present accepted the form of the present accepted the subject of the present accepted for the present accepted and though the present accepted the property of the present accepted for the form of the Attorney General representing her Massay's Government, on the round in Order 18 ride 19 of the Rules of the Supreme Court that they disclosed no cause of action.

Mr. Blackburn in person, Mr. Gordon Siyun for the Attorney General.

renear Syun for me Attorney General.

The MANTER OFTHE ROLLS and that, once again Mr. Black-burn had shown electral-vigilance in support of the law. His application concerned the Government's proposal to apply to sign the Treaty of Rome and to foin the Common Market. Mr. Blackburn sought obecarations in his two statements of claim to the effect that by signing the treaty her Majesty's Government would surrender in part the soveneighty of the Crown in Parliament for everand, that his so doing they would act in breach of the law.

The Attorney General had applied to strike out those actions on the ground that the statements of claim disclosed no reasonable cause of action.

As Mr. Blackburn said, it was cause of action.

As Mr. Blackburn said, it was important to clear the air; and his Lordship thought that was a fegitimate desire. Mr. Bluckburn was quite right; so far as his Lordship could judge, it sawing that if this country should go into the Common Market the significance of the treaty would commit at least the escentive irreversibly to the joinder of the Market, and further that in some degree the soveriginty that in some degree the sovereignty

Law Report May 10 197

Court of Appeal

Treaty of Rome declarations refused might have to follow the decisions of the European Court. That was the basis of his application.

But it was right to point out at the outset that everything at the moment was at the negotiation stage. No treat what been signed; even if one avere signed the courts took no notice of treaties made by the executive of this country until they were embodied in laws enacted by Parliament. That was so well established that his Lordship needed only to guide from Lord Colenides. Chief Justice. In Rustonice v. The Owen (1787), 20, B.D. 89, 74), that "She filie Queen) acted throughout the making of the treaty and in relation to each and every of its stipulations in her sovereign, character and by her own inherent authority; and as ja making the jeaty and performing the treaty, she is beyond the control of mainingal law, and her acts are not to be examined in her own courts."

Mr. Blackburth accepted that, but he said that the preposed freaty was in a category by tiself in that if dimmisbed the sovereignt of Parliament over the propied of his country.

His Lordship considered that the proposed in fight out the proposed item making power of this country was in any other. The dreaty making power of this xountry rested not in the courts but the individual of the proposed item making power of this xountry was a whole and their conduct and prerogative could not be chaired to the chair of the country as a whole and their conduct and prerogative could not be chaired.

of these islands would be shared with others.

The court had been acterred to Costa v. E.N.E.L. (1964) Common Market Law Reports, 4(2) concerning the Unitary of the Surgean Court was that men cleetacal industry, in whitch the judgment of the European Court was that men could not that lawyers from the European Court was the men could be talked the pointed out that lawyers from the European Court was the men could be talked to the proper of the pointed out that lawyers from the European Court was the men could be talked to the pointed out that lawyers from the European Court was the men could reverse any men at the pointed out that lawyers from the European Court was the men could reverse any men that the court to Professor Marked the men and the first of the European that the court to Professor Marked the treaty of the European Court. That was the back to the European Court. It has was the back to the European Court. That was the back to the European Court. It has was the back to the European Court. That wa lenged or questioned in the courts in any way.

Secondly, Mr., Blackburn asked, could Parliament either effectually or festimately implement the trenty, which was streversible? He pointed out that lawyers from time atmembral bad said that in England Parliament was supreme, se supreme that no Parliament could bind its successors, and that any Britiment could reverse any previous enactment; and he had referred the court to Professor Matthand's statement in his Constitutional history (p. 332) on the Act of Union between England and Scothard that "We have no rirepealable faws" and that laws ment he repealed by the ordinary legislattic, even the conditions on which the English and Scottish Parliaments appead to merge themselves in the Parliament of Great Britain.

It was fegal theory that one Parliament could not bind another and that to Act was irreversible; but segal fileory did not slaways mare aloneside political reality. Take the Statute of Westminster. Could anyone imagine that Parliament could or would reverse it or Parliament sough a matter for consideration now.

Nor was it necessary to rule on the Crown's submission that Arr. Blackburn had no standing to come before the court. Mr. Blackburn said the matter swas one on which he left very strongly and with which many persons in this country were concerned, this Lotalship would not like to rule him out on that ground. The ground on which he must be ruled out was that the courts would not into pugn the treaty-making power of ther Majesty on the advice of neaministers, and an so tar as Pattille ment enacted legislating the courts.

would deal with it as and when they saw it. The statements of claim disclosed no cause of action and the appeal should be dismissed.

LORD JUSTICE SALMON, concurring, said that while he recognized the undoubted succepts of Mr. Blackbrim's views, he derived the discharge of the purpose of which was to influence political decisions which had nothing to do with the courts. The courts were concerned only with the effect of such decisions if and when they had been implemented by the legis haure.

Still less had the courts power.
To control the treaty-making power.

Still ices had the courts power, of the control the treaty-making power, of the Sovereign,

LORD JUSTICE STAMP, also concurring, said that he expressed to vice whatever on the implications of this country becoming a party to the Treaty of Rome, Mr. Blackburn had confused the separation between the powers of the courts. The Crown entered into treaties. Parliament conced the laws. And it was the duty of the courts in proper cases to interpret those laws when made. The courts should not at the suit of one of her Majesty's subjects make declarations regarding the undoubted prerogative rights of the Crown to enter into treates.

Mr. Slyan asked, for the costs of the proceedings.

2 cms The National Archives 30 / 1048 312345 FCO Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that you use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets umatanca CONFIDENTIAL MR WATTS (Legal Advisers) SOVEREIGNTY 1. I mentioned to you, in connection with the paper on Sovereignty, the request from the Private of Office for a short Annex and I undertook to make this request more evaluate. this request more explicit. 2. The Secretary of State had commented on the need for a paper to make clear "in what areas Parliament will not be able to determine policy". The paper as a whole is of course addressed to very much The paper as a whole is or course addressed to very much this problem but the Private Office interpreted the Secretary of State's requirement as including the need to "identify areas such as tariffs which would be subject to Community control (and particularly control by the Commission) and rates of taxation which would not. It would be worth listing major areas such as "criminal lew over which control would be retained by the law, over which control would be retained by the House of Commons". They also commented that this section should be produced as soon as possible; this fits in with our wish to put the paper as a whole to the Planning Committee in June. J. I hope this gives you enough to go on. As I see it, the requirement is for a relatively short and factual Annex setting out the present range of subjects covered by Community law, regulations and directives under general headings; indicating which subjects were not now covered but might become subject to Community regulation with the progressive "deepening" of the Community; and which areas (as for example the criminal law) were mplikely to continue to be regulated on a national level. 4. I hope to have the paper ready for circulation to members of the Planning Committee by Thursday 27 May. If at all possible we should like to have the Annex ready at the same time. RECEIVED IN GISTRY No. 37 W R Tomkys 25MAY 1971 Planning Staff 17 May 1971 MNK 2/12 Copied to: Mr P Cradock Mr Morland (EID) CONFIDENTIAL

The National Archives 30 1 1048 FCO Ref .: 312345 Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that you

use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

18 MAY 1971

Written Answers

280

Economic Community; and how many of these were in favour and how many against Great Britain's entry.

Mr. Rippon: I have nothing to add to the reply which I gave to the hon. Gentleman on 10th May.—[Vol. 817, c. 23.]

Mr. Clark Hutchison asked the Secre-Mr. Clark Futchison asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will publish in the OFFICIAL REPORT a list, subject by subject, of the regulations under the Treaty of Rome which will apply in the United Kingdom if she joins the European Economic Community on present known

Mr. Rippon: Examination of acts of Mr. Rippon: Examination of acts of secondary legislation is part of the current negotiations and has not yet been completed. When the process of agreeing the texts of the adaptations required is completed, texts of all regulations in force, in English, will be made available to the House.

Mr. Clark Hutchison asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many regulations made under the provisions of the Treaty of Rome are now in force; and what number of these would apply in the United Kingdom if she joined the European Economic Community on the latest known terms.

Mr. Rippon: About 2,000 regulations are now in force. Regulations of the European Economic Community are of direct application in member States.

BLOOD SPORTS

Q8. Mr. William Price asked the Prime Minister how many letters he has received since 18th June on the subject of blood sports.

The Prime Minister: About 3,000.

MANAGEMENT EDUCATION

Q9. Mr. Douglas asked the Prime Minister if he is satisfied with the co-ordination of responsibilities between the Scottish Office and the Department of Education and Science with respect to management education, in relation to 30 K 9 courses leading to national examinations; and if he will make a statement.

The Prime Minister: Yes.

SECRETARY OF STATE FOR WALES (SPEECH)

Q10. Mr. Ray Hughes asked the Prime Minister if the public speech of the Secretary of State for Wales at Gateshead on 24th April on the Common Market represents the policy of Her Majesty's Government.

The Prime Minister : Yes.

SLOUGH

Q11. Miss Lestor asked the Prime Minister if he will pay an official visit to Slough.

The Prime Minister: I have at present no plans to do so.

SCHOOL MEALS

Q12. Dr. Gilbert asked the Prime Minister how many letters he has received supporting Her Majesty's Gov-ernment's decision to increase the price of school meals.

The Prime Minister: I would refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave on 6th May to a Question from the hon. Member for Newcastle-under-Lyme (Mr. Golding).—[Vol. 816, c. 444.]

PRIME MINISTER AND PRESIDENT OF FRANCE (MEETING)

Q14. Mr. Arthur Lewis asked the Prime Minister whether, during his forth-coming discussions with President Pompidou, he will discuss the possibility of creating a new European Community, open to any country in Europe, without any restrictions imposed on monetary action by member countries.

The Prime Minister: I would refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave yesterday to Questions from the hon. Member for Walthamstow, West (Mr. Deakins).—[Vol. 817, c. 228.]

DATE ... ISTH MAY

CO. 249 VOL 817

RECEIVED IN RIGISTRY No. 37 NWK 2/12 1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 313345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

17th May 1971

U. Mr. Michael Clark Eutohison (Edinburgh, South):
To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign
and Commonwealth Affairs, if he will publish in the Official Report a list, subject by subject, of the regulations under the Treaty
of Rome which will apply in the United Kingdom
if she joins the European Sconomic
Community on present known terms:

NO LW

MR. GEOFFREY RIPPON

Examination of acts of secondary legislation is part of the current negotiations and has not yet been completed. Then the process of agreeing the texts of the adaptations required is completed, texts of all regulations in force, in English, will be made available to the House.

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

17th May 1971

J. Mr. Michael Clark Autonison (Edinburgh, South):
To ask the secretary of State for Foreign
and Commonwealth Affairs, if he will publish
in the Official Report a list, subject by subject, of the regulations under the Treaty
of Rome which will apply in the United Kingdom
if she joins the European Economic Community on present known terms.

NO 4W

MR. GEOFFREY RIPPON

Examination of acts of secondary legislation is part of the current negotiations and has not yet been completed. Then the process of agreeing the texts of the adeptations required is completed, texts of all regulations in force, in English, will be made available to the House.

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 313345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the Terms and

Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

(9069) Dd.032652 3m 2/67 G.W.B.Ltd. Gp,863

PARLIAMENTARY QUESTION :

17th May 1971

for WRITTEN answer on

The draft reply should reach the Parliamentary Office through your Under-Secretary by

Man Enday 14

U. Mr. Michael Clark Hutchison (Edinburgh, South):
To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign
and Commonwealth Affairs, if he will publish
in the Official Report a list, subject by subject, of the regulations under the Treaty
of Rome which will apply in the United Kingdom
if she joins the European Economic
Community on present known terms.

Mr. Certies Rithon,

Examination of acts of secondary legislation is part of the current negotiations and has not yet been completed. When the process of agreeing the texts of the adaptations required is completed, texts of all regulations in force, in English, will be made available to the House.

Van

REFERENCES

Flag A 26 April Vol 816 Col 8

Flag B 22 February Vol 812 Col 10W

Flag C 22 February Vol 812 Col 13W

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Mr Ford 13/5 Parliamentary Unit

1. I submit a draft reply for the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster to use in answering a Question from Mr Michael Clark Hutchison which asks if he will publish

Community on present known terms.

2. The Question is for written answer on 17 May.

in the Official Report alist, subject by subject, of the regulations under the Treaty of Rome which will apply in the United Kingdom if she joins the European Economic

PRT Dain

13 May 1971

The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

279

Written Answers

18 MAY 1971

Written Answers

280

Economic Community; and how many of these were in favour and how many against Great Britain's entry.

Mr. Rippon: I have nothing to add to the reply which I gave to the hon. Gentleman on 10th May.—[Vol. 817, c. 23.]

Mr. Clark Hutchison asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will publish in the OFFICIAL REPORT a list, subject by subject, of the regulations under the Treaty of Rome which will apply in the United Kingdom if she joins the European Economic Community on present known terms.

Mr. Rippon: Examination of acts of secondary legislation is part of the current negotiations and has not yet been completed. When the process of agreeing the texts of the adaptations required is completed, texts of all regulations in force, in English, will be made available to the House.

Mr. Clark Hutchison asked the Scoretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many regulations made under the provisions of the Treaty of Rome are now in force; and what number of these would apply in the United Kingdom if she joined the European Economic Community on the latest known terms.

Mr. Rippon: About 2,000 regulations are now in force. Regulations of the European Economic Community are of direct application in member States.

BLOOD SPORTS

Q8. Mr. William Price asked the Prime Minister how many letters he has received since 18th June on the subject of blood sports.

The Prime Minister: About 3,000.

MANAGEMENT EDUCATION

O9. Mr. Douglas asked the Prime Minister if he is satisfied with the coordination of responsibilities between the Scottish Office and the Department of Education and Science with respect to management education, in relation to courses leading to national examinations; and if he will make a statement.

The Prime Minister: Yes.

SECRETARY OF STATE FOR WALES (SPEECH)

Olo, Mr. Roy Hughes asked the Prime Minister it the public speech of the Secretary of State for Wales at Gateshead on 24th April on the Common Market represents the policy of Her Majesty's Government.

The Prime Minister: Yes.

SLOUGH

Q11. Miss Lester asked the Prime Minister if he will pay an official visit to Slough.

The Prime Minister: I have at present no plans to do so.

SCHOOL MEALS

Q12. Dr. Gilbert asked the Prime Minister how many letters he has received supporting Her Majesty's Government's decision to increase the price of school meals.

The Prime Minister: I would refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave on 6th May to a Question from the hon, Member for Newcastle-under-Lyme (Mr. Golding).—[Vol. 816, c. 444.]

PRIME MINISTER AND PRESIDENT OF FRANCE (MEETING)

Q14. Mr. Arthur Lewis asked the Prime Minister whether, during his forthcoming discussions with President Pompidou, he will discuss the possibility of creating a new European Community, open to any country in Europe, without any restrictions imposed on monetary action by member countries.

The Prime Minister: I would refer the hon, Member to the answer I gave yesterday to Questions from the hon, Member for Watthinmstow, Went (Mr. Denkins), — [Vol. 817, c. 228.]

hiter tha

COI.. VOL. ...

RECEIVED IN REGISTATING
2 OMAY 1971

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

17th May 1971

U. Mr. Michael Clark Hutchison (Edinburgh, South): To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs, how many regulations made under the provisions of the Treaty of Rome are now in force; and what number of these would apply in the United Kingdom if she joined the European Economic Community on the latest known terms.

NO. 5W

MR. GLOFFREY RIPPON

About 2,000 regulations are new in force. Regulations of the European Lonomic Community are of direct application in Member States.

The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

17th May 1971

U. Mr. Michael Clark Hutchison (Edinburgh, South): To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs, how many regulations made under the provisions of the Treaty of Rome are now in force; and what number of these would apply in the United Kingdom if she joined the European Economic Community on the latest known terms.

NO. 5W

MR. GEOFFREY RIPPOM

About 2,000 regulations are new in force. Regulations of the European Economic Community are of direct application in Member States.

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 319345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

(9069) Dd.032652 3m 2/67 G.W.B.Ltd. Gp.863

PARLIAMENTARY QUESTION

17th May 1971

for WRITTEN answer on

The draft reply should reach the Parliamentary Office through your Under-Secretary by

Non Pinday 145

U. Mr. Michael Clark Hutchison (Edinburgh, South): To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs, how many regulations made under the provisions of the Treaty of Rome are now in force; and what number of these would apply in the United Kingdom if she joined the European Economic Community on the latest known terms.

Mr. Leoffrey Report,

About 2,000 regulations are now in force. Regulations of the European Economic Community are of direct application in Member States.

Kr

REFERENCES

Flag A 22 February Vol 812 Col 13W Flag B 22 February Vol 812 Col 10W Flag C 26 April Vol 816 Col 8 The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Mr Fora 13/5.
Parliamentary Unit

- 1. I submit a draft reply for the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster to use in answering a Question from Mr Michael Clark Hutchison which asks how many regulations made under the provisions of the Treaty of Rome are now in force and what number of these would apply in the United Kingdom if she joined the European Economic Community on the latest known terms.
- 2. The Question is for written answer on 17 May.
- indicates that by February this year, of some 8,000 regulations issued, about 2,000 were in force. About 500 are understood to have been made since then of which a similar proportion are self-extinguishing and have or will lapse after a finite period. As the process of attrition in the 2,000 regulations in force in February will have continued, it is unlikely that there has been any great overall increase in the number of regulations in force. The February estimate need not therefore be adjusted.

Mullimi PRT Dain

13 May 1971

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 1 2 Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Pw- legal > Conshhhumad. hupmahmis pa-HV

- 18/s

D AGREEMENT ON SECONDARY LEGISLATION AND AUTHANTIC ENGLISH TEXTS

Both the Group on Secondary Legislation and on Authentia English Texts will continue their work until the end of the year. On Secondary Legislation, technical adaptations are normally agreed within the Group, and reference to the Conference is only made when requests for transitional periods of more than 3 months for Regulations and more than 6 months for Directives are needed. Outstanding cases in this category are our request for 5 years for the application of the Directive on Drivers' hours and the elimination of an intermediary stage for the application of tachographs to new commercial vehicles. About a dozen small problems of this kind may have to be resolved between June and the end of 1971.

No particular problem is likely to arise in connection with the agreement on Authentic English Texts, beyond the sheer magnitude of the task in terms of the number of documents to be re-translated.

> 19MAY1971 MWK 14/12

The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' to the National

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions: Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

E NEGOTIATION ON AN INTERIM PERIOD BETWEEN SIGNATURE AND RATIFICATION

Officials in Whitehall, and, independently, a Group within the Commission of the European Community are studying this problem, which arises for the need to provide the candidate countries with some say in what the Community does between signature of a Treaty of Accession and its entry into force. One possible formula being considered in London is the creation of an interim Council of Ministers, an interim Committee of Permanent Representatives and the extension of the mandate of the Secondary Legislation Group to study Community Legislation in draft, The Interim Council of Ministers should have the power to relegate Legislation unacceptable to one or other of the candidate countries to a special category, so that acts passed in such a category are reviewed within six months after the accession of new member states, or if they are not so reviewed, they would automatically lapse.

1 2 cms	The National Archives ins 1	2
Ref.: FCO	30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that you use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

F RECOTIATION ON THE PARTICIPATION OF NEW DEMBER STATES IN THE COMMUNITY INSTITUTIONS

This is likely to be a formal hegotiation to review the proportion of places allocated to new members in the Community's institutions.

1	1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1	364 d	2	c	m	S	3.						100	TI	16		٧	at	tic	01	18	ıl	A	rc	h	ì١	re	S				S.	100	0.00	6.876	100	in	s	T			1				1 1	T		2
	1	Re	of.			-	C	c)		3	C	>			1			l	2	1	1	8						100	100			10 Car	0.000				1	7.5%	31	7	1	3 1	4	5	1		150

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

MEGOTIATION ON THE DRAFTING OF THE INSTRUMENTS OF ACCUSSION

is The work of the drafting Committee consisting of lawyers from each candidate state and the member states. Although the Community are divided on this point, it is possible that they may enquire, within the drafting Group, about the nature of domestic legislation which each member state proposes to enact to give effect to the Treaty of Accession.

The National Archives FCO 30 -1-1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Written Auswer's

12 MAY 1971

Written Answers

HOME DEPARTMENT

Probation Service

Mr. Fowler asked the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many probation officers were recruited in England and Wales in the years 1965, 1966, 1967, 1968, 1969, and 1970, respectively; and how many probation officers resigned from the service prior to retirement in these years.

Mr. Carlisle: 328 in 1965 and subsequently 311, 365, 396, 419 and 430. The respective numbers for resignations were 142, 119, 132, 132, 167 and 190.

Buckoke and Others v. G.L.C.

Buckoke and Others v. G.E.C.

Mr. Clinton Davis asked the Secretary of State for the Home Department if he has now considered the judgment of the Court of Appeal in Buckoke and Others versus the Greater London Council, if he will introduce amending Jegislation to enable drivers of fire appliances, ambulances and police vehicles to be exempt from prosecution when disobeying robot traffic signals while on emergency calls and when it is safe so to do; and if he will make a statement.

Mr. Sharples: My right hop Friend.

Mr. Sharples: My right hon. Friend is considering the implications of the judgment in consultation with my right hon. Friends, the Secretaries of State for Social Services, for Scotland and for the Environment Environment.

FOREIGN AND COMMONWEALTH AFFAIRS

European Economic Community

Mr. Marten asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether, if Great Britain joins the Common Market, the residual national contributions will be replaced from 1975 onwards by up to 1 per cent. of the receipts from a value-added tax or by a 1 per cent, value-added tax.

Mr. Anthony Royle: The present system calls on the present member states of the Community for a financial contribution from 1975 which may not exceed 1 per cent. of the receipts from a value-added tax.

Her Majesty's Government will con-form with the financial system of the 29 0 5

Community by the end of the transitional period agreed in the negotiations.

Mr. W. H. K. Baker asked the Secretar Mr. W. H. K. Baker asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what consultations he has had with the Governments of South Africa, Canada, Norway, Iceland and Denmark with regard to Articles 17, to 21 of R 2142/70 of the European Economic Community fisheries policy; and if he will make a statement.

Mr. Rippon: There have been no consultations with the Governments of South Africa and Canada on this subject. We have had contacts with the Governments of Denmark and Norway, who have also applied for membership of the European Economic Community, on matters of mutual interest arising out of the European Economic Community fisheries policy generally. We are also in regular contact with the Government of Iceland as a fellow member of E.F.T.A.

Mr. Arthur Lewis asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether he is aware that the Danish Goyernment have now agreed to hold a referendum on whether or not Denmark should enter the Common Market: and whether, in view of this new information, he will reconsider the question of Great Britain holding a similar referendum and arrange to have discussions with the Danish Government to ascertain how and in what way, they are to hold their referendum and to see to what extent a similar type of consultation with the people can be organised in Great with the people can be organised in Great Britain.

Mr. Anthony Royle: Arrangements for referenda in other countries on entry into the European Economic Community have no relevance to the position in this country. In arriving at a decision on terms agreed in the British negotiations with the European Economic Community established constitutional processes will be followed. be followed.

Mr. Arthur Lewis asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether, in addition to Parliaments of member States being enabled to debate issues for decisions in the Community before decisions are taken in the institution of the Community, the Parliaments of member States are also enabled

RECEIVED W REGISTRY No. 37 17 MAY 198 7WK 2/12

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Written Answers

12 MAY 1971

Written Answers

to debate and change their decisions after the Community and/or its institutions have reached a decision on any matter.

Mr. Anthony Royle? It would be open to Parliament to debate Community legislation after it has been made by the institutions of the Community. If Parliament approves instruments of accession to the Treaties of the Community, these and accompanying United Kingdom legislation would determine the rôle of Parliament in relation to Community legislation. legislation.

Mr. Elyslan Morgan asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will recommend the setting up of a Royal Commission to investigate the amount of moneys spent in Great Britain on advertisements in the Press advocating Great Britain's entry into the European Economic Community during the last 12 months.

Mr. Anthony Royle: No.

North Atlantic Assembly (United Kingdom Representatives)

Mr. Peel asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will publish in the OFFICIAL REPORT a list of the United Kingdom representatives on the North Atlantic Assembly.

Mr. Anthony Royle: The following represent the United Kingdom on the North Atlantic Assembly:

North Atlantic Assembly:

From the Government benches:
The hon. Members for:
Leicester, South?East (Mr. Peel).
Cheltenham (Mr. Dodds-Parker),
Beckeinham (Mr. Goodhart).
Bute and North Ayrshire (Sir Fitzroy Maclean).
Winchester (Rear Admiral MorganGiles).
Haltemprice (Mr. Wall).
Baroness Elliot of Harwood.
Lord St. Helens.
Lord Stratheona and Mount Royal.

From the Labour Party:
The right hon. Member for Kettering (Sir. G. de Freitas).
The right hon. Member for Aberavon (Mr. Morris).

The hon, Members for: ne aon, Memors for, Newark (Mr. Bishop). Kirkdale (Mr. Dunn). Huddersfield, West (Mr. Lomas). Lord Atwyn. Lord Wynne-Jones. From the Liberal Party: The hon. Member for Montgomery (Mr. Hooson). Viscount Norwich.

SOCIAL SERVICES

Census

Mr. Arthur Lewis asked the Secretary of State for Social Services whether, in view of the information supplied to him by the hon. Member for West Hum. North, he will give an assurance that all persons living on boats; houseboats and other vessels moored on rivers, lakes, canals and the Norfolk Broads have received and filled in their Census forms.

Sir K. Joseph: Returns from Census field staff are not yet complete. A report on the coverage achieved by this Census will be made to Parliament in the normal

Mr. Arthur Lewis asked the Secretary of State for Social Services whether he will cause an investigation to be made to ascertain to what extent Census enumerators broke their oaths of secrecy in divulging to any unauthorised persons or organisations details which should not have been passed on to any person or organisation other than the Census Office; and what action he has taken, or intends taking, in each instance, except in the case in which proceedings have been issued.

Sir K. Joseph: Unlawful disclosure of any information acquired in the course of his employment as a Census enumerator would be a breach of the enumerator's undertaking. This is covered in the Census Regulations, 1970, and does not require investigation. Any such occurrence would be dealt with under these regulations. regulations.

Hospital Advisory Service (Annual Report)

Dr. Trafford asked the Secretary of State for Social Services when the first annual report of the National Health Advisory Service will be published; and if he will make a statement.

Sir K. Joseph: The Report is published today by Her Majesty's Stationery Office and copies have been placed in the Library of the House.

11th May 1971

La. Mr. Arthur Lawis (Wast Ham, North): To ask the Sacratary of State for Forsign and Commonwealth Affairs, whether, in addition to Parliaments of member states being enabled to debate issues for decision in the Community before decisions are taken in the institution of the Community, the Parliaments of member states are also enabled to debate and change their decisions after the Community and/or its institutions have reached a decision on any matter.

NO. 54W

MR. ANTHONY ROYLE

It would be open to Parliament to debate Community legislation after it has been made by the institutions of the Community. If Parliament approves instruments of accession to the Treaties of the Communities, these and accompanying United Kingdom legislation would determine the role of Parliament in relation to Community legislation.

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions, Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

11th May 1971

La. Mr. Arthur Lewis (West Ham, North): To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs, whether, in addition to Perliaments of member states being enabled to debate issues for decision in the Community before decisions are taken in the institution of the Community, the Parliaments of member states are also enabled to debate and change their decisions after the Community and/or its institutions have reached a decision on any matter.

NO. 54W

MR. ANTHONY ROYLE

It would be open to Parliament to debate Community legislation after it has been made by the institutions of the Community. If Parliament approves instruments of accession to the Treaties of the Communities, these and accompanying United Kingdom legislation would determine the role of Parliament in relation to Community legislation.

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

PARLIAMENTARY QUESTION

QUESTION
The draft reply should reach the Parliamental Office through your Under-Secretary by

Ser ORAL answer on ...

542

*La. Mr. Arthur Lewis (West Ham, North): To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs, whether, in addition to Parliaments of member states being enabled to debate issues for decision in the Community before decisions are taken in the institution of the Community, the Parliaments of member states are also enabled to debate and change their decisions after the Community and/or its institutions have reached a decision on any matter.

Mr. Arthony Poule,

It would be open to Parliament to debate Community legislation after it has been made by the institutions of the Community. If Parliament approves instruments of accession to the Treaties of the Communities, these and accompanying United Kingdom legislation would determine the role of Parliament in relation to Community legislation.

SREFERENCES

Flag A / L May Vol 816 Col 362w

Flag B 10 May draft submission in answer to Mr Lewis

Flag C 12 May draft submission in answer to Mr Lewis

The National Archives 30 / 1048

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Parliamentary Unit

I submit a draft reply for Nr Royle to use in answering " a Question from Mr Arthur Dewis which asks whether, in addition to Parliaments of member states being enabled to debate issues for decision in the Community before decisions are taken in the institution of the Community, the Parliaments of member states are also enabled to debate and change their decisions after the Community and/or its institutions have reached a decision on any matter.

2. The Question is for oral answer on 11 May, but will not be reached.

3. The Question appears to arise out of an answer given in the House to Mr Lewis by the Lord President of the Council on Flags B & C 4 May, and is one of a sequence of Questions by Mr Lewis about the rights of Parliament in relation to EEC legislation.

4. The draft answer has been cleared with the Legal Advisers.

A H Brind European Lategration Department

10 May 1971

Flag A

The National Archives ins 1 1 2

Ref:: FCO 36 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

71

Written Answers

10 MAY-1971

Weitten Answers 22

EW

FOREIGN AND COMMONWEALTH AFFAIRS

European Economic Community

83. Mr. Ronald King Murray asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether, in light of the conditional and permissive character of the provisions of regional policy contained in Article 92(3) of the Treaty of Rome, he will seek an explicit declaration by the Six, prior to British entry, about their future intentions in this field.

Mr. Rippon: No.

Mr. Deakins asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what steps he is taking in negotiations with the European Economic Community to ensure the continuance of the International Sugar-Agreement in the event of the United Kingdom joining the European Economic Community.

Mr. Rippon: The continuation of the International Sugar Agreement of 1968 does not depend upon Britain's negotiations with the European Economic Community.

Mr. Arthur Lewis asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs when he expects to have the response from the European Economic Community on his proposals for some form of continuing arrangements, subject to review, so far as New Zealand's exports of dairy products are concerned; and whether he will publish this reply in the Official Report.

Mr. Rippon: We hope the Community will be in a position to reply in the near future. The details must remain confidential during the negotiations but I shall keep the House informed of developments.

Mr. Arthur Lewis asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether he will explain in more detail the type of sheepmeat regulation affecting exports of lamb, which would be unfavourable to New Zealand, and which would necessitate him reopening the matter with the countries of the Six.

Mr. Rippon: We have consistently emphasised to the Community the extreme dependence of New Zealand on her exports of certain products, including lamb. I do not think it would be useful to speculate in detail on a future regulation. If, however, the Community proposed to introduce a regulation which would inflict serious damage on New Zealand exports of lamb to an enlarged Community, this would have to be raised with them.

Mr. Arthur Lewis asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether he will make a statement giving full details as to how Parliament will continue to exercise Sovereign powers in most areas of policy, except those delegated to European institutions on Great Britain's entry into the European Economic Community; on what basis of Parliamentary consent these delegated opwers to European institutions will be arranged; and whether British Members of Parliament will have the right to participate in the day-to-day work of all of these European institutions.

Mr. Rippon: If we enter the European Economic Community, Parliament will, in most areas of policy, continue to exercise its powers in the same way as it does today.

After our accession it would be open to our Parliament, as it is to the Parliaments of other member States, to debate, before their enactment, those Community instruments to be submitted by the Commission to the Council of Ministers for approval. We shall be represented in all the Community institutions; including the European Parliament.

Mr. Arthur Lewis asked the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will seek to hold an official meeting with the Prime Minister of New Zealand so as to discuss with him the results of recent meetings between him and the governments of the European Economic Community countries, in particular France.

Mr. Rippon: Neither my right hon, Friend nor I have immediate plans to do so. The position was discussed in full with Sir Keith Holyoake during his recent visit to London and the process of consultation with the New Zealand authorities will continue.

RECEIVED IN
POWNO.37
12 12 1971

MUK 412

DATE lo may 71

COL 22

VOL 817

husteren tous

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

10th May 1971

La. Mr. Arthur Lewis (.est Ham, North): To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs, whether he will make a statement giving full details as to how Parliament will continue to exercise Sovereign repowers in most areas of policy, except those delegated to European institutions on Great Britain's entry into the European Economic Community; on what basis of Parliamentary consent those delogated powers to European institutions will be arranged; and whether British Members of Parliament will have the right to participate in the day-to-day work of all of these European institutions.

NO. 29W

MR. GEOFFREY RIPPON

If we enter the European Economic Community Parliament will, in most areas of policy, continue to exercise its powers in the same way as it does today.

After our accession it would be open to our Parliament, as it is to the Parliaments of other member States, to debate, before their enactment, those Community instruments to be submitted by the Commission to the Council of Ministers for approval. To shall be represented in all the Community institutions, including the European Parliament.

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1018 31.3345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

10th May 1971

La. Mr. Arthur Lewis (lest Ham, North): To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs, whether he will make a statement giving full details as to how Parliament will continue to exercise Sovereign of powers in most areas of policy, except those delegated to European institutions on Great Britain's entry into the European Economic Community; on what basis of Parliamentary consent these delegated powers to European institutions will be arranged; and whether British Members of Parliament will have the right to participate in the day-to-day work of all of these European institutions.

NO. 29W

MR. GEOFFREY RIPPON

If we enter the European Economic Community Parliament will, in most areas of policy, continue to exercise its powers in the same way as it does today.

After our accession it would be open to our Parliament, as it is to the Parliaments of other member States, to debate, before their enactment, those Community instruments to be submitted by the Commission to the Council of Ministers for approval. The shall be represented in all the Community institutions, including the European Parliament.

1	2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2
	Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345
DI	note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Foreign and Commonwealth Office

Amale Secretary

We assure is long but will not be reached.

Morddenness
7 May 1971.

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your bject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Mr Ford ON Parliamentary Unit

- 1. I submit a draft reply for the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster to use in answering a Question from Mr Arthur Lewis, which asks whether he will make a statement giving full details as to how Parliament will continue to exercise Sovereign powers in most areas of policy, except those delegated to European institutions on Great Britain's entry into the EEC; on what basis of Parliamentary consent will these delegated powers to European. institutions be arranged; and whether British Members of Parliament will have the right to participate in the day-to-day work of all of these European institutions.
- The Question is for oral answer on 10 May, but will not be taken orally and no notes for supplementaries are required.
- The draft answer has been cleared with the Legal Advisers.

Ansino

European Integration Department

7 May 1971

M de Winton Esq Law Officer's Department K Newman Esq Lord Chancellor's Office

I have sent a copy to the. Lord fresident's offer.

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

PARLIAMENTARY QUESTION

for ORAL answer on

10th May 1971

The draft reply should reach the Parliamentary Office through your Under-Secretary by

Noon Ahmiday 6/5

*La. Mr. Arthur Lewis (West Ham, North): To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs, whether he will make a statement giving full details as to how Parliament will continue to exercise Sovereign powers in most areas of policy, except those delegated to European institutions on Great Britain's entry into the European Economic Community; on what basis of Parliamentary consent will these delegated powers to Etropean institutions be arranged; and whether British Members of Parliament will have the right to participate in the day-to-day work of all of these European institutions.

Mr. Coffee Pithon,

If we enter the EEC Parliament will, in most areas of policy, continue to exercise its powers in the same way as it does today.

In respect of those areas in which the LTC has powers under the Treaty of Rome HMG will, efficured, if the negotiations are successful, bring before Parliament the instruments of accession, the Treaties and the secondary legislation relating to them will also be available to this House. There will then be a full debate and decision by Parliament on the locues involved.

after our accession it will be open to our Farliament; as it is to the Farliaments of other member States, to debate, before their enactment, those Community instruments to be submitted by the Commission to the Council of Ministers for approval. We shall, of course, be represented in all the (13523) Dd.643721 3m 1/70 G.W.B.Ld Co.863 Community institutions, including the Europe an Parliament.

2 cms	The National Archives	ins 1
Ref.: FCO	30 / 1048	31234	15

Pw Legal : Constitutional templications Reference.....10# 7 May 1971 Mr. I.T. Steven "Ratification" of Community Decisions (EEC Treaty, Articles 108(2)(c), 138(3), 201) I should like to draw your attention to an interesting Commission Reply to Written Question No. 479/70 by Mr. Droscher (OJ No. C 39/23, 24 April 1971). The text is enclosed. 2. The Reply deals with the powers of national parliaments and authorities in relation to the implementation of Community acts. The term "ratification" is used - wrongly, but as it is often used on the continent - in the sense of parliamentary approval. 3. It is interesting that according to the Reply intervention by national authorities is required in the case of credits to be granted under Article 108(2)(c) but not, it seems, of other forms of mutual assistance rendered under the last subparagraph of Article 108(2). Alexander Elkin KCS Room 347A Ext. 502 Mr. A.D. Watts Mr. I.M. Sinclair Mr. M.A. Marshall RECEIVED IN REGISTRY No. 37

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

OJ No. C 39 - 24.4.71 C 39/23

WRITTEN QUESTION No. 479/70

from Mr. Droscher

at the Commission of the European Communities

(27 January 1971)

Subject: Ratification of Community Decisions

During the course of the next few years the European Community will have to take decisions on the future development of the Communities, in particular as regards the economic and monetary union, which will relate to a large extent to matters which until now have come within the legislative jurisdiction of the national parliaments (tax harmonisation, etc.). Measures taken by Community institutions will initially have to be ratified by the national parliaments.

The uncertainty as to whether a Community measure should or should not be ratified could create difficulties and delays in the integration process, although the omission of ratification procedures could further jeopardise the parliamentary system of the Communities. Therefore, the European Parliament should be able to reach agreement in time on these matters with the national parliaments.

Is the Commission ready, in order to follow up this question, to compile a list of all the Community measures which will be subject to ratification by the national parliaments during the next two years?

REPLY

(6 April 1971)

Apart from rare exceptions (Article 108 (2) (c), Article 138 (3) and Article 201 of the EEC Treaty) the legal acts which the Community institutions are empowered to adopt in pursuance of the Treaties do not require intervention on the part of the national authorities in order to produce binding effects within the Member States. As a result, their entry into force is not dependent either on approval by the national parliaments or on ratification by the state authorities having the appropriate powers.

Doubtless, the enforcement of obligations arising for each Member State from measures adopted by Community institutions may call for internal implementing provisions, but when the national authorities adopt such provisions they only possess limited powers which are very different from the extensive discretionary powers exercised by national parliaments when they authorise the ratification of treaties.

4.11	FIRE STREET
1	2 cms	The National Archives ins	1 1 2
1	Ref.: FCC	30 / 1048	312345
Dian	se note that this co	ov legitabling rubbactes the National Archives because in lease note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

OJ No. C 39 - 24.4.71 C 39/ 23

In theory, the implementation of Community measures in the Member States is entrusted to the competent state bodies having powers according to the allocation of powers under the national constitutions. Since the constitutions of the various Member States do not allot legislative and executive powers in the same way it is very difficult to determine in an overall fashion for all the Member States which Community measures require ratification by Parliament.

The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions, Further information is given in the Terms and

Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Mr Steven See which roulist,
Mr Warts has been - See remate H

I should be grateful for your urgent observations on the PQ. It follows Mr Lewis's earlier Questions in this field. I attach the draft submission for the Question answered on 4 May for reference.

Enter

The first part of the Question could possibly be answered as follows:-

"It is open to Parliaments of Member States to debate issues for decision in the Community before decisions are taken in the Community. Thereafter, HMG, as a member of the Community will be able to express views in the formulation of decisions. Many decisions, including those in key areas must be agreed unanimously. After membership, British Members of Parliament will take part in the proceedings of the European Parliament and Great Britain will be represented in the other Community Institutions."

I am aware that this provides only the flimsiest answer to the middle part of the Question about the basis of Parliamentary consent for the delegation of powers to the Community. This would possibly be covered by reviving as an additional second sentence in the answer the words (or a variation of them) proposed at one time by Mr Newman of the Lord Chancellor's Office viz:-

But approval by Parliament of Instruments of Accession to the Treaties of the Communities necessarily implies a willingness on the part of Parliament to exercise certain restraints in the use of its constitutional powers.

Alternatively, if formulae give away too much perhaps the following attention name wight he a letter have:

'If the negotiations succeed and HMG brings before Parliament Instruments of Accession to the Treaties of the Communities these will clarify the extent to which Parliament's prerogatives will be affected by membership and will be subject of full debate and decision in Parliament.

P R T Dain

6 May 1971

In Daix raft auswer is out altrituing The frist oraft auswer is out altrituing auto sulculture court since only verisions and the Corneil will to open In by the Commission to the Commission to the Commission to delate. This the Parliaments of the Louision and The white exclusion acts by the Commission and The white

RECEIVED IN
REGISTRY No. 37
10MAY 1971
MAK 2/12

The National Archives ins 1 2

Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

The Junsprovence of the Dew pear Count hor do I think it is accessary to him rie the Alatement suspended by his human in lowerthin us the austin P.Q., esmech though that may be -

2. On the whole I proper the final oraft cliphy amended and expanded as provis

If the negotiationis succeed, 1449 will truis to fre Parkamuel He unshimmets of accession; and the meaties and the Eurousary lesistation relating to there will also he available to their House. There will Hen he a full selate and decision by Pachament on the issues involved after wentership it will be open to our Parliament, as it is to the Paliament of The member 8/alis, to delate, hope their enachment, those Community meshinication to be Luliui Ked by the Commission to the Council of huisistees for approval. We shall of course he represented in all the Community bustitutions -

Switch C. P. Switcher with the Walts

lft . aumor

truler

Bru V.

1	2 cms	The National Archives	ins 1 1	1 2
3	Ref.: FCO	30 / 1048	312345
	of the way have his there.		A A STATE OF THE S	Control of

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that you use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

receive.	54
hn Araus
Luliul: louswature Eroup's	papu
to any to A	2. Suelai
Em winch of 24 April a	u ŝ
I while agree and to which willing to ave-
A. Leven
Mr. 1. M. Luiclain
H. H. Morland
REGISTARY NO DIT
	/

	1 1			74 A. A	and a soning		Frai vill		7. 6		112
1	2	cms		The Nation	ial Archiv	/es	13.6	ins	1	Ŷĸ,		2
1	Ref.	· FC	o 3	0/1	048				3122	45	7
	بنا				and the second		1 0 0	agelogic globales Transport	se here and		5000 A	建設

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

(5.3)

Mr Adams (European Communities Information Unit)

1. Please refer to your minute of 29 April addressed to Mr Morland enclosing a copy of the draft paper on Sovereignty prepared by IRD for the eventual use of the Conservative Group for Europe.

2. I have a number of comments on particular passages which I will set out seriatim:-

(a) I think that the argumentation at lines 6-11 on page 3 is a little bit dangerous. It is certainly going too far to indicate that the Community has not tried to deny that Member States have a right of withdrawal; the whole concept of the Treaty of Rome is to establish a permanent Community and any admission that there is a right of withdrawal for individual Member States would be inconsistent with this fundamental concept. I would suggest that lines 6-11 on page 3 be replaced by the following:-

"Its only basis is the provision that the Treaty of Rome is of indefinite duration and contains no provision for withdrawal. But there are other treaties which are likewise unlimited in time and confer no specific right of withdrawal (e.g. United Nations Charter). The intention of the Treaty of Rome is of course to establish a permanent Community sharing common rambs and aspirations and seeking common goals: to recognise any right of withdrawal would be inconsistent with this fundamental principle, but of course it goes without saying that the Community could not compel a Member State to remain within the Community system if there was a change of circumstances so fundamental as to place in jeopardy the principles and purposes on which the Treaty of Rome is based."

(b) In the tenth line on page 4 I would suggest deletion of the words "by majority vote". The internal deliberations of the Court of Justice are secret. It pronounces one single judgment with no dissenting judgments. It is indeed true that some judgments may be adopted by majority vote but the absence of dissenting judgments is such a feature of the Caurt's procedure that it would be unwise to stress that the Court comes to its decision by majority vote.

EGISTRY ICA -

nwk 2/12

_ 1 -

The National Archives FCO 30 Ref.: 1 1048 312345 Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your

use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

> I am dubious about the last sentence of the third paragraph on page 4 (lines 21-25). I am not sure what is meant by the phrase "in reality they are strictly limited". I would suggest, as an alternative, something on the following lines:

> > "Superficially these may appear far reaching powers but, in practice, they are, and can be, exercised only after a lengthy process of consultation with outside bodies process of consultation with outside bodies and with other Community organs. In any event all basic regulations and directives have to be adopted by the Council of Ministers which, as already noted, consists of representatives of national governments who vote on all Community policies in accordance with their Government's views."

The first paragraph under the sub-head "Policy Voting Procedure" (bottom of page 4 and top of page 5) is not, I think, entirely accurate. The position is not that the voting provisions of the Treaty have been virtually suspended; it is rather that the practice of unanimity has continued even although, on certain matters, the Treaty now provides for qualified majority voting. I wonder if I can suggest something on the following (d) if I can suggest something on the following lines:-

"Although the original terms of the Treaty of Rome continue to apply, the voting procedure in the Council of Ministers does not at present accurately reflect those terms. In view of the predictions of immediate and irreversible predictions of immediate and irreversible losses of sovereignty made by opponents of Britain's entry, it may be noted that, in this case, the voting provisions of the Treaty have not been strictly applied since 1965 when one Member State - France - raised objection to the changeover on certain matters, from unanimity to qualified majority voting."

I may say that I am not entirely happy even with this alternative version; another possible alternative would simply be to delete altogether the paragraph which begins at the bottom of page 4 and continues at the top of page 5.

(e) I find the phrase "while possible under a strictly legalistic reading of the Rome Treaty" at lines 9-10 on page 6 inaccurate and slightly objectionable; I would prefer it to be replaced by "while wholly &consistent with the provisions of the Treaty of Rome."

The National Archives 30 / 1048 FCO Ref.: 312345 Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that you use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets The sentence beginning "many of our existing Treaty obligations ..." at lines 11-14 of page 7 goes too far. Agreements like the GATT do not involve restrictions on the sovereignty of Parliament as Britain's sole law giver; rather, they require Parliament to exercise restraint by not enacting provisions inconsistent with existing Tréaty obligations. I would prefer the sentence to read:-"There are other international agreements such as the General Agreement on Tariffs on Trades (GATT), the European Convention on Human Rights and the United Nations Charter which impose certain restraints on the powers of Parliament if Britain is to apply with the Treaty obligations which it has

> (g) I am a little dubious about the last two sentences in the first full paragraph on page 8 (lines 12-18). I would suggest an alternative on the following lines:-

assumed".

"Moreover, these EEC powers are extercisable essentially in relation to industrial and commercial concerns, and/to individuals in their private capacities. So far as Community law directly affects individuals in their private capacities it confers rights rather than imposes obligations.
Thus, an individual or undertaking is entitled to challenge the validity of any Community decision addressed to him on the grounds that the Community institution has misused its powers".

I would like to omit reference to the possibility that a Member State can become a party to the proceedings in these circumstances; although this is true, it is in fact unusual for Member States to intervene in proceedings brought by an individual challenging the validity of a Community decision.

If Smeir

I M Sinclair Legal Advisers K166 MA654

copied to Mr Morland Mr Steven

/not

30 April 1971

1 2 cms The National Archives ins 1 2 Ref.: FCO 30 / 1048 312345

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your

Please note that this copy is supplied subject to the National Archives' terms and conditions and that your use of it may be subject to copyright restrictions. Further information is given in the 'Terms and Conditions of supply of the National Archives' leaflets

Mr Morland (EID)

1. As you will see from Mr Tucker's mimute below, the Conservative Group for Europe want to publish a pamphlet on Sovereignty. IRD have produced a first draft of this, and I should be grateful for your comments as soon as possible. I realize that we do not want to falsify the Sovereignty issue or give our future Community partners the idea that we are frightened to commit ourselves in this respect. But you will also be aware of the Conservative Group for Europe's wish to play down this issue as far as possible and reassure those people in Parliament and in the country who get emotional about loss of Sovereignty.

W J Adams
European Communities
Information Unit

29 April 1971

Copied to:

Mr Sinclair (Legal Advisor)
Mr Steven (EID)

RECEIVED IN REGISTRY No. 37